THE ADVANCE,
WILSON, N. C.
THURSDAY, June 8th, 1893.

Notwithstanding the fact, that the largest and most popular colleges are located in the North and patronized by northern men, we are pleased to see that the south still leads in point of brain, even in these stragglers of northern education. At West Point this year, of the five leading men four were from the south, and those taking first and third honors were George P. Howell and Robt. P. Johnson, North Carolinians, at Yale also the first honors were captured by a North Carolinian.

With the June number a new magazine is placed before the public eye. "McClure's Magazine" is a new departure, in many ways. First, its price has been fixed at $1.50 per year. Secondly, it inaugurates a new feature in its "Human Documents." In this department is shown the gradual advancement and strengthening of the character of different noted men and women, the stages of advancement being depicted by photographs taken from time to time during the life of the subject of the sketch. These and many other peculiar features make this a very desirable periodical.

"Who are the Greatest Wealth Producers?" is the subject of a paper by W. H. Mallock that appears in the June number of the North American Review. Mr. Mallock controverts the claim that the wealth of the modern world is created by the manual labor of the working classes, maintaining that by far the greater proportion of it is directly traceable to the part taken in industrial activity by the few who possess the ability of invention and management.

The June number of the "Review of Reviews" has many instructive articles, but perhaps none will be read with more general interest than those on the Chicago Fair. That of "Transit Facilities at Chicago and at the Fair Grounds," will be read by every one, and particularly by those anticipating a trip to the great exposition. The different transportation lines have an aggregate carrying capacity of 197,000 per hour or 3,500,000 per day of eighteen hours. Thus it will be seen that all may ride without fear of being even crowded.

The article on "Art at the World's Fair" is also an attractive feature of this number. We have before us the May number of the "University Magazine," edited under the auspices of the D. and P. societies, Collier Cobb, managing editor. It contains many very instructive historical papers, but none that we read with more pleasure and profit than that on Commodore Maury, by Kemp P. Battle.

"The Cosmopolitan," always bright and new, is particularly so in this number. "The City of Brooklyn," by Murat Halstead, with its profusion of beautifully executed illustrations is alone, well worth the subscription price. This number also contains an account of the engagement in Hampton Roads, in which the famous "Merrimac" took the leading part. The treatment of the subject is entirely impartial.

"The Sanitarian" is a journal given up to the sanitary interests of this country. In its June edition we find articles on such subjects as "The Cholera in Hamburg in 1892," "Prevention of Disease and Death," etc. We also note a very full paper on "Climate and Mineral Springs of North Carolina," in which the many natural advantages of Western North Carolina as a sanitarium are set forth with telling force.

The resignation of Professor H. E. Van Denman, who has been chief of the division of pomology since its formation in 1886, has been requested by Secretary Morton to take effect June 15. No cause for the request has been stated.

Deserving Praise.
We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never had a single complaint, and have never had a single remedy that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. J. Hines Druggists.

OUR EXHIBIT AT CHICAGO.

Mr. T. K. Bruner Returns and Tells of North Carolina's Exhibit.
Mr. T. K. Bruner returned yesterday from Chicago where he has been about six weeks putting the North Carolina exhibit in shape, he being the chief of the installation. A great deal of hard work has been done and the exhibit is now in order. He thinks that it is fortunate that North Carolina did not have a separate State building, as the situation now is much better than it would have been had the exhibition been off to itself. The arrangement of the exhibit is excellent and it attracts much attention and has elicited general and favorable comment.

Mr. Bruner expresses himself as much gratified at the showing North Carolina makes. The exhibit is very handsome, and indeed some outsiders have said that it is the handsomest in the building. The grain makes a beautiful display, and along with it are the cotton and tobacco displays which are still more showy and attractive. Along with these are the fertilizer exhibit and marls which make a handsome appearance. There is a beautiful collection of preserved fruit, among them being a branch of a pear tree from Colonel Wharton J. Green's farm with twenty-nine good large pears on it, preserved in a tall eight gallon jar, which attracts much attention.

These fruits adorn the open fret work of the pavilion. The forestry exhibit is in the Forestry Building, and a prominent North Carolinian who saw it last week pronounced it the handsomest installation in that building. The cases are of polished oak with relief carving and are twelve feet high. At the base are displayed sections four feet long and four inches thick from the heart of the tree, one half being polished and the other natural finish. On the natural finish are placed miniature maps showing the growth and distribution of each species in the State. Above the sections are photographs of the several trees as they stood in the forests.

