The first concrete result of the preliminary labors of the naval consulting board on inventions, created by Secretary Daniels, developed when formal announcement was made that the board had unanimously approved a plan for the establishment of a great research and experimental laboratory for the United States Navy. The plan, as adopted, was proposed by Thomas A. Edison, chairman of the board. It calls for the establishment of a laboratory at a cost of $5,000,000 for grounds, buildings and equipment, to be operated at an annual expenditure of from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000. The board recommends that the laboratory be located on tidewater of sufficient depth to permit a dreadnought to come to the dock, and that it be near, but not in a large city. As thus described, the laboratory would be near some large port on the Atlantic Coast.

Alberto Garcia Granados, minister of the interior in the Huerta cabinet, was executed Saturday in Mexico City, according to State Department advices, charged with complicity in the killing of President Madero. Granados was one of the most able of Huerta's cabinet members and was known throughout Mexico as a diplomat of no little ability. Shortly after the assassination of President Madero dispatches from Mexico City mentioned his name as being connected with the plot to overthrow the Mexican president.

With Mayor Thompson's order closing saloons on Sunday effective at midnight Saturday, the parade of temperance advocates paraded the streets of Chicago in one of the most striking anti-saloon demonstrations in the city's history. The parade followed the refusal of Judge David E. Matchett to issue an injunction preventing the enforcement of the mayor's order which would close 7,162 saloons. Chief of Police Healey after a telephonic communication with the mayor announced that arrests would be made Sunday for violation of the order. Nevertheless the organized liquor interests spread the word among saloonkeepers to "clamp the lid on tight after midnight."

For four hours Saturday afternoon more than fifty merchant sailors ran riot at the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company's pier, No. 9, at Newport News, Va., and before the combined police force of the railway company could quell the disturbance, two of the men were rushed overboard and drowned, several were severely injured, others painfully but not seriously hurt, and four were arrested and jailed on charges of mutiny, with charges of murder expected to be preferred later. It was persistently rumored that the men were supplied with liquor by parties whose purpose was to make trouble for the British government, but British Vice-Consul Kentworthy could throw no light on this report. The men were from the British steamers Berwindale and Terek, and the Norwegian steamer Maricopa, all of which were here to load cargoes. Orazed with drink and devoid of weapons the men fought furiously with their bare fists and anything else that could be found handy.

Noted Blockader in Fed. at Court

"Old Man" Dave Fraley of Stanley Engaged Judge Boyd in Conversation.

The following from Monday's Charlotte Observer concerns David Fraley of Stanley, pretty well known throughout this section: "Old Man" Dave Fraley of Stanley County was one of the picturesque characters here last week upon enforced attendance in Federal Court. "Old Man" Fraley is a blockader of renown and a type that is fast disappearing in this day of advanced civilization. He is tall and lanky, wears a heavy suit of short whiskers on his face and is a typical backwoods countryman. The fact that he is hard of hearing only adds to the uniqueness of his demeanor.

But to begin at the beginning. At a term of court some time back "Old Man" Fraley was charged with illicit distilling, found guilty and fined $100. Judge Boyd, who passed sentence on him, required as is usual in such cases, that he appear at a subsequent term of court and show his good behavior in the interim. Now "Old Man" Fraley, who does not care much about the law and the courts, paid no attention at all to this order and consequently never showed up. Thereupon the officers were instructed to be on the lookout for him and a capias was issued. Deputy Marshall McKenzie of Salisbury was entrusted with the execution of the paper and after a long search finally captured the old man in the woods with a Winchester rifle across his shoulder. Only this achievement on the part of Deputy Marshall McKenzie accounts for "Old Man" Fraley's presence in court here this week.

When the clerk called out "Dave" Fraley's name, the old man appeared to be very deaf and the call had to be repeated before he would arise. He then lifted himself out of his seat in the rear of the room and stood without a quiver or a word while Judge Boyd was addressing him.

"Well, you are here at last, Mr. Fraley," Judge Boyd remarked in a loud tone.

This observation had been repeated several times, to all of which the old man replied with the exclamation, in a sharp, rasping voice, "He?" Then Judge Boyd asked "You haven't forgotten how to make blockade liquor, have you?" The court room laughed, for all were acquainted with the old fellow and his record. Of course "Old Man" Fraley did not hear this.

Then it was that Judge Boyd ordered the old man to approach a little closer. He shuffled up and took his stand directly in front of the bench, with his hand to his ear and was calm and content as though he were superintending the operations of a big blockade still.

"Well, I've decided to let you go home," remarked Judge Boyd after a few moments' thought. "But I don't want to have you in my court again nor do I want to hear of you. Settle down and live peaceful and law-abiding. That will do."

As might have been expected with these words "Old Man" Fraley recovered his hearing in an instant. He heard what Judge Boyd had said and stepping briskly forward, extended his large hand, which Judge Boyd took.

