Election on Tuesday, November 2nd, 1880.

The Garfield Conference conceded to Hancock, the 138 electoral votes of the South. And 47 only from the whole North will be needed to elect him.

The question has been asked, what Ohio General, during the war, was quartered temporarily at the house of the widow Hutchins in the territory of the enemy, and carried her bedchamber with him when he went away?

General Garfield does not think much of Thomas Jefferson. In a speech in the House of Representatives, he said the "fame of Jefferson is waning" and that he (Garfield) was in favor of a stronger government for this country.

OLD SECTIONAL ISSUES.

The Garfield Campaign Conference at New York defines the issues to be presented in this Presidential Campaign. They breathe the old spirit of war and hate which has kept the republican party in power since the surrender. Not one word of peace and reconciliation escaped from the lips of Blaine, Logan, Sherman and Harrison. The old sectional issues are to be revived, regardless of every consideration that the success of the republican party. On the occasion referred to, Mr. Blaine said, this issue to be presented is "whether the men who fought the civil war shall surrender to the men who fought for the Union." Mr. Logan said it is "whether the loyal men of this country who stood by her constitution and flag when the sword and flames were applied to the temple, or the rebel army and the copperheads of the north shall have the right to govern the country." Mr. Sherman said it is "whether the republican party shall resign to the solid South headed by Wade Hampton and the Ku-Klux Klan and a little segment in the Northern States calling itself the democratic party." And in General Harrison's opinion it is "how we will defend Washington against the enemy that once opposed it in arms." We are to have no more "cooing as gently as a sucking dove" from radical orators, but the "gospel of jealousy, hate and revenge."

THE OLD LANDMARKS.

The most careless observer of passing events must have been often impressed of late, with the unquiet, restless spirit of the times. Innovation in almost everything seems to be the order of the day. Change has succeeded change in such rapid succession, that a sense of the instability of most valued possessions and privileges, has become painfully acute. We literally "know not what a day may bring forth."

The experience of the past has taught us many painful lessons—has introduced us to many keen and bitter disappointments. We have seen the overthrow of much that we fondly imagined was as permanent, as anything pertaining to human affairs. We have seen the overthrow of institutions, that were cherished and upheld by generation after generation of wise and good men—of principles dear to the heart of the patriot and the philanthropist—and of constitutions and governments which it required the wisdom and experience of Statesmen, to construct and perfect. We have been compelled to witness the destruction of almost everything of the past around which our affections had entwined themselves; and to accept the miserable substitutes for them, which unprincipled adventurers and political tricksters have imposed upon us.

Years of undisputed sway, with all the favorable appliances that a resistless government, administered by the faithful High Priests of Radicalism, could give, have afforded ample time for the hateful seed which has been scattered broadcast throughout the land, to germinate and bring forth an abundant crop. And what do we see? The standard of morality everywhere has retrograded—the tone of society has been lowered. Virtue, integrity and patriotism are classed as fossils of a former generation. Thieves and swindlers fill the most honorable and profitable offices—crime stalks abroad through the land "unwhipped of justice"—vice holds high carnival at the Capitol of the nation, and fraud and corruption sit enthroned in the most exalted places.

Is it not time to ask whether are we drifting? What is to check the flood-tide of Vice, immorality and irreligion, which threatens to overwhelm us? Are we to have enacted in this latter half of the Nineteenth century the disgraceful and revolting scenes which followed the French Revolution? They abandoned the "old landmarks"—cut themselves loose from the wisdom of the past to follow strange teachings—a more expansive morality, a broader philanthropy, and a more sublimated philosophy. Humanity shudders at the contemplation of the scenes which they enacted, in the name of "liberty, equality and fraternity," in that age of reason and progress.

Let anyone look on the picture which the faithful historian of those times presents, and compare with it the teachings of the great party, of so-called "progress and great moral ideas," which has for the last fifteen years dominated this country, and ask himself if it is not time to return to the "old landmarks"—to the teachings of Jefferson, Monroe and Jackson? General W. S. Hancock has shown by his Military Orders, his Sherman letter and his letter of acceptance of the democratic nomination for the Presidency, that he thoroughly comprehends their doctrines, and that if elected he will restore the government to the "old landmarks," which our forefathers set up, and which a reckless and unprincipled party has been for years, industriously engaged in attempting to obliterate.

THE CANVASS.

