Ashes Out of One of the Greatest Edifices in the World-Four Firemen Were Injured.

NEW YORK, May 15. - Rev Dr. Talmage's new tab enacle, at the corner of Clinton and Green avenues, Brooklyn, was burned at noon Sunday. The hotel liegent adjoining, and several dwelling houses in the vicinity were also destroyed. The loss is estimated at a million dollars. This is the third time Dr. Talmage has lost his church by fire. He was in the church when the fire storted, surrounded by a number of his congregation, but all escaped. ite was moved to tears as he witnessed the destruction of the beautiful edifice. Four firemen were injured during the fire, not fatally, however, and there was great excitement and scenes of panie as the fire progressed.

Perhaps the loss that will greve Dr. Taimage most is that of the memorial stones which he b ought from the east, and which were set in the wall at the right of the organ, sacared in stero-re lief work. They were four in number. The top block was from Mount Calvary, and bore the word "Sacrifice." the stone below from Mount Sinal, bearing on it "The Law." The bottem stone to from Mars Hitt. and bears the inscription 'Gospel."

The lintel Regent, a family hotel, and one of the largest in Brooklyn, was totally destroyed. Guests flew rom the building in terror, and at one time it was a panie on both sides of the street. The talernsele was insured for $130,000. The board of trustees of the tabernaele last night held a mee'ng in the house of Dr. Talmage at which it was d eided to rebui'd the tabernacle. The trustees say that Dr. Talmage is to start on his trip around the world as first intended.

. Mr. Talwage will start today. He will go to Philadelphia first, then to Atlanta and to the southern states to Honolulu, New Zealand and Australia.

The Crimes of Fulton County, Georgia. Cli. maxed in a Fout and Brutal Murder.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 15. - In her quiet home, about three miles from the city, on the road to Westview cemetery, Mrs. Mary Lilly, the mother of the weil-known musicians, was strangled to deate at a late hour Saturday night.

When the discovery was made a pair of tongues rested against her neck, showing that such was the instrument by which the foul deed was consu-

A more repulsive tragedy has never been committed in Fulton county. The prominence of Mrs. Lilly and the stand which her sons have taken in the commonity, coupled with her advanced age, gives to the tragedy a darker coloring and will send a shudder this morning over the entire city.

Suspicion is strongly fastened upon a negro man, and all of the circumstanes confirm the probability of his guilt.

The negro was an occupant of the house, and was employed by Mrs. Lilly in the operation of her small truck farm. A white man by the name of - Mr. Spead is also employed and resides in a small onthouse in the rear of the Money was the cause of the tragedy. It was ramored that Mrs. Lilly was a woman of considerable wealth and that she kept her money in the house. She resided alone with no one on the place except her two employed assistauts, and was about 65 years of age.

Everything in the house, at the time the discovery was made, had been completely glutted. Drawers were torn open, locks prized from their fastenings, clothes piled up in huge masses on the floor and the interior of the house was a perfect scene of bewilderment and confusion.

The body of the murdered woman was stretched on the floor of the kitchen, her head resting against the leg of the table and her feet pointed towards the open door. It was a ghastly seene and the horror of the pieture beggars description. Two Suspects Arrested.

Business Considerations. In urging the passage of the tariff bill, the New Orleans Picayune (dem) says: "The business interests of the country have been injured by the long suspense over the tariff bill, and business men would welcome a prompt settlement of the question, Besides, the fact must not be lock sight of that the going into effect of the new tariff involves certain economic changes which gause more or less friction. It is, therefore, prudent that the bill should be pas ed at an early enough date to enatle the measure to go into effect as long as possible betore the time fixe.l for the congressional elections of the coming fall."

PREACHING VS. PRACTICING.

