C. D. Reduces the World's Fair Rates. The Chesapeake and Ohio has placed on sale a World's Fair ticket which is sold daily at one fare for the round trip, the rate being $19 from Richmond and $17 from Lynchburg. A Test Insisted on. "Missouri has a new law, making it a penal offense for a husband to desert his wife until he has lived with her ten years," remarked Squidgy.

"What do you think of that?" "I suppose the legislators think that if a man's love hasn't decayed in ten years it will last a lifetime," replied McSwilligen.

Men That Jump at conclusions, are generally "off their base." Because there are numbers of patent medicines of questionable value, it doesn't follow that all are worthless. Don't class Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with the usual run of such remedies. It is way above and beyond them! It is doing what others fail to do! It is curing the worst cases of Chronic Nasal Catarrh. If you doubt it, try it. If you make a thorough trial, you'll be cured. $500 forfeit for an incurable case. This offer, by World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. POETRY.

AFTER ALL.

She loves me now. She kneels beside my bed, Her precious kisses bless my hands, my brow!

There is no shame for such a passion now, For I am dead.

The blinds are drawn; the cross is at my head, And through the window, just two inches raised, There steals all sweets that ever birds have praised, But I am dead.

Myills are all forgiven, with faltering tone, Love, where least looked for, finds some good to say, And are all kind, as on a child's birthday.

No faults are known, With streaming eyes and piteous bent head, She comes too late, Not even that word is said.

I do not know, I do not wish I had, I cannot answer to her agony, In this great space of peace it makes no stir.

And in good time the Lord will comfort her, Who comforts me.

Advice to Mothers. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Tom Anjry, a student, applied to the professor for permission to be absent.

"I should like to be excused this afternoon, as I want to take my sister out driving."

"Want to take your sister out driving, do you? Is any relation to you?"

Woman is wonderfully made! Such beauty, grace, delicacy and purity are alone her possessions. So has she weaknesses, irregularities, functional derangements, peculiar only to herself. To correct these and restore to health, her wonderful organism requires a restorative especially adapted to that purpose. Such an one is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—possessing curative and regulating properties to a remarkable degree. Made for this purpose alone—recommended for no other! Continually growing in favor, and numbering as its staunch friends thousands of the most intelligent and refined ladies of the land. A positive guarantee accompanies each bottle—at your druggists. Sold on trial!

Frankness with a Vengeance. Some ladies never, never can understand that a man of letters should sometimes be left alone in his den. Byron himself says that, however much in love he might be at any moment, he always felt, even when with the fair, a hankering to be back in his untidy library. There is a story of Lady Byron's entering the den and asking: "Do I disturb you, Byron?" "Yes,—damnably," answered Child Harold, in an intelligible, if not a pardonable, irritation.

You feel faint and weak in the stomach—no appetite. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

SATISFACTION is guaranteed to every consumer of HOOD'S Sarsaparilla. One hundred doses in every bottle. No other does this.

The idea of being questioned by a woman lawyer is a huge joke to the large burly Irishman, until she began to ques him on personal matters, when, assuming a suspicious air, he remarked, "I don't know your intentions, mum, but I'm a married man."

BILL ARP AND THE BEES.

A Bigger Thing With Him Right Now Than Dime Novels or Free Colours.

There is one good thing about getting stung by a bee. It makes you forget all other troubles for a little while. I have had lots of fun with these bumblebees for the last few days and it renewed my youth. Time was when I thought it a big thing to fight "yellow jackets" and take my chances with the other boys. The bravest boy was the biggest fool and would stay at the hole the longest and thresh all the leaves off of his brush and get stung before he surrendered. I am not that brave now, and I fight with exceedingly caution. But I have killed over two hundred in two days and fought fair and square. My weapon is a grunpan and I take 'em coming and going, but they crowd me sometimes and my arms attract attention among the nabobs, for they can see me in the upstairs piazza, and one good lady inquired if Major Arp was subject to fits. The bees come out where the weatherboarding joins the floor and my repeated assaults have made them mad generally. Up to this time they have been stinging me in the face, but I have been stung by one of the little grandchild who lives with us, and I'm going to exterminate them if it takes all summer. I tried hot water, but it will not reach them. Just think of that poor little child going round with one eye closed and afraid she will lose the other one; and Mrs. Arp's head all swelled up with two bumps that a phenologist couldn't diagnose. We can't sit in the downstairs piazza with any security. It is a bigger thing right now than bimetalism or free coinage or the tsernake meeting. In fact, it is a relief from politics to fight bees and study them in the books. I wish the editors would fight yellow jackets or wasps or hornets and get stung a few times. It would be a relief to the country and I have heard that such stings are good for rheumatism or any nervous affection. But I think that it takes the conceit out of a man for a while.