"Shake," remarked he. "And Judge, if I can ever return the favor, call on me." "Old Man" Fraley evidently regarded Judge Boyd's clemency as a personal favor.

"All you can do for me," replied Judge Boyd, "is to wish me well." With this the old man, who made a picturesque figure in the center of the big and crowded court room the old man whose past has been one of notable achievement in blockading circles and the hero of many a fight with revenue officers, stepped back several feet, lifted his right hand to heaven and exclaimed:

Noted Circus Rider

Miss Julian to Appear Here With Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Show.

In all the circus world there is no bareback rider better known than Miss Julian. She is not only the highest paid circus rider in the world, but she is the only woman who has successfully performed a somersault on the broad, rosined hump of a galloping horse. Single, forward and backward somersaults are Miss Julian's specialty, and she does these to "limber up," as she expresses it.

Miss Julian is the principal bareback rider with the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which comes to Salisbury, Wednesday, November 8th, for performance at 2 and 8 p. m., and a parade at 10 o'clock.

When the big show is over and Dalie Julian emerges from her private dressing tent one would pick her for a debutante or society girl. She is slim of build and is just past her twentieth year, and is unmarried. Her brother, Fred Julian, travels with the show and is a member of the executive staff.

Miss Julian is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College. In school she was remarkably fond of athletics. One summer her father, who is a banker in Fall River, Mass., spent a week with the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, along with him being his daughter, Dalie. The daughter had always yearned for life under the canvas, and her father believed that a week of roughing it would remove all traces for a desire to follow a circus. The week with the show saw the little college girl blossom into a full-fledged circus star.

Under the guidance of Dad Dockrill, the famous circus equestrian director, Miss Julian developed into a remarkable rider. She has duplicated every feat performed by a man rider, and has left her sister riders far in the background.

The Colds of Mankind Cured by Pineal

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine Tar-Honey soothes those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c.

Every effort is being made by United States officers and railroad detectives to track the bandits who Friday held up and robbed Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 1 at Central Station, Wheeling, W. Va. A report received Saturday said they are being trailed towards the Ohio river in the direction of Sistersville, W. Va. Railroad police have been ordered to that city where a large force of deputies and police is being assembled.

For Indigestion.

Never take pepsin and preparations containing pepsin or other digestive ferments for indigestion, as the more you take the more you will have to take. What is needed is a tonic like Chamberlain's Tablets that will enable the stomach to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.

"Judge, I hope that we both will meet up that." And with this "Old Man" Fraley left the room.

But the situation was more than the crowd could stand and a ripple went about the court room. There was no doubting however that the old man was serious and voiced the firm conviction that he was bound for "up there" in spite of his achievements and exploits "down below." Judge Boyd was fully equal to the occasion and nodded his head and waved his hand in unison with the expression of the old man's word and gesture.

Serbian Show Little Resistance

Hindenburg Making Progress Against Dvinsk, No Progress on Part of Line.

Oct. 10.—Hard fighting continues on the French, Russian Serbian and Austro-Italian fronts.

With Belgrade the old capital of Serbia, in their hands, the Teutonic forces are pressing forward against Serbs both in the east and west in an endeavor to move southward and gain control of the main railway line.

The Austro-Hungarians on the west have advanced to the town of Obrenovac, while on the east the Serbs have been dislodged from several positions on the southern bank of the Danube by strong German forces.

In the fighting along the lower reaches of the Drina River the Austro-Germans lost heavily in unsuccessful attacks, according to Nish, which in announcing the fall of Belgrade, declared that the city was not given up without desperate resistance.

Advices from the Serbian frontier, coming by way of Berlin, are that Belgrade was not greatly damaged by the bombardment preceding its capture.

Both Berlin and Paris claim gains in the vicinity of Tabure in the champagne region of France.

The French assert that to the southeast of the town they captured a German trench, while Berlin says the German regained a strip of territory over a front of two and one half miles and, in addition, took several trenches to the east of Bouche.

On the remainder of the front from Belgium to the Vosges Mountains there has been serious fighting with heavy guns, bombs and grenades.

Russian positions along a front of nearly five miles north of the railroad running west from Dvinsk have been taken by Field Marshal von Hindenburg's men according to Berlin and a fierce Russian counter-attack has been repulsed. There also has been hard fighting to the southeast and across the border in Galicia, in which both Berlin and Vienna declare their forces have made progress.

Along the southern front the Italians have repulsed with heavy losses Austrian attacks on numerous occasions.

The situation in Greece is unchanged. The new Greek cabinet has gone exhaustively into the situation in discussions held in Athens, but has not yet made known what its policy will be. Athens dispatches make reference to a secret treaty between Bulgaria and Germany signed last July the text of which, it is reported, has been placed in the hands of the Greek Premier by the Entente Powers and will be the subject of "grave debate" on the opening of the Greek Parliament Monday.

Carranza Pleased With Recognition

Says There Will be No More Formal Battles, That Enemies are Disintegrating.