Republican Rant on the Changing Sentiment of the Country. Republican journals are taking upon themselves the gratuitous daty of informing the democratic majority in congress that it should abandon its effort to reform the tariff, pass the appropriation bills and go home. The reason given for this advice is that the sentiment of the country has changed. as evidenced by the protests that have been made against tariff legislation, and the admitted fact that democratiz political prospects next November are not exactly rose-colored. Of course, our republican friends have not the least notion that their advice will be

But it may not be out of place to remind these self-appointed advisers that the course they are recommending. even assuming that the advice is given in good faith and for the best interests of the country, is one which political parties are not at all likely to follow. No better illustration of this could be found than the comparatively recent experience of the republican party. In 1888 a republican victory was won upon a large scale by pledges given in the west that an honest revision of the tariff would be made by the republicans if they were given the power to act. It was recognized by the republicans in all of the states of the Mississippi valley that there was a growing demand for a change from the old high tax principles of the war tariff-that the people wanted tariff reform. But it was said -and this was said on the stump in 1888 in scores of western congressional districts-that tariff revision should be made, not by the enemies, but hy the friends, of protection. Duties are w doubtedly too high, and the taxes imposed in consequence of them too onerous, but it is well that the protection system should be gradually changed by those who have for years past supported it, and that it should not be suddenly destroyed by those who have always opposed it.

It was upon these grounds that the republican victory was won. Evidence can be obtained that quite a number of western republican congressmen went to attend the first session of the Fifty-first congress with the belief that the tariff was to be revised by cutting the duties down, and who found, to their surprise and disgust, after the session had opened, that the combination of republican congressional leaders, under Messrs. Reed and McKinley, were determined that this course should should not be taken, and that, instead of lowering the barrier of protection, the height of that barrier was to be increased. One of the leading western congressmen, a republican of national reputation, sail in the summer of 1890: "Our party is betraying its trust, and, under the whip of party discipline, I shall be compelled to vote for a measure which is almost a complete repudiation of the pledges I made to my constituents, and that my western associates made their constituents at the time they were elected. We supposed, and they supposed, that the tariff was to be revised downward, and not upward, but we have now discovered our mistake; our people are already incensed against us; and yet there is nothing to do but follow the bidding of those who are recognized as the party leaders in and out of congress, and who have definitely committed themselves to this line of policy."

This, we say, was a personal statement made by a man holding an exceptional position, and one who paid the penalty that he knew awaited him by a defeat in the fall of 1890. There was, it is true, no financial panie to complicate the situation, but throughout the country there were protests raised against the enactment of the McKinley bill. The republicans in the west and northwest denounced the measure as a betrayal of trust, and it was predicted as inevitable that the party that was responsible for this legislation would be overwhelmingly defeated in the November election. The handwriting on the wall was not in mystical characters. On the contrary, it was easy of interpretation to anyone who was not blinded by interest or preconceived ideas. The leading protectionists, it is true, did not admit at the time the McKinley bill was under discussion, and at the time it was enacted, that the country was soon to repudiate them and their measure; but the fact was evident to everyone else. When they asserted that the election of 1893, which resulted in such an overwhelming defeat for them, was due to a misunderstanding of the benefits of the protective tariff, it needed only the second defeat in 1892, after two years of experience with McKinleyism, to make it evident that the judgment of these gentlemen as political prophets was not in the least to be depended upon; that they predicted wunt they desired to see brought about without the least regard to obvious facts. Now the proper course for the republican majority in congress in the spring and summer of 1890, when it found that the sentiments of the people were averse to McKinleyism, was either to have abandoned all effort to revise the tariff or to have taken up revision upon the principle of lowering duties But they did not do anything of this kind - Doston Herald.

-The meanners of the tactics by which Mr. Reed won his vindication in the quorum-counting business should not escape attention. He filibustered persistently over petty affairs and deliberately stopped the course of the house, with no great public issue at stake, for merely selfish reasons largely personal to himself. He and his party have not gained in the respect of the people by such a course. But the democrats, unable to maintain a quorum with a great majority to draw from-how contemptible they appear!t pringfield (Mass.) Republican (Ind.).

-- The Pennsylvania riots are the direct results of McKinleyism. Tariff laws that protect enpitalists in the importation of cheap labor always produce such results.—N. Y. World.

NAMES AND ADDRESS OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPE FRUITS OF PROTECTION.

Republican Kule Responsible for Social-The Coxey movement is chiefly significant as an expression of the socialistic tendencies that have developed under republican rule and protectionist principles. In France the doctrine of socialists in its logical consequences, and men are saving to the state: "Since protection makes prices high, give us also protection for wages. Fix a minimum scale, and let the state compel employers to observe it."