My book says that the proper name is "bumblebee," but there is no humility about these at my house. There are from 70 to 300 in a colony and so I know I have nearly killed them all. They live only one summer and never rebuild in the same place. The books say there are three kinds—the masons and the carpenters and the diggers, but what they are good for I don't know unless it is to make a man more willing to quit his work and prepare himself for another. If there were no snakes and tarantulas and stinging things and deadly contagions and denagogenes and thieves and fusses we wouldn't want another world.

The little honey bee is a trump and a wonder from stem to stern. It is good to ruminate about their wisdom and skill and their government. Just think of one queen being the mother of 20,000 and controlling them all more absolutely than any human mother controls her children. Just think of 15,000 workers and only 300 drones in a colony. These drones are the gentlemen, and remind you of our gentlemen loafers and swells who set about on the absolute and get their mother controls her children. Just think of 15,000 workers and only 300 drones in a colony. These drones are the gentlemen, and remind you of our gentlemen loafers and swells who set about on the absolute and get their mother controls her children. Just think of 15,000 workers and only 300 drones in a colony. These drones are the gentlemen, and remind you of our gentlemen loafers and swells who set about on the absolute and get their mother controls her children.

There is no little thing in nature more wonderful than the honeycomb that these little workers make. Its architectural construction gives the most space with the least enclosure, the arched top and bottom of every cell, the exact and uniform thickness of every division, and the wisdom shown in shaping the whole structure to suit the shape of the hive, is indeed, marvelous. Then there is the division of the workers into brigades and regiments and companies—some to gather honey, some to make wax, some to build cells, some to stand guard, some to wait on the queen and her escort as she moves around, and a whole regiment to keep their wings going like revolving fans and supply fresh air in the hive. That fan business makes the humming that is heard on the hive day and night. It is the flutter of the wings of the fanners. How in the world they do everything in the dark is a wonder to me. I was talking to my friend, Mr. Bussey, about it on the train some time ago, and he told me confidentially that he was experimenting to see if he could cross honey bees with lightning bags and get up a bee that could see how to work at night or in the dark. He has applied for a patent on the idea, but whether he has succeeded or not in his experiment I have not heard. He was very sanguine, and the only trouble, he said, was about the cross-firing room in the tail for the fireworks and the sting too. Mr. Bussey is an engineer on the State road, and knows what he is about.

The sting of the bee is said to be the most perfect war weapon ever invented. It is exquisite in its mechanism. It is a hollow tube, and yet the point of the finest carbide needle is immense when compared with it. Under the microscope the sting is perfect in its shape and smoothness—so much so that the point is almost invisible, whereas the point of the needle under the same glass looks like a great crowd of men with scythes and ruts and ridges all over it. This is the difference between the works of God and man. And yet the Almighty hand that made the little bee with his wonderful mechanics, has attached to it a poisonous, the boundless, limitless universe, where there are stars to be seen by the Lord Ross telescope, whose light takes 60,000 years to reach us. Contemplate that for a moment, ye little conceited minds who think it smart

ANTIQUE BEAUTIES.

The Marvelous Mountain Tributary of the Colorado River.

Climax and Dangers Which Bear the Mark of Artistic Hands of a Master. The Chief Ranges of the San Juan Valley. Historic Cave Dwellers.

Western newspaper correspondents have for years, at irregular intervals, discussed the possibility of exploring the wonders of the Rio San Juan, the category of the marvelous this mountain tributary of the great Colorado has taken its place by the side of the far-famed and mysterious Gila. The chief ranges of the San Juan valley have been the center of attraction, and have been viewed from all sides, and their wonders have been told and retold to the world, time and time again. Scientific men have visited this region, have penetrated southeastern Utah, and have considered this valley a place of especial interest, because these cliffs and cave dwellings are probably the oldest in this strange country, being the first built that mysterious and unexplored world of a great and unknown people.

