CONCORD AND CABARRUS COUNTY.

Infant Child Found Dead in Bed. Wedding at Mt. Pleasant.

Concord Times, Feb. 22-23.

The one-year-old child of H. S. Henry, of the Brown mill, was found dead in bed last Sunday morning. The child was apparently well the night before, but when found its body was badly swollen. It is not known what was the cause of its death.

A bill passed the State Senate at Raleigh last Saturday making it a misdemeanor to kill, trap, or otherwise take, or sell any quail, partridge or woodcock from this time until the 15th day of December, 1911, two years from next December. After that time the close season shall be from February 1 to December 1 of each year the mill, which applies only to Cabarrus county, will become a law, and we think will meet with general approval. So many birds have been killed in this county that the species is almost in danger of becoming extinct.

To-morrow at noon a wedding will take place in Mt. Pleasant, which will be of much interest to the people of that town. J. J. Erwin, a young druggist of Cameron, will be married to Miss Vernie Matthews, the popular daughter of Dr. J. M. Matthews of Mt. Pleasant. The ceremony will be performed at 12 o'clock at the home of the bride's father by Rev. W. L. Hutchins, of Concord, a friend of both the bride and groom. Mr. Erwin and his best man, Mr. Hunter, will arrive in Concord to-night. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Erwin will be driven to Concord, where they will take the train for a northern tour.

A bill became a law in the Legislature January 30 conferring police powers on deputy sheriffs at Kannapolis, in order to protect the property and preserve the peace of that town. The deputy sheriffs residing in Cabarrus county have the authority and it is their duty to arrest without warrant all violators of the law within one mile of David Franklin Cannon Memorial Hall and take them before a Justice of the Peace of this county. This applies to both Cabarrus and Rowan within one mile as above stated. In case of arrests in Rowan the offender is, of course, to be tried by a Rowan magistrate.

Notwithstanding the fact that Concord has an ordinance against passenger trains passing here without stopping or at a fast speed, the following trains do not stop here: Nos. 27, 29 and 43 going south, and Nos. 35 and 30 going north, five trains out of a total of fourteen. While it would not be necessary for these trains to make this a regular stop, it ought to be made a flag stop to them. Concord has 12,000 people, and is a city of too much consequence and yields too large a revenue to the railroads not to be granted anything she wants with regard to this matter. A few weeks since High Point was cut out as a regular stopping place for No. 29, and the citizens at once began to want to know "how come" and to get busy for it to stop there, with the result that this is now done. Concord people can do the same thing if they will.

Two Leaves on One Stem.

John Warner, of the King section of Stokes, brought P. A. Wilson, of Brown's warehouse, quite a curiosity in the shape of two almost perfect tobacco leaves which grew about the same stem. One of the leaves was considerably larger than the other, but the small one was just as well developed as the larger one. Many oddities are noted in tobacco leaves, but this was the first time any of the local tobacco men had seen two such perfect leaves with only one stem.—Winston Sentinel.

ALBEMARLE AND STANLY COUNTY.

Rev. Geo. H. Atkinson Installed as Pastor. Dr. Rowe Conducting a Meeting.

Stanly Enterprise, Feb. 25th.

An item announcing the death of Church Carpenter, an aged citizen of lower Stanly, was inadvertently omitted from our paper last week. The death occurred on the 18th instant, the interment taking place the following Sunday at Silver Springs church.

Rev. Geo. H. Atkinson was duly installed on Monday evening as pastor of the Presbyterian church. Revs. A. B. Shaw, A. A. McGee, D. D., and W. M. Kincaid, D. D., all of Charlotte, carried out their respective parts according to announcement. The sermon by Dr. McGee was short, but was a gem of literary merit and spiritual force. The charges to the pastor by Dr. Kincaid, and to the congregation by Mr. Shaw were of a high order and enjoyed by the large congregation present. Thus the church and town claim this much beloved man and minister as wholly their own.

R. E. Austin, Esq. is suffering from his eye, and went to Salisbury for special treatment under Dr. R. V. Brawley.

A turnip weighing 8 pounds was sent to us by young Lee Mabry, on Route No. 1. It is a fine specimen.

Rev. Dr. Rowe is preaching a most excellent series of sermons at the Methodist church. Despite the inclement weather, good congregations are present at the 8:15 o'clock and evening services. The Doctor is one of those earnest and scholarly speakers who always gives his hearers something worthy of best attention.

Apple Wine.

"There is a new industry which promises to figure in appreciations of this section. H. C. Walker, of the Brushies, has a process by which he manufactures pure apple wine and those who are judges say that it is fine wine, equal to the superlunary. It is a secret process and if put in use, the apple wine industry will be a big thing. With the wine and cider made of apples in this section, the west can't argue that the east is favored by the prohibition law."—Wilkes Chronicle.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by the constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

THE HONORED NAME

Of Jefferson Davis Will be restored to Cabin John Bridge.