In the mining division the exhibit is surrounded by a handsome colonnade in white covered with mica after a design prepared by Mr. Peter M. Wilson. The cases containing the minerals are of polished oak and forty feet in length with a systematic collection of the gold, silver and copper ores, arranged geologically and geographically as they occur in the State. The iron ores are arranged in the same manner. Mr. H. B. C. Nitze, of the State Geological Survey, took exclusive control of the metalliferous ores and deserves much credit for his work. Prof. Holmes has done valuable work in this connection also, especially in the very handsome collection of building stones.

The gems and gem stones and gold nuggets occupy twenty-four feet of show case and it is surrounded by a large crowd constantly. This collection is so complete that it would astonish any North Carolinian not fully acquainted with the resources of the State.—State Chronicle.

Intimations of Immortality.
This poem was written in the prime poetic period of Wordsworth's life. He composed it partly in 1803, the same year in which he visited Scotland, and made the acquaintance of Scott, then known by his "Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border," and partly in 1806.

He says in a commentary upon it: "This was composed during my residence at Town-End, Grasmere. Two years at least passed between the writing of the first four stanzas and the remaining part." And also: "I took hold of the notion of pre-existence as having sufficient foundation in humanity for authorizing me to make for my purpose the best use of it I could as a poet."

Wordsworth reasons thus, just as certain impressions coming to us in childhood seem to be recollections of some beautiful previous state of existence when they must have been relatives, so these same impressions, lingering with us through life in all its experience, point forward to a state to come afterwards where they will become relatives.

He says: "Let us bear in mind that, though the idea is not advanced in relation, there is nothing there to contradict, and the fall of man presents analogy in its favor."

Accordingly a pre-existent state has entered into the popular creeds of many nations, and among all persons acquainted with classic literature it is known as an ingredient of Platonic philosophy.

Perhaps the best stanza of the poem is the ninth, because it states more satisfactorily than do the others the great thoughts it contains.

"The truths that make To perish never."
Wordsworth's peculiar new Nature is particularly portrayed in the sixth stanza.

"He believed that nature had a personality, even a soul of her own, and capable of communing with man and of sympathizing with him."

The Americans now in China will be ordered to withdraw, and what trade we have with China will stop. Mr. Gresham has already been notified of this. There is nothing further to be said on the part of the Chinese Government."

A young business man of Norfolk went out on a spree, last week, and after getting "pretty full," he was induced to join a game of cards. He lost $2,300 and gave his check for that amount. It was such an evident case of robbery however, that payment of the check was stopped, and he was saved.

Commercial Printing.
An examination of the stationery of the average merchant brings to light some curious things. Take letter and bill heads, for instance. A great many men, who desire to be considered as possessing good taste and fair judgment, use letter heads which are the extreme of simplicity. That is good taste; such a heading is neat, quiet, and measurably attractive but when it comes to the bill head, nine men out of ten insist on printing on their bill heads the title of almost every article in stock. Letter heads are used in correspondence with prospective customers, as well as with present ones, and the prospective customer is the man at whom advertising should be aimed. The bill head goes to the man who has bought the goods; he never sees it until he has become a customer, and then there is very little to be gained by enumerating a long list of goods in him. However there are certain unwritten laws governing the general style and get-up of cards representing various trades and professions, and if your printer is "modern" you will do well to let him arrange the style. Printers are generally pretty clever people, and very frequently, unless you are an "expert" a little latitude given your favorite printer in regard to style will result in a much more satisfactory job than if you dictated an arbitrary arrangement. Many a printer is compelled to turn out work at which his heart sickens, and which reflects badly upon the workmen in his employ, because his customer "used to set type himself." Of course he gets his pay for it, but that makes the matter no easier to contemplate if the job is a discredit to him.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 26, 1892.—8 years ago I was sick with hemorrhage of the kidneys and could not receive no permanent help, although I did receive help for a short time only from two doctors. A gentleman, Mr. Wilkinson, recommended Pond's Extract to my father and said he would try it if he was me, I did, and as a consequence I have had no hemorrhage in over seven years, and know I am perfectly cured of it. It has been helpful for other complaints also. Arthur E. Bartlett, No. 551 River street.

A Broken-Down Man Restored to Perfect Health

By the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking AYER'S Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 120 pounds, I now can brag of 150 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I swear by AYER'S and believe this preparation to be the best in the market to-day."—S. P. SMITH, 312 Poplar st., Towanda, Pa.

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this my body was covered with a pimply eruption. The remedies prescribed for me by the doctors did me no good. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and after using two bottles of it, I felt like a different man—the pains ceased and the pimples have disappeared. I advise every young man and woman, in any case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. LOUIS JARMAN, Junior, 35 William st., New York City.

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver.
