"The war was fought in vain," he said, "unless equal rights for all classes be established in all parts of the Union." Senator Thurman submitted an amendment to Blaine's resolution the object of which is to extend the inquiries asked for, into an investigation of the methods of controlling the votes of operatives in northern and eastern mills and factories, and in an able speech replied to his unsupported charges against the south. Mi Lamar, also made a few remarks in which he promised to show at the proper time that no negro votes were suppressed; said he: "I will demonstrate that this political phenomenon, which is the subject of so much discussion and misrepresentation, is a phenomenon that would ty they are now feeling in respect to his to promise hopeful results. occur in any fair society, and that it has been brought about by the agencies which intelligence and virtue and society and rant and debased."

After a few remarks by Senator Edmunds the resolution and amendments were laid aside and the Senate resumed the consideration of the patent laws.

Thus we see that the South will not be permitted to live in peace with the north can control our political condition.
