THURSDAY, February 8, 1894.

It was a great Democratic victory last Thursday, when the Wilson tariff bill, that will lessen considerably the cost of many of the necessities of life, passed the lower house of Congress by a vote of 205 to 149. Under the existing stress of the national treasury it is as great a reduction of tariff taxes as could be made. A number of the necessities are placed on the free list, and the sugar bounty is repealed. It is hoped the Senate will promptly pass the bill and thus give the country the relief demanded. Seven Republicans voted for the bill and 13 Democrats against it.

The latest news in reference to legislation at the national Capitol we cull from yesterday's Charlotte Observer.

"The interest in affairs political at Washington is beginning to transfer itself from the House to the Senate. The Federal elections law repeal bill has already been before that body for some time, and now the Wilson tariff bill has been sent to it for action. Senator Voorhees it is stated, has promised speedy action on it by the finance committee.

"The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Record states that 'the lobby is now lining up' for the tariff struggle in the Senate, and says that strenuous efforts will be put forth by those interested in protected industries to have the Wilson bill very materially modified, to say the least. The Democratic Senators might study the House's business methods with great profit at present. Now would be a good time for Senator Hill to push his cloture amendment to the Senate's rule."

Since the above was put in type, a later report comes, to the effect, that the bill repealing the obnoxious Federal election laws, passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 59 to 28.

Why There Is a Deficiency.

Secretary Carlisle considers a bond issue absolutely necessary to meet the deficiency in the treasury and to enable the government to meet its obligations. A valued contemporary makes the facts clear as to why there is a deficiency, from which we cull.

Unless the urgency were great, of course there would be no issue of bonds. It is well to keep before the public the reasons which have brought the treasury to its present condition.

That neither the present administration nor the Democratic party can be held responsible for this condition is susceptible of absolute demonstration. In 1889, when President Cleveland went out and President Harrison went in, there was in the treasury an available surplus of over $185,000,000. Of this amount $98,000,000 was "free gold," that is gold over and above the $100,000,000 reserve which it is the policy of the government to maintain intact. At that time, the revenues of the government were exceeding its expenditures about $150,000,000 a year. In 1893 President Harrison went out and President Cleveland went in. How did the treasury and the revenues and expenditures stand then? Of the $98,000,000 of free gold only $980,000 was left. During President Cleveland's first term the gold in the treasury increased $54,772,000. At the end of President Harrison's administration there was $122,624,000 less gold in the country than there was when Harrison was inaugurated.

The relation between the receipts and expenditures of the government were changed wonderfully by the Republican congress which went in with President Harrison. The McKinley tariff raised the tariff taxes on every schedule except two and at the same time reduced revenues $80,000,000 a year. It increased expenditures for pensions $80,000,000 and added over $70,000,000 to the regular annual appropriations.

The result was mathematically certain and we are now laboring under the burden which four years of Republican misrule placed upon us. It is the task of the present administration to extricate the treasury and the country from the unfortunate condition in which President Cleveland found them. The country believes that the administration is proceeding conscientiously and prudently in its efforts to do this and that it will succeed.

Effects of Republican Rule.

There are many perturbations in the social, religious and political skies. But these are mainly discernible now in the Northern Heavens. There are storm clouds gathering, and Republican institutions may yet be tried by such convulsions and upheavals as this country is not acquainted with. The North in its hot hatred of the South sowed the Dragon's teeth of discord and sin. The wind was sowed, whirlwind may be reaped. Replying to the leading Northern Methodist organ, New York Christian Advocate, Dr. LaFayette, of the Richmond Advocate, says this in part:

"The colossal fortunes made possible by a civil war and a confiscation tariff, gorging the few with millions in profits by robbing the many, must be protected by Pinkerton janitories or bought voters. Twenty thousand men own America.

As a specimen of the "finished products" of the new era, 100,000 people in one city are "enforced paupers"—fed everyday at the public soup houses. Whether that is a superior civilization to the fat, dancing merry cotton, rice and sugar negro laborer is not a question among judicial minds. Millions of hungry white wretches never will know a life so happy as the healthy, careless, jolly plantation population. America, as Carlyle said, had made the plunge, 'shot Niagara.' And we are in the whirlpool rapids."

An Age of Cranks, Says Justice Brewer.

Justice Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, in his address to the Yale alumni last evening said in part:

"With all the splendor of its material development, this is also the age of cranks. Listen to some of their utterances: Making the State a dram shop keeper secures temperance; financial problems are solved by causing blood to flow from the veins of an anarchist murderer; a means of justice; a long continued strike fills the mouths of the laborers' wife and children with bread; dividing the school money between denominational bodies accomplishes the grand democracy of the public school; taking in Indians lands helps to civilize him; putting a tag on a Chinaman protects the American laborer from one with whom he is unable or unwilling to compete and is a means of grace tending to the conversion of the Heathen Chinese."

