JUDGE FURCHES.

Here is How the Republican Candidate for Governor Expresses Himself.

At the Republican Convention held at Statesville last week Judge Furches was called on to make a speech and he said that inasmuch as his name was mentioned for office-the Governorship-it was proper for him to express his views very fully. He then made a speech of which the following is an extract, as published in the Landmark:

"He said he had no particular objection to an increase of currency but he wanted every dollar to be worth a dollar. In 1830 the per capita circumeanors of which he stands charged was only $7. Now it was $28.
