KEEP BEFORE THE PEOPLE!

It is urged by the Democratic organs that the law is to be enforced in State and municipal elections. This is done to make it more obnoxious, if that is possible, to their party.

When the rebellious Traitors are overwhelmed in the Field, and scattered like leaves before an angry wind, it must not be to return to Peaceful and Contented Homes. THEY MUST FIND POVERTY AT THEIR FIRESIDES, AND SEE PRIVATION IN THE ANXIOUS EYES OF MOTHERS AND THE RAGS OF CHILDREN.

"I hold our Government bound by its duty of protecting our citizens in their fundamental rights, to pass and enforce laws for the extirpation of the execrable Ku Klux conspiracy; and if it has not the power to do it, then I say our Government is no Government, but a sham."

An infamous article, with the above title appeared in the Raleigh Standard, in 1868, which was immediately repudiated by the proprietors of the paper, and the writer discharged.

"I have listened with unmitigated horror to some of the testimony which has been brought before you. The outrages proceed as shockingly a humanity; they admit of neither excuse or justification; they violate every obligation which law and nature impose upon men; they show that the parties engaged were brutish, insensible to the obligations of humanity and religion."

MR. GREELEY continues his "swing around the circle." Every day, almost, papers friendly to the cause he is now espousing, have cautioned him under various guises to be very careful what he said.

his genial heart boiling over with love for the vast Democratic majority of the unhappy State, forgot himself, and as a very egotist, said these words: "We did not tear and rend each other; we did not destroy; prisoners were not unjustly treated; but I really believe the people on both sides meant to treat them with humanity so far as they could do so, and where cruelties took place they were not understood to be approved by the great body of the people North or South."

So Mr. Greeley has made his apology for the Andersonville outrages, and the equally terrible treatment of "Yankee Soldiers" in North Carolina and elsewhere. We have no desire to go over that bloody record, or to recount its horrors. We believe in letting the past alone, but we cannot listen to such whining surrenders of the honor of our Federal army and allow it to pass unrebuked.

The Southern Press are crying out "frauds" again. This time, they say the Republicans are colonizing "negroes" in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana to carry the elections.

Will they all come from Virginia and Kentucky? Where will the money come from, to move enough and support them three weeks? It would take a million of dollars and is of no use.

The Tribune's Campaign Slanders. The New York Times prints the following list of libels upon the administration and members of the Republican party put in circulation by the New York Tribune since the beginning of the canvass, and successfully refuted by the parties accused:

- 1. That General Grant was presented a cottage by Thomas Murphy.
2. That General Grant was corruptly interested in the Black Friday gold conspiracy.
3. That Mr. Andrew D. White, President of Cornell University, was guilty of packing committees with a corrupt intent during his Presidency of the Republican State convention at Syracuse in September, 1871.
4. That Attorney General Barlow had entered into a bargain with the ring thieves.
5. That the President had bought up the New York Staats Zeitung.
6. That Speaker Blaine was engaged in bribing the voters of Maine, and that Maine will be richer by "hundreds of thousands of dollars" for the late canvass.
7. That the proprietors of the Times had entered into an agreement with Connolly and Judge McCunn(!) for the distribution of Federal offices(!).
8. That the editor of the Times had been indicted by the grand jury in Kilpatrick's case.
9. That the arrest of Lindsay was part of a deep and dark conspiracy on the part of the editors of the Times.
10. That General Banks' brother had been removed from the custom house by orders of General Grant.
11. That Henry Clews was concerned in the negotiation of railroad bonds whose issue was illegal, and whose charter was fraudulent.
12. That J. Russell Jones, of Galena, made a present of thirty-one acres of land to President Grant, and got the Belgian mission in return.
13. That twelve of the most prominent Republicans in the United States Senate and House of Representatives, including Vice President Galloway, Senators Wilson and Speaker Blaine, and in addition to these, the Secretary of the Treasury, were parties to a colossal piece of bribery intended for the benefit of the credit mobilier of the Union Pacific railroad.

A young man went to Louisville the other day who was so happy at the idea of seeing the exposition, that he drank rather more than the policemen thought proper, and they took him to the jail.

EDITORIAL SUGGEST.

The Convention of "Old Catholics" now being held in Memphis, well attended. Many ladies were present. Forrester charges with the murder of Nathan, has been discharged, there not being sufficient evidence to warrant his detention. So the great mystery remains still impenetrable. The six hundred misguided souls who believe Mormonism and Salt Lake City to be the home of rest, are now laden on an emigrant train, and are rushing toward their destination. Miss Phoebe Cousins has been admitted to the Bar in the District Court at Salt Lake City. An address of welcome was delivered by Judge McKean and the hearty congratulations of the members of the profession were extended to the new aspirant.

Nobody charges Grant with having anything to do with the Nathan murder. This is strange. The Greeleyites all consider Nast a failure as a caricaturist. They see no point in his pictures.

"The bland and baby faced, but blphemous old buffett," is what an exchange irreverently terms Dr. Greeley. Like the news of Grant's victories during the war, the returns from Maine each day grown better with the receipt of the full details.

Has the Chicago Tribune forgotten itself? It compared the wounded heroes at Pittsburg to, beggars exhibiting their sores to make stuns. The movement to withdraw Greeley encounters the greatest opposition from Greeley himself. He isn't so much "in the hands of his friends" as he was.

The Missouri Republican says with grim humor: "We are willing to accept the result of the Vermont and Maine elections as warning to the Democrats and Liberals that greater effort is needed than they have thus far made."

General Basil Duke is in for anything to beat Greeley. Prentice once said that if you were to knock Duke on the head you would knock John Morgan's brains out; but the above shows that either Prentice lied or that Duke makes a better use of Morgan's brains than Morgan could himself.

An Invitation. As a specimen of Southern literature and hospitality, the following poem, called "An Invitation," and published in the Rome (Ga.) Courier in 1861 by William Howe, is a good illustration: Come, Mr. Greeley, come to the South—The land you have led and re-led on You can lower your chin and open your mouth.

Bring old Granny Giddings, blustering Hale, Fred Douglass and Henry Ward Beecher, And negro thief Hyatt, from Washington jail, And Sumner, the Devils own preacher. Come, bring all your friends, so godly and good, Who rob, kill and burn for the freedom Of blacks who despise the contemptible brood, And can find better friends when they need 'em.

Blackwood, whom we take to be perhaps a Scotch Worth, is quoted by an American paper as saying that "the gown is only one element of a well-dressed woman." Blackwood is certainly right. A woman wearing nothing but a gown would hardly be considered well-dressed anywhere, excepting, perhaps in the Sandwich Islands, where, as the Earl of Pembroke tells us in his charming book, the full costume of young ladies consists of a wreath of flowers and a spotted white muslin saque or night-gown.