There was no principle more essentially embodied in the foundations of American liberty than the principle of individual liberty—the independence of the citizen. The state was sovereign only because he, the citizen, gave it of his own sovereignity. It was his creation; he owed nothing to the state but loyalty and obedience to necessary laws. The state owed all to him. This spirit gave the dignity and strength that charseterized the men of America. In its destruction there has been no influence more potent than the doctrine of protection. In its very essence it assumes that one set of individuals is not as strong as another set of individuals, that a man isn't able to stand up before the world and win his own way through it. In practice, it has fostered the idea that one class must be male to contribute to another and far smaller class; that the government has the right to interfere in the affairs of its citizens and determine how much of one man's goods shall be given to another man. It has made the government a part of and a party to the money-getting machinery of the favred class, and has made money-getting a governmental function, leaving the minds of the citizens with no sens; of their personal independence and individual responsibilities. We are no longer a nation of sovereigns, but of dependents. So paternalism drifts into socialism, and so protection comes back to the protected in the appeal of Coxey's "army" for help. In this country the masses have not yet learned to apply the logic of the situation; but they are fast learning it. It is no new idea; the inevitable consequences of protection were foreseen years ago by students of sociological tendencies. So long ago as 1851 Cavour, the Italian economist, said: "I maintain that the most powerful ally of socialism, in its togical relation ; is the doctrine of protection. It sets out from absolutely the same principle. Reduced to its simplest terms. it affirms the right and duty of government to intervene in the emplorment an edistribution of capital: it affirms that the function and mission of government are to substitute its more enlightened decisions for the freedecision of the individual. If these principles should become recognized as incontestably true, I do not see what answer could be made to the worstag classes and their representatives when they came to the government and said: 'You believe in the right and duty of regulating the distribution of capitol why not also take up the regulation of production and wagest Why not establish government workshops?

Germany and France, and now the United States, have verified these words. The proposition is so self-evident that it scarcely need; discussion. Speaking of Mr. Leon Say's proposition that protection insensibly leads to "nationalism," a French authority on economical questions lays down the principle that "between protection and socialism the line of distinction is very difficult to perceive." A Frenchman defined the difference as being that the protectionist was a rich man, while the social st was a pauper.

Undoubtedly, if the robber barons are right, Coxey is also right, and so are the populists, and with more justice on the side of the latter, for their needs are greater. The populists are but the natural outgrowth of republicanism and protection.

Let Coxey blow his trumpet long and lustily at the gates of the robber barons. It is his turn now .- Louisville Courier-Journal

Ohio Kepub Canism.

Republicanism has been no greater success in Ohio than in the nation. A bill is now pending before the legislature of that state providing for the issue of (600,000 in certificates of indebtedness to keep the state from going into bankruptcy. The chairman of the finance committee of the house, in introducing the bill, admitted that the state had been for years spending more than she received and that her income for the current year was virtually mortgaged to the extent of $500,000. An effort has been made to shift some portion of the responsibility for this condition of things on the late democratic administration; but the fact is undisputed that $350,000 of the $500,000 deficiency was incurred by the last republican legislature. Considering the McKinley boom it is no wonder that the Ohio republicans want to fix the matter up in some way; but they are going to have hard work to pose successfully as economists or even as houest administrators of state government -Detroit Free Press.

Not Much in It. The Rhode Island election, in the light of the official returns, is more a triumph of the gerrymander than a political victory. What gave it the appearance of an overwhelming democratic defeat was the fact that there were 102 republicans elected to the legislature against eight democrats. There were just 54,000 votes cast-a little less than double the vote of Jackson county for president. Of these the republicans got 29,000 in round figures, about 2,000 more than half. According to this the republicans get a member of the legislature for each 290 votes and the democrats one for each 2,875 votes. Rhode Island has been a hide-bound republican state ever since the beginning of the war. On one or two occasions the majority has been less than this year, but very rarely. If it were not for the palpably unfair apportionment the victory would have been a defeat -Kansas Casmire. who for the past thirty days or so has been carrying on a commission business at 109 Third street. Since Tuesday he has not been seen, and it is believed that he has skipped out to the loss of many farmers who have shipped him eggs to sell. Casmire, who represented that he was from Cleveland, came here about a month ago and paid a month's rent in advance for his store. He offered inducements of 2 cents a dozen on eggs more than the market price, and many producers sent eggs to him. Mr. Knadler, of the Knadler Pickling company, was seen and said that two drafts, one of $65 and another of $82, had come since Casmire's disappearance, ane that there were probably others to follow. The landlord seized the furniture in the office for a few days' rent which is now overdue.