Vera Cruz, Mex., Oct. 10.—General Carranza received with great pleasure the news that the Pan-American conference at Washington had decided to recommend recognition of the party led by him as the de facto Government in Mexico. Telegrams from Carranza's agents at Washington brought the news and the first chief was congratulated by his associates.

The Washington telegrams were read in the theater and received with great enthusiasm. General Carranza will not alter his plans for a trip through the northern States, beginning tomorrow.

"This news puts an end to all efforts of our enemies to bring about foreign intervention," said General Carranza after receiving the telegrams. "They continue their intrigues and their attacks on the newspapers, but recognition of the constitutional Government naturally will rob them of the fruit of their efforts."

"When peace is absolutely restored and tranquility really established amnesty will be granted all those persons, but not now, to permit them to return at this time would mean their machinations within the Republic."

"The immediate effect of this news will be a great moral strengthening of constitutionalism and a corresponding disheartening of opposing factions. There will be no more formal battles. Fighting of that sort already has ended, but naturally the struggle to put down minor outcrops and lawlessness must be continued for a greater or less time."

"Already these bands are disintegrating rapidly and their chiefs are surrendering. This development will bring the surrender of the leaders of the opposition, since the news of recognition will remove from them farther hope of success. This applies not only to those actually fighting in the field, but to those who are intriguing, both within the country and abroad."

"News of the coming recognition is pleasing, since it will renew and strengthen the friendly relations between Mexico and other Nations."

George C. Carothers, American consular agent, telegraphed the State Department the substance of a long interview he had had with General Villa at Juarez in which the latter explained in line with utterances to the press last night that he intended to continue fighting Carranza. No mention was made of withdrawing protection to foreigners as reported in press dispatches, but officials realize that the legal responsibility for protection of foreigners rests always with the recognized government for all parts of the country whether in rebellion or not. Americans for this reason were recently advised to withdraw from northern Mexico, but many of them have failed to heed the State Department's advice. The Washington Government during the last administration took the position, however, that even when a recognized government existed in Mexico the leaders of rebellious factions were personally responsible for the acts of their followers and gave warning to that effect. This precedent probably will be followed in the event of difficulties now in northern Mexico.

Mexico City, Oct. 10.—News of the decision to recognize the Carranza Government was received with great joy by the military element here. All the newspapers issued extra editions. General Pablo Gonzalez, commander of the Carranza forces in Mexico City, will hold a reception tomorrow in celebration of the event.

Official Liable For Negligence

Failure to Perform Official Duties is Ground for Action if Injury Results.

Charlotte Observer.

You can't sue a county, but you can sue a county commissioner.

That is the long and the short of a recent Supreme Court decision of far-reaching significance and consequence.

In the case of Hipp versus Farrell, which was argued before the high tribunal a few weeks ago by Earl Tullaferris of the local law firm of Clarkson & Tullaferris, the court sustained the contention that the highway commissioners of Lee County are liable in damages to persons who are injured by their neglect of duty. It is said that the point had not been raised in this state heretofore in these circumstances and hence the importance of the decision.

It was contended by the plaintiff, a former Mecklenburg man, that "the defendants, in violation of the duties and obligations imposed upon them by law, knowingly, negligently and carelessly allowed the approach on the Sand side of the Lookville bridge over Lee County to be and remain out of repair, unsafe, and in a condition dangerous to those using the bridge for a space of over 50 days prior to and including the 17th day of November, 1914, during all of which said time the members and joists of the said approach were in a rotten, weak and dangerous condition; that on the 6th day of October, 1914, the defendants, while in a meeting assembled at Sanford, were duly and formally advised and notified that the bridge was in dangerous condition. On November 27th, 1914, the plaintiff drove on the bridge two mules attached to a wagon, the approach collapsed and driver and mules were hurt."

The defendants demurred to the complaint on the ground that there was no commodity of interest amongst the defendants with respect to the alleged cause of action and because it had not been alleged that they acted other than negligently. A. A. F. Seawell appeared for the defendants. The case came up at Lee County court May 18 and Judge Bond overruled the demurrer.

Judge Hoke, author of the decision says that authority is to the effect where the wrongful acts of two or more persons concur in producing single injury and with or without concert among them, they may be treated as joint tortfeasors and, as a rule, sued separately or together at the election of the plaintiff.

Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bad bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

Out of Order.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is divided on the question of woman suffrage. It should have had no cause to give consideration to the matter in any shape or form. This organization should consider itself barred from participation in the political questions of the day by the very name it bears. It is composed of body of christian women engaged in the promotion of the cause of temperance and just what call it should have to be bothering itself over the matter of woman suffrage is hard to understand. By the same token, Governor Craig was out of order in volunteering to give the woman his views on the question, and Judge Clark was not happy in the choice of an audience. They were discussing matters foreign to the business for which the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was called to transact.—Charlotte Observer.