For twenty years the prospector has followed this bold little river and gazed with careless unconcern on the rough and broken walls, so full of intricate and archaic designs, but the mind of the prospector has no room for chance, and he has no time for archaeological investigation, says a Phoenix correspondent of the Cincinnati Tribune. He sees only the glitter of the gold in the sand, and thinks only of the time when he shall have made his "strike." In November of 1882 hundreds of gold hunters rushed madly into the canyon north of the Navajo mountain, traveled three hundred miles over the desert, and were here, suffering terribly from cold, hunger and the long, wearisome journey; in a few days staked out all the available land for fifty miles up and down the river, and then returned home without having obtained so much as color of the gold below. Five cars went east of Chester last night. The bridge collapsed, letting the train through the river below. Five cars went through, the train consisted of a buffet car, dining car, three sleepers and two ordinary coaches. The bridge was over the west branch of the Westfield river.

The ill-fated train was one of the fastest express on the road, stopping only at Pottsville from Albany to Springfield.

The buffet car and two sleepers are a total wreck. The bridge was a spall-lattice structure, 221 feet long. Fifteen bodies have been taken out, two of them unidentified. It is believed that there are two more in the wreck.

They Again Planned to Seize the Government of Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 1.—The steamer Albatross, just arrived from Sidney, via Honolulu, brings news from the latter place of a conspiracy of royalists, having been arranged to restore the queen on the 18th instant by forcing the city, dynamiting the public buildings and then in the panic rushing in and capturing the government buildings. The government was apprised of the conspiracy, and prepared to land his forces and assist in maintaining order. This frustrated the plans of the conspirators who had enlisted 300 natives as soldiers for the plan and had told them that the best way to win the aid of help them. No public alarm was created at the time and all continues quiet.

RHE TREASURY DEPLETED.

WASHINGTON, September 5.—The United States treasury is depleted. But little over the gold reserve remains. Funds must, therefore, be raised at once.

President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle had a conference yesterday and agreed that of all the plans proposed the best was to coin the silver of silver now in the treasury. That amounts to $25,000,000. Mr. Carlisle talked with the leaders of both houses of congress about the matter today and found them all in favor of the plan.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., September 4.—The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis employees presented to president Thomas a signed agreement accepting the 10 per cent reduction for ninety days, saying among other things, "We are willing to bear our share of any burdens falling on the railroad interests of the company, and in view of the present financial conditions, agree to receive for ninety days 10 per cent less than our regular wages."

A Long Ride.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., September 4.—George Water, the young bicyclist of this city, arrived home today from a trip to Chicago and Milwaukee and returned, every mile of which was made on his wheel. He left here on June 11th. The total distance traveled, as shown by the cyclometer, was 3,750 miles.

A FATAL RIDE.

The Brake Refuses to Work and an Electric Car, Heavily Loaded, MAKES A WILD PLUNGE DOWN HILL.

Breaks a Telegraph Pole and Crashes Into a Saloon—Forty-Five People Injured—Cincinnati the Scene of the Disaster.

CINCINNATI, September 4.—The most disastrous street car accident ever recorded took place in this city at 7 o'clock yesterday evening.

An electric car dashed down a hill at frightful speed, left the track, broke a telegraph pole, crashed into a saloon, wrecking both it and the structure it struck.

As a result of the collision two people are dead, six injured beyond recovery, thirty-four more are hurt, many dangerously.

It was soon after the Eden park Sunday afternoon concert had closed and Avondale electric car No. 644 was soon packed with people, and Motorman George Divine ran without incident until he reached the grade a mile long that descends into the business part of the city. Suddenly the brake became unmanageable and the heavy car began to descend with perilous speed.

The frightened passengers were kept in their seats by force and persuasion while the car shot down the hill with awful velocity until it left the track, and smashing a telegraph pole which stood in its path into two pieces, plunged into the saloon at 351 Broadway.

There were forty-five people in the car and not one of them escaped injury.

The motorman claims that the car had attained no unusual momentum when the brake refused to do its office. Of the six fatally injured it is believed that not one can survive for forty-eight hours, while others of the injured may develop more dangerous wounds than appear at the first hasty examination.

A PLUNGE TO DEATH.

Caused by the Collapsing of a Railroad Bridge in Massachusetts.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., September 1.—A terrible accident on the Western express No. 19, Boston and Albany railroad, happened at Springfield at 1:14 o'clock, due at the second railroad bridge east of Chester last night. The bridge collapsed, letting the train through the river below. Five cars went through, the train consisted of a buffet car, dining car, three sleepers and two ordinary coaches. The bridge was over the west branch of the Westfield river.

The ill-fated train was one of the fastest express on the road, stopping only at Pottsville from Albany to Springfield.
