THE ADVANCE,
Wilson, N. C.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1893.

PRESENT PRICES.

The price of cotton is now the same as it was this time last year, about 7 cents. This low price should not discourage us because everything is now depressed and we all remember how rapidly the price advanced last fall. The price of tobacco now being sold is of course low because only the lowest grades are being marketed. But if the tightness of money can be relieved, it looks like good prices will rule. For both cotton and tobacco the Wilson market is always the highest in the State. We do not advise farmers to sell their produce until money begins to circulate more freely.

The Secretary of the Treasury at Washington refused last week to pay out silver dollars for gold. The reason given is that the silver dollars are held to redeem outstanding silver certificates. Yet the Government has one hundred and thirty million dollars in silver bullion. Why don't the Government take the advice of the ADVANCE and coin this bullion into dollars and pay it out for gold when people want silver dollars? The cry is that we want gold and here is a chance to get it in exchange for silver.

The week in Congress has been passed by the House, in discussion of the Wilson bill, which provides for the stoppage of silver purchases, of the Senate in waiting to see what the House will do. There was a great deal of speech-making and it may be said that the friends of silver have done the best speaking and altogether have managed their case with great ability. It appears certain however that when the vote is taken the House will pass the Wilson bill and that the vote in the Senate will be very close.

In the meantime the financial situation becomes more strained. Mills are closing every day. Banks are suspending and even the wealthiest concerns can get no currency. The large number of unemployed people are beginning to be heard from, and it is being felt everywhere that the present situation cannot continue long.

The question is will the stoppage of silver purchases do any good. The ADVANCE cannot see wherein it will afford any immediate relief. Moore currency is the immediate need, for without this we cannot market tobacco and cotton. It is true that there is just as much money in the United States as there was a year ago, when there appeared to be enough. The money has disappeared from circulation. Where, to no one can say. The banks have not got it, the business men say they have none, the people are short, and yet the money is all in this country. It is supposed that lack of confidence has led everybody to hold on to the cash they have and there is no other explanation at hand, to account for the currency famine, for it is certain that there is as much money in the whole country as there was a year ago. Why has confidence been destroyed? There are many answers to this question, but the ADVANCE thinks that the bad state of affairs in Europe caused distrust here, which distrust has been augmented by the agitation of the silver question and the heavy decline in silver. We all are convinced that if the money in the country could get back into circulation the trouble, for the present at least, would be over. The ADVANCE says: Coin the silver bullion held by the Government into money and let it come into circulation. Every dollar will help. As for our own section, if we cannot get money for tobacco and cotton we will be in a bad fix, but on the other hand if these crops can be marketed at a reasonable price we believe our people will be better off than they have been in several years. Crops are good and much hog and hominy has been made.

Senator Vorhees says, "I will stake my reputation that Mr. Cleveland is for gold and silver."

TWO PREVIOUS.

At the Virginia State Convention last week which nominated Col. O'Ferrall for Governor, a resolution was passed on motion of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, congratulating President Cleveland on the birth of a son. The resolution excited great enthusiasm and was telegraphed to the President, but it seems that Fitz was too previous. At least Mrs. Cleveland knew nothing about it as she was out sailing the same day. We infer from this that the gallant general is not so intimate with the President's household affairs as he pretends to be, and we fear this premature action will only tend to strengthen the President's disinclination to appoint Virginians to office. To our friends over the border line we offer Davey Crockett's motto: "Be sure you are right and then—pass your resolutions."

WASHING TON, Aug. 22.—After some unimportant business had been disposed of Mr. Vorhees, chairman of the Finance committee, then at 12:25 took the floor and addressed the Senate in advocacy of the bill reported by him discontinuing the purchase of the silver bullion. It was spoken with all the energy and vehemence that Mr. Vorhees has ever displayed in a speech before the Senate. From the first sentence he commanded the close and earnest attention of Senators on both sides of the chamber and of an unusually large audience in the galleries. The delivery of the speech occupied an hour and thirty-five minutes. After Mr. Vorhees took his seat he was congratulated by many Senators. The galleries then began to thin out and a number of Senators left the chamber.

In the house the debate on silver was continued, but nothing of importance done. Hon. F. A. Woodard was appointed a member of the committee on elections.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.
Is it worthy of North Carolina and Her People?

The Committee of the Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor to inspect the University, of which our esteemed townsman, Elder P. D. Gold, was a member, made a full and detailed report at commencement. We print a few extracts which will inform the people of the condition and management of their chief institution of learning.

GENERAL CONDITION.
The general condition of the University is one of healthy, vigorous growth. The spirit that prevades it, from the president to the manager of the baseball team is pushing, hopeful and progressive. There is a determination to make it all that a reasonable public will demand.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS TONE.

Your committee as a body, and individually, were very favorably impressed with the high moral and religious tone of the University, as it applies to both the faculty and the students. We were informed that the students regularly attend some of the church services of the several Christian denominations having churches at Chapel Hill. The orderly decorum, and gentlemanly bearing, and the quiet of the students at the chapel service and prayers were very marked, and the members of the committee were highly pleased and gratified. The young men listened attentively to the reading of the scriptures, and engaged heartily in the service of song. The morning prayers we attended impressed us as solemnly as would a family worship before the duties of the day begin. It was a company of joyous, hopeful, happy young men. Your chairman, by invitation of the young men, attended the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, and by their request made a short talk after reading some selections from the scriptures. The motion, though not perceptible, is slow and dignified. One does not realize that the height is vast, and locked in behind the grilles of the windows, there is little more conception of risk than if the wheel were a tower of granite. Theaters galore are to be found on the Plaisance. Eight or nine are in a chronic condition of performance all day and most of the night. The more important of them are of the eastern, and bear a strong family resemblance to the one to the other. Their attractions are largely salutory, and for the first time Americans are afforded an opportunity to view the dance de ventre, if not in all its nakedness, at least nearly so. The theater was this performance takes place as is attached to the concession known as the "Street in Cairo." Opinions as to the advisability of permitting the

THE STATE NEEDS THE UNIVERSITY AND THE UNIVERSITY IS WORTHY OF THE STATE.