"In times so peace it is easy enough for any man to act as President of these United States. I refer you to the husband of Mrs. Hayes. But it took a Lincoln—gentle, great, sad—to pilot the nation through the majestic times and awful horrors of civil war."

Justice Brewer pleaded not only for scholarship, but for Christian scholarship, declaring that this is a Christian nation not by force of statute or constitution, but by the hopes and purposes and faith of the people who have wrought its glorious history from Plymouth Rock to Sandwich Islands."

Silver in England and Germany.

Silver is coming home to roost. The Gladstone Government gave it a blow in India, but already the folly of it is appearing to many. We yesterday gave what the Albany (N. Y.) Journal said of it. We find that the London Times, "the thunderer," pronounces the action of the Indian Government in closing its mints to silver as shortsighted and prophetic; it will prove disastrous to England. It favors the reopening of the mints to the coinage of silver as the surest, best means of preventing serious trouble to British interests. This is mighty good reading and delights us.

Over in Germany—in Prussia—Minister Von Hayden, in a strong speech, declared that something to restore silver must be done—that bimetalism must be restored. He says the real, almost sole cause of the long-continued industrial depression in America was due to the war upon silver. Think of that ye men of goldolatry and listen. The eminent Prussian said that no sure, permanent relief to the distress would come until silver was restored to its rightful place. Both Europe and the United States are in a whirlpool and they will never get out on firm land again until they give to silver the same rights that are given to gold. The great nations will have to return to bimetallic coinage if they would have a return of prosperity. In Europe and in Great Britain this is now becoming apparent to the close observers of events and the men of wise finance. The Baltimore Herald, noting this resurrection of the silver question, says:

"A few straws, however, indicate which way the wind blows, and a few things have happened of late to give this matter renewed importance. It needs no prophet to foresee that the closing of the mints in India and the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act did not relegate the silver question to oblivion."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

President Cleveland was one of the first, outside of his congressional colleagues, to extend congratulations to Chairman Wilson on the success of his tariff fight in the House. The congratulations were telephoned from the White House to the Capitol. Mr. Wilson is not a man of robust health at the best, and the continuous and arduous labor which he has so assiduously performed since becoming Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has almost completely broken him down. He has earned a rest, and he will probably leave Washington to spend several weeks in some quiet place. Other Democrats at times allowed the noise of the opposition to raise doubts of the passage of the bill, but Mr. Wilson has been calmly confident from the day the bill was reported from the committee that it would pass without being materially changed. The result shows that his confidence was built upon a firm foundation—the belief that men elected to Congress on a tariff reform issue would not allow themselves to be stamped by a manufactured sentiment against tariff reform.

Representative Dingley, of Maine, was the only Republican who succeeded in getting an amendment to the tariff bill adopted. He moved that the bond period provided in the whiskey clause of the internal revenue section of the bill should be three years, as at present, instead of eight years, as reported from the committee, and the House voted with him.

Democratic opposition to the income tax amendment, which at one time seemed strong enough to endanger the whole bill, began to grow less and less early in the week, and a day or two before the vote was taken had grown so insignificant that it was no longer considered a factor in the fight. If the Democratic Senators will do as well as the Democrats in the House have done, tariff reform will soon be here, but indications do not point to speedy action by the Senate.

Upon evidence presented by Judge Durand, of Michigan, who has been acting as special counsel in the smuggling cases, the Treasury department has decided to push the indictment against Whitney L. Boise, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Oregon for complicity in the illegal landing of Chinese in that State. Judge Durand brought with him to Washington the chief of a band of coast smugglers who has turned State's evidence. He it was who furnished the evidence against Boise, and he implicates several other prominent Republicans of the State who will be prosecuted if sufficient corroborative evidence can be secured.

So many lies have been told concerning the absence of Senator McPherson, of New Jersey, who was recently ordered South by his physician because of a severe bronchial affection, that he has returned to Washington and announced that he will resume his duties, although his doctor says he will endanger his life by so doing. Mr. McPherson's friends, among whom is President Cleveland, are trying to persuade him not to try to resume his work until his health gets better. I can state on the very highest authority that no break has taken place in the pleasant relations which have existed for years between Senators McPherson and Voorhees, and that all stories to the contrary are maliciously false.