Official amends for the sensational elimination of Jefferson Davis' name from the stone tablet on Cabin John Bridge, six miles west of this city, during president Lincoln's administration, is given in directions issued to day through the Secretary of war to the chief of engineers of the army to restore the name. The tablet is on the bridge that arches Cabin John run on the Maryland side of the Potomac river, a structure famous for years as the longest single-span stone bridge in the world. The bridge carries the conduit which brings Washington's water supply from the upper Potomac. It was begun under Davis as Secretary of War and when he joined the Confederacy and became its president, his name under government orders was obliterated from the tablet.

Repeated efforts to restore it have been made. At the 1907 convention of the Daughters of Confederacy at Richmond a resolution was adopted asking for the Davis restoration and Representative Myer, of Louisiana, sought unsuccessfully to have this carried out. The measure of the name was by direction of Calhoun Smith, Lincoln's Secretary of the Interior, after a suggestion by Galusha Grow, of Pennsylvania, then Speaker of the House.—Washington dispatch.

Death of Dr. Chenuault.

The following is from the Statesville Landmark of Feb. 26th: "Dr. William F. Chenuault of Cleveland, who suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday morning, died Wednesday night at 11 o'clock. He never rallied from the attack and there was practically no hope for him from the outset. The funeral services will take place at Cleveland at 1:30 p. m. today. The remains will be brought to Statesville on No. 21 this afternoon, arriving at 8:50, and will be taken from the station direct to Oakwood cemetery for interment."

Dr. Chenuault, as the Landmark has stated, was about 49 years old, was a native of Catawba and was reared at Catawba station. He is survived by his mother and his wife, the latter being the daughter of Geo. F. Shepherd, of Elmwood. He first located at Elmwood for the practice of medicine and was married while living there. Some years ago he moved to Cleveland. He was a kind-hearted, popular man and enjoyed a large practice.

Dr. Chenuault was the son of Dr. William Chenuault who lost his life in the Confederate army, when his son was an infant. The elder Chenuault organized Company I, 87th North Carolina Regiment, which went to the front April 1st, 1862.

The Joke Was on the Merchant. Farmer is Stricken With Paralysis.

Lexington Dispatch, Feb. 24th.

Olin Davis, merchant at Churchland, was "hacked" badly the other day by a little girl who, with a merry twinkle in her eye, inquired the price of eggs. Being told, she asked what nine were worth, and then proceeded to trade out that amount. Receiving her goods, she passed over the counter a little paper box containing nine under-sized, curiously-shaped eggs, none of which was much larger than those of quail. The merchant was "rattled," but was game. However the young lady explained it was a joke, that what she got would be paid for. Mr. Davis fetched the eggs to town Wednesday and exhibited them in the office. Some are round, some long and slim, all very small and one like a gourd. A grown hen laid them in succession for nine days. Mr. Davis has added them in his collection of curios.

Saturday, Frank Mayab, an aged farmer, was stricken with paralysis while crossing the street in front of the court house, the stroke affecting his right side. Dr. Vestal was summoned to attend him and he was carried to the home of Mr. Byerly, his son-in-law, who lives north of town. At last report he was living.

Monday Charles Hedrick, a Silver Hill farmer, was here to have Dr. Buchsauer to dress a flesh wound on the hip, made by a .38 calibre pistol ball said to have been fired by Wiley Kepley, a white man of that section, who was also here Monday. The report is that Mr. Hedrick was sitting in his home with his family when Kepley fired into the house twice, one ball narrowly missing a little boy, and the other striking Mr. Hedrick on the hip, the ball passing around the bone, making a painful though not serious flesh wound. No action has been taken by the officers as yet. Not very much could be learned about the affair.

A manufacturer who employs blacksmiths says that these workmen are scarcer than members of any other craft. Asked why he didn't train apprentices after the manner of old, he replied that the trade is too much like work and too black for the young men of the day. They all want clean jobs, nice white cuffs-and-collar positions, he says, and the supply of blacksmiths is as a result falling off more and more, until it is difficult to find one.

Mrs. Goodnight Hurt.

Mrs. Charles Goodnight, who lives in the southern suburbs of town, a few days ago started to visit her grandson, Mr. Gip Goodnight, only a few hundred yards distant, when in walking in some way her foot became entangled in a strand of barbed wire hidden in the leaves, causing her to fall to the ground and wrenching her left leg at the hip so badly that she was unable to walk. She was carried to her home which was nearby and a physician was sent for who discovered that the hip-bone was badly fractured and that it would be a long time, if ever, before she would be able to put much weight upon her foot. Mrs. Goodnight is a very aged woman, being in her 74th year, and it is doubtful about her being strong enough for her to walk. We learn she is resting very well, though suffering much pain.
