mense Care. Knoxville Tribune, There has been a legend since time mmemorial that the city of Knoxville has no foundation—that it is built over a huge grotto and would some day fall through. Only a few of the most credulous have believed this story, but it is rue nevertheless. The extent of this cave is not known, nor has it been even Ramsay J'Alston partially ascertained. Some advance the theory, that there are numerous small caves; other hold that there is one large one, having different chambers. Be it Wharey J M how it may, there is a cave or caves that ave been tapped in rear of the Hattle House, Slocum's drng store and J. T. Mercer's. Some time ago the waste pipe from the Hattie House became offensive to the neighbors and it was adjudged a nuisance by the city council. Mr. Flanders had no place to tun his refuse water except in the street, so he conceived the iden of tapping this subterranean swill and running his slops in there. Accordingly he had an excavation dug 16 or 20 Hamilton H C feet deep near the rear of his house on Clinch street, and the workers at this Kennedy P B depth discovered that with one more dig Lingle Moses of the pick it had gone into space on the Martin T.L. other side.