The debate on the Tucker bill for the repeal of the Federal election laws will close in the Senate next Tuesday and the bill will be passed, notwithstanding the silly stories which have been widely circulated attributing difference on the part of Democratic Senators towards the bill. Not one word has been said by a Democrat to indicate that a single Democratic Senator will vote against the bill or remain away to keep from voting upon it. Neither is there any truth in the statement that Mr. Cleveland has expressed opposition to the bill.

Secretary Carlisle accepted bids yesterday for the $50,000,000 of bonds, in accordance with the official announcement recently made, notwithstanding the futile attempt of the Knights of Labor to prevent the issue by obtaining an injunction from the courts and the twaddle from Senators Allen, Peffer, Stewart and Hoar about the illegality of their issue. There is some talk in favor of the Bailey resolution, which has been rashly reported to the House, being rushed through as a hint to Secretary Carlisle that the money received for the bonds shall only be used to strengthen the gold reserve fund, but as Representative McCreary has secured the right of way for the next three days in the House for the Hawaiian resolution, it is clear that Mr. Bailey's resolution cannot come up until the expiration of that time. Senator Sherman strongly favors Secretary Carlisle's action, but other Republicans are trying to make trouble, hoping to gain some partisan advantage.

Henry Clews, the New York banker, doesn't take much stock in the caputiny howling indulged in by Republican politicians. He says this country will recuperate from the panic of 1893 soon or later than it did from the panic of 1873. It is hoped that he knows what he is talking about.

Another edition of the Siamese twins has arisen in the East. There are now being exhibited at Hong Kong, B. He will continue to preach.

Much Ado About Nothing.

The Eastern papers as a rule are violently opposed to an income tax. All the papers in New York that we see, with the exception of the World, are opposed to it. The Representatives in Congress from the Eastern States are, as a rule, opposed to it, both Democrats and Republicans. Some of the Democrats are so much opposed to it that they refused to go into the Democratic Congressional caucus and be bound by its action.

Hon. Bourke Cockran, one of the Tammany headlights, who in the National Convention fought the nomination of Grover Cleveland because he didn't square up to the ideas of certain gentlemen, of whom Hon. Bourke Cockran was the mouth-piece, undertook to defeat the attaching of the income measure to the Wilson bill by filibustering against it, after it had been decided upon by the caucus.

We have respect for honest convictions, although we may differ from the man who entertains them, but we have no respect for the convictions that would pile tons on the back of the poor man and refuse to put a feather's weight on the back of the rich man. There is neither sincerity, generosity nor Democracy in that.

If they could give any good, solid, logical reason for their opposition, and the great aversion they have to touching the incomes of the rich, they would be entitled to consideration, but there is not an objection they make to it which cannot with more force be applied to the present methods of raising revenue.

If it be class legislation inquisitorial, what is the internal, or as it is sometimes more descriptively styled, the internal revenue system? It has done more to demoralize and corrupt people than any other system of taxation that has ever been devised in this country with the exception, perhaps, of the high protective tariff system. It is a pull straw between them, the difference being that the demoralization under the internal revenue system is easier exposed and becomes more conspicuous because the array of law violators in the courts of the States where the internal revenue system operates with the most effect makes it more conspicuous.

If the income tax encourage perjury among those who would have it to pay (what a reflection on people of large incomes), what does the internal revenue system do, which not only causes a monstrous amount of perjury but makes thousands of men lawless desperadoes who spend their days in violating the laws or eluding the revenue officers, whom they sometimes perforate with buckshot when they get tired hiding from them?

UNUSUAL BEHAVIOR FOR A CORPSE.

A man named Hodges died in Wilmington Friday night. After he was laid out, according to the Review, some conversation following among those present relative to a future state of existence, when some one in the room declared his doubt as to the existence of a heaven or hell. Suddenly, Mr. Hodges rose in his bed and told those present that there was a heaven and that there was a hell; that he had been to the latter and was now on his way to the former and that he had been sent back to earth to tell them this. He then fell back and expired. The Review adds: This is the way it is told to us and it is truly remarkable circumstance. The report comes to us directly from one who was present in the room on the occasion.

Why Hood's Wins.

President Lincoln said, "You cannot fool the people a second time." They are too quick to recognize real merit or lack of it, and cling only to those things which they find to be what is claimed for them.

It is especially gratifying that the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla increases most rapidly in those sections where it is best known.

The inference is plain. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven that it possesses genuine merit. It maintains a high standard which others cannot even approach. It is the people's favorite blood-purifying and building up medicine, and is more popular this year than ever before. All this because Hood's Cures.

In view of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others, it is not reasonable to believe that it will also be of benefit to you?