The joint Canvass between Governor Jarvis and Judge Buxton terminated at Carthage Moore county, this week. In all the discussions we have noticed since the memorable one at this place at Smithfield, Fayetteville and Carthage, Governor Jarvis has maintained the advantage which he gained over his opponent at the Commencement of the Campaign. The amiable Judge doubtless has become tired of being worsted in every encounter, and has come to the conclusion, that "discretion is the better part of valor," or "That he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day."

At all events the Judge has withdrawn from the joint discussion, and was together with Keogh, Young & Co., to address the people of Rolettsville Wake County, yesterday. The Judge is an amiable, hightoned gentleman, and we regret to see him occupy such a false position. We voted for him for Judge with pleasure, and we think it was the greatest mistake of his life, to resign a position which he so well fitted to adorn. As a politician, his best friends must admit that he is not a success.

WHY HANCOCK SHOULD BE ELECTED.

Judge David Davis, who has recently announced his intention to support Hancock's election gives utterance to sentiments, alike honorable to himself and the distinguished soldier-statesman, he so highly commends. He says: "Great as were the achievements of Gen. Hancock in War, his conduct in peace, when in command of Louisiana and Texas, in 1876, was still greater and justly commends him to the confidence of the country. That was a time when passion ruled in the public councils, and military power was exerted to silence civil authority. The temptation was strong to sail with the rising current, for an inflamed partisan opinion was too ready to condone excesses and to applaud oppression. Gen. Hancock's Order No. 40 announced the right of trial by jury, the habeas corpus, the liberty of the press, the freedom of Speech, the natural right of persons, and the right of property must be respected." These principles are the basis of free government, and the proclamation of them by Gen. Hancock stands out in striking contrast with the action of his superior, who soon after rebuked and drove him from that command for uttering sentiments worthy of all honor. The soldier, clothed with extraordinary power, voluntarily uncovered before the civil authority, sheathed his sword, testified his fidelity to the constitution and set an example of obedience to law, which will pass into history as his proudest claim to distinction. The man who in the midst of that stormy period, was cool enough to see his duty clearly, and courageous enough to execute it, firmly, may be well trusted in any crisis. His letters to General Sherman mark him as one of the wisest of his time, who with the integrity of a patriot and a statesman's grasp of mind; no sense of expediency could swerve from his hottest convictions.

Honesty is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine preparation of that unequalled spring medicine and blood purifier, decidedly superior to the poor imitations heretofore in the market. Trial proves it.

Young and old are often afflicted and debilitated until life becomes a burden. The thought never occurs that worms are the cause. Spriner's Indian Vermifuge will give the relief you so much need.

Truth and Honor.
Query:—What is the best family medicine in the world to regulate the bowels, purify the blood, remove costiveness and biliousness, aid digestion and tune up the whole system? Truth and Honor compels us to answer, Hop Bitters, being pure, perfect and harmless. Ed. See another column.

PERRY, GA., Jan. 28, 1880.—In 1873 there were two prisoners confined in the jail of this county, who were very badly afflicted with Syphilis. By my official capacity, I employed Capt. C. T. Swift to cure them, under a contract, "no cure, no pay." I administered to them his Syphilis specific, and in a few weeks I felt bound to pay him out of the county treasury, as he had effected a complete and radical cure.

THE GAY TOLL COTTON GIN.

I shall commence picking cotton at the Gay gin on the 1st day of September next, and promise the old patrons and public generally every accommodation afforded by any gin in this section. Having added to the old gin house a packing room enables me to also add another lint room; giving me a total of three lint rooms to each of which there will be placed a sixty saw gin, or a total of One Hundred and Eighty Saws, a capacity of Ginning Thirty Bales of Cotton per Day.
I shall use the celebrated Hall & Brown cotton gin all of which have been put in thorough repair. I shall also use my latest invention in Cotton Presses the

WILSON COTTON PRESS

This press lets the great advantage of having two swinging press boxes attached to one frame and using only one power, an advantage of two distinct presses. By this means I am able to pack all the cotton ginned by the one hundred and eighty saws. Parties coming to this gin can certainly get their cotton picked without delay. I purpose to gin as cheaply and upon the most accommodating terms as any. If in dealing shall be my motto. All parties patronizing this gin will be in favor to me to use with complaints if any, without delay as I guarantee satisfaction. Buggies and this will be untraded at my gin.
