We are informed by a gentleman who has recently crossed Tar River on the new bridge recently completed at Strickland's Mill by W. V. Clifton, that it is a complete structure, perhaps the best bridge crossing the river; and learn that the citizens of Nash county living in the vicinity of York's Bridge are anxious to secure the services of the same gentleman to construct a bridge at that point.

Do, if you please, let politics alone for awhile, especially while the health of your family needs looking after. One day's neglect may cause you great distress. If you are prudent you will be no longer without a bottle of the Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass, made by Landrum & Litchfield, Abingdon, Va. For nervousness, sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion or a sour stomach, it is one of the best remedies known, and for general debility (and female diseases especially) it far surpasses anything made. It is manufactured from the pure mineral waters of Virginia.

Annual Order.

We are pleased to announce that Maj. Robert Bingham, Principal of Bingham School, has accepted an invitation to deliver the annual address at the Wilson Collegiate Seminary, Wednesday, June 1st, at the occasion of the commencement exercises of that school.

Maj. Bingham is a polished writer and a learned educator, and his addresses will be, we predict, one of superior merit.

Rock bridge alm mass at Hargrave's Drug Store.

Good Morning!

"Good morning, Mr. B.—! What brought you to town to-day?" was the question propounded to a gentleman from Nash county the other day, and the reply, a very natural one too, was that he had been reading about Dr. R. W. Joyner's skill as a dentist in the ADVANCE so long that he had determined to have his teeth filled by a dentist who understood how to do the work in a workmanlike manner.

And we thought that there was one wise man left. Reader: Go thou and do likewise!

Protracted Meeting.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church still continues with unabated interest. Ten or twelve persons have been converted, and others are concerned as is manifested by the number of penitents at the altar.

Rev. L. L. Nash, who has been assisting the pastor for the past week, was called home Wednesday on receipt of a telegram informing him of the death of his brother-in-law, Rev. J. S. Nelson, Presiding Elder of the Washington District, a preacher of ability is now assisting the pastor. He preached a fine sermon last night.

Rev. Jas. H. Carter, Pastor of the Missionary Baptist Church and Rev. W. J. Gay of Pitt Mission have been rendering aid. Services are held daily at 9 o'clock a. m., and 7:30 p. m.

OFFICE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, RALEIGH, April 15, 1881. To the Citizens of North Carolina:

An effort is being made to entertain delegates who will attend the prohibition convention in this city the 27th instant. Those who will be entertained must send their names to the chairman prior to the meeting of the convention.

Reduced rates have been granted on several railroads, and it is confidently expected that all the roads will make similar arrangements.

SCRAPS.

An Aesthetic Written for a Scrap-Book. Man is a "scrap" of complacency, grand in his own conceit.

And woman a "scrap" of tenderness, faithful, and loving, a sweet, Roving along life's pathway, toward the heavenly Gate.

Yoked in bonds of affection, content with their "scraps" of Fate.

Kisses are "scraps" of ecstasy, gathered from day to day, And love is a "scrap" of heaven, sent to illumine their way.

Together they form a poem, fit for the volume of life, Ending like all other poems, with beauty and happiness rife.

Collecting "scraps" in a volume, is peculiar to man and his mate, Of poems and prose—inflative—alas! this disease has seized Kate.

No other animals write "scraps," and print them to see how they look, No other animals read them, and paste them away in a book.

Of all such collections may this be the most interesting and neat, Rich, rare, and peculiar; tender, and true, and complete.

Col. Pope's Letter.

A. Pope, General Passenger Agent of the Associated Railways of Virginia and the Carolinas, has sent the following letter to many citizens in the State and we hope all our readers will respond to it promptly:

"In order that I may give to matter that I am preparing for publication in the ADVANCE, I wish to obtain from emigrant citizens of North Carolina, short but comprehensive articles—upon 1st. The kind of agriculture best suited to intending immigrants, whether from the Eastern, Middle, or Northern States, or Great Britain or the Continent of Europe. 2nd. The methods of colonization best adapted to enable small farmers unacquainted with our climate, soil, customs, &c., to succeed in the planting, raising and gathering of cotton, corn, wheat, hay, clover and other grasses. 3rd. The stocking, gathering, caring for and preparing for market of different kinds of fruits and the raising of Domestic Fowls and animals for market. 4th. The most comfortable style of a house consistent with absolute economy, that will suit the climate, be healthful, and of a capacity for a family of two to four persons, not considering or providing for interior finish of any other than ordinary comfort. 5th. Methods of carrying to and from, for immigrants to settle and become most quickly satisfied and self-sustaining, and any other subject with which you are familiar. The result of these inquiries will be incorporated in published matter, and in due course translated into other languages to be distributed abroad. All methods of transportation enabling Foreign or Domestic Immigrants to come into the territory traversed by our Lines are completed, and I await compilation of proper information indicated herein to make methodical efforts during the ensuing Spring, Summer and Autumn that will attract them thither in time to locate and prepare for the crops of 1882.

WM. H. PALMER. April 16th, 1881.

State News.

The Raleigh News-Observer gives notice that hereafter its weekly will contain 42 columns.

Raleigh Visitor: R. W. Best, Esq., special agent of the agricultural department for North Carolina, is in the city looking after the statistics in regard to the manufacture of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, snuff, &c. He says the old North State stands head and shoulders above other States in the amount of cotton made to the acre.—He will canvas the State in the above interest for the census department at Washington City.

A letter from Rev. E. W. Gilliam, lately the Protestant Episcopal minister at Clinton, North Carolina, addressed to the editor of the Raleigh News-Observer, announces that Mr. Gilliam is now at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, where he will shortly be admitted into the Roman Catholic communion. Mr. Gilliam will then return to North Carolina and make Oxford his home.

Tarboro Southerner: Judge Howard is having the old Edgecombe Hotel taken down for the purpose of erecting two large brick stores, which will be occupied by S. S. Nash & Co.—We understand the Edgecombe Agricultural Works is working on double time, turning out twenty Planters daily and can hardly keep up with their orders.—The several stables now training at Runnymede Park will give a number of trials of speed on Friday, April 29th, 1881.—With regret we have to chronicle the death of one of our oldest citizens, Mrs. Lucy Parker, who departed this life of Monday night, in this place, at the advanced age of 78 years.—The new drug store occupied by Mr. T. A. Macnair is fitted up in unique style.

We learn from one of our exchanges that Colonel McGehee, our Commissioner of Agriculture in Raleigh, was called on last week by some Germans from the North, who were here prospecting for the best timbered sections of the State in which to found a colony. After receiving full information they visited the designated section, and returning reported that they were satisfied in every respect. They will return North with a favorable account. Their intention is to settle in a colony, and after work have their brewery for refreshment, and so keep up their language and national habits. The commissioner informed them of the settlement of their countrymen in Salem, who had now preserved their language in tact for two hundred years.—These gentlemen were most of all pleased with our people, and their own words were that, not even a remnant of prejudice did they discover against the Northern people. If they come, they will manufacture of the timber from a toy to the most elaborate specimens in wood work.