We believe that the University is worthy of our highest efforts to maintain it and to broaden its influence, and to send out its light to bless the State in blessing its young men and broadening them for service. The State needs the University. The University is worthy of the State. Let us keep it so. As our educational horizon expands with the advance of these wonderful times let us enlarge the center light that its rays may touch the remotest points and bring hope and joy to the men who are to come after us.

MIDWAY PLAISANCE.

Three Quarters of a Mile of Amusement and Lifeless Frolics.

All Mankind Represented by Quaint, Quizzical and Curious Structures and Still More Remarkable Specimens of the Genus Homo—Oriental Night Life.

(Special World's Fair Letter.)

From the top of the Ferris wheel in the Midway Plaisance you can see all the kingdoms of the earth in a moment of time. All kinds, nations, and tongues are to be found on that queer three-quarters of a mile, without par or precedent. Never was there such an opportunity to survey the world from Lima to Peru. Half a dozen continents are represented in the aggregation of concessions. Man, as he is today, beyond the pale, as he was a few thousand years ago in all lands, is on exhibition on the Plaisance. He is there in all shades, from conventional pink and white to lemon colored and burnt sienna. He elbows his brother from the antipodes day after day on the broad roadway. Half a lifetime spent on a exhibition of the human race would not convey the quantity of information that may be derived from a week spent on the Plaisance. It is far more than a mere "show." It is an education. From nature's naturalness through dim demoralization to oriental ease, the process of the world's evolution of civilization is traced out in unmistakable characters.

Then, too, there is a whole multitude of displays quaint or curious from some point of view that illustrate matters other than the manners of the orient or the lack of them in Africa. Things industrial are not forgotten and the savage braves over on Frank avenue are soothed by the charms of music rich and rare. Visitors who stroll into a glass factory, blaze as they may be with the marvels of the exhibition, are startled by finding themselves in close proximity to a Turk or two, a German cavalrman, a Tyrolean singer, a French danseuse, and a Chinese hieroglyph. These are the daily occurrences of the Midway Plaisance. In deference to the railway bridge that crosses Midway Plaisance the street seems to contain a forest of spires and domes. Not more varied or multiform than the inhabitants of the street are the styles of its architecture. The Turkish crescent, surmounted with the Turkish crescent, roof of thatched and red tiled buildings after the fashion of a century or two ago. Most of them manage, whatever their style, to project a tower, a spire, or a material skyward, and in the distance the whole is an inextricably tangled mass of tapering turrets. High above them all is the lofty Ferris wheel, with its myriad supporting rods, that from afar seem as closely woven as the meshes of a spider's web. The huge erection stands half way between the fair grounds and the west-end of the Plaisance, and towers above all its surroundings, dwarfing the tallest of the minarets in the comparison. Certainly it is as distinctly the curiosity of the fair as was the Eiffel tower at the Paris exposition four years ago. From the ground to the top of the wheel is a distance of 350 feet, and in its circumference are contained 38 cars, each constructed to carry 25 people. The "wheel" comprises twice around the circuit, a distance in all of 1,500 feet, and occupies in all some 20 minutes. From one point of view the wheel is somewhat like a Ferris wheel, and from the other, it is a collection of the most picturesque objects of the fair grounds. It is difficult, however, to discover any justification for the application of the term to the Turkish or the Algerian concessions. In both cases the village is merely a collection of booths where visitors are entrapped into paying three or four prices for Broommagne goods alleged to have been imported from the east.

Even to mention some of the attractions of the thirty or forty concessions on the Plaisance would occupy more space than is obtainable within the narrow limits of a newspaper article. Almost every variety of amusement is to be discovered in the fair grounds. It is difficult, however, to discover any justification for the application of the term to the Turkish or the Algerian concessions. In both cases the village is merely a collection of booths where visitors are entrapped into paying three or four prices for Broommagne goods alleged to have been imported from the east.

Mr. Thomas Batte, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. J. Hines.

Never use feather beds or pillows. Air them thoroughly on a windy day in a cool place. The sun draws the oil and gives the feathers a rancid smell.

A little kerosene oil rubbed briskly over the spots on dark clothing will brighten the garment and remove the stains almost like magic. The kerosene will evaporate quickly and leave no stain.

Cover iron rust spots with salt, then squeeze lemon or pineapple juice over them and lay in the sun.

performance have been much divided, but no official censure has been passed upon what is sometimes termed its indecency. Certain it is that the dances are clad more after a fashion suited to the climate of sultry Egypt than of chilly Chicago, and certain it is that the audience is mainly of the sterner sex. But beyond all doubt the theater illustrates the customs of the country whence the performers have come, and the concessionaires of the Cairo street defend their dances on the count of their ethnological interest. Like all oriental dances the motion is of the body rather than of the feet. There is no slight grace about the performance, and there is a rhythmic skill that probably no occidental promoter could acquire.
