Find Old Relics When Church Walls are Torn Down.

Workmen tearing away the walls of the old Methodist Church preparatory to the erection of a new house of worship have unearthed a cornerstone which was laid at the bottom of the foundation of the old building. An one cent piece and a church paper, each bearing date of 1857, the year the church was built, were found in the copper box. There was also a Bible and a small piece of ribbon. This ribbon was all that was left of a pretty little girl's bonnet that was deposited at the request of a local milliner of that day. The cornerstone was imbedded in the foundation and did not show the outside. Some of the older members of the congregation, however, insisted that they had seen the cornerstone placed and were positive it would be found.
