THE ADVANCE,
Wilson, N. C.

THURSDAY, - November 8, 1894.

THIS YEAR has given birth to quite a number of news papers in this State. The excitement of the campaign being over, many will no doubt die in their swaddling clothes.

NOW THAT the election is over people can settle down to business, and show people that the country is not going to the dogs no matter who is elected or who is not.

SMALLPOX broke out in the Interior Department at Washington a week or two ago, and the employees have been badly frightened. The disease is now under control.

DEMOCRATS have made an earnest, aggressive campaign, and their speakers have all covered themselves with glory. The only regret is that there is not offices enough to go round, and that some will have to go without for a few years.

POLITICIANS and demagogues have a good chance to confine themselves to the truth for the next two years. It would be an excellent thing for the country if some of them could be confined at home for an equal length of time.

KITCHIN'S RETURN to the Democratic party would have taken place two months ago if the papers had not talked so much about the doughty Captain. His Lear has been in his boots during the whole campaign, and he would have been back long ago but for the continued nagging of the newspapers.

MANY ORATORS have been developed during this campaign. Some men that you never dreamed of as being Demosthenes inclined have developed enough eloquence to keep the country astonished until the next election comes around. And too, some have developed enough eloquence to make splendid base ball players.

NOW THAT the election is over it is about time to settle down to business again. This is the best country in the world and can be made one of the most flourishing on the face of the earth. If Populists and Democrats and Republicans will co-operate together to build up this great country, it will become the garden spot of the world.

CAZAR ALEXANDER III who died last week was a good man. Russia prospered under his reign. He was a Christian and did all he could to better the condition of his people. His persecution of the Jews, it has been said, was the blot upon his reign. If Nicholas the present Czar, will make as good a ruler, Russia will have cause to rejoice.

HILL was beaten in New York because he was the representative of Tammany. The revelations of the Lexow committee for the last month or two have changed the sentiment in New York City against Tammany and in the landslide Hill went down before it. After all the result in New York City will no doubt be a blessing to the metropolis, for it will help to destroy that corrupt ring that has ruled the city so long.

LAST THURSDAY the University football team played the Georgetown college team at Washington. D. C. and beat them badly. They had just been up North and got beaten, and when they got to Washington, they fell back on their second strength and gave the Columbian fellows a severe drubbing. The University football team is all right in the South, but the climate North is not favorable for good football playing.

DURING the campaign we heard some speeches from the Populists. One especially was exceedingly disrespectful in his remarks about President Cleveland. We thought at the time that his remarks were very much out of taste. We think a man who has become President of this great country is a man worthy of the respect of everybody, and especially the respect of second rate politicians. If a negro were to be elected to that high office, we should respect him. Therefore we noticed the manner of the aforesaid speaker and thought he reflected upon himself.

STICK TO THE FARM.

There is a restlessness displayed by the sons of our farmers. They want to get away from the farm. They want to go to town to stand behind the counter. They want to become merchants, drummers, clerks, anything to escape the routine of the farm. They are disgusted with the drudgery of the farm with its toils, its hardships, its losses, and its privations.

They have gotten the idea that there is no money in farming, but think there is some in some of the vocations that the town affords. They think that the farmer is not held in high respect, but is rather sneered at by the world at large.

That is a mistake. There is no class of citizens in the country who are more universally respected than the farmer. As for the profit in farming there may be very little. Others can answer that better than ourselves. There is however, very little profit in anything just now. The young man from the farm need not expect to go from the farm into an enterprise that is paying large salaries or large dividends. If he does, he will be disappointed.

Besides that, the farm is the bulwark of this country's prosperity. While seemingly there is no profit in farming, yet there is. There is a living in it, and a man may well be satisfied at that until times become better.

It would be lamentable for the town and cities to build up at the expense of the country. It is a thing to be desired that the town and cities should grow and prosper, but they should grow because of the country's prosperity and not because of the country's poverty. It would be a sad sight for a tide of emigration to set out from the country toward the city. It would be a calamity for the country, and would be no substantial benefit to the city.

Besides, the country needs men of energy and push. It needs men of intelligence. It needs men of education. Farming is one of the most honorable of callings, and should be made one of the most profitable. A determination to succeed will succeed even on a farm, and a successful farmer stands as high in financial circles as any other man.

Who is more honored than the farmer who is thrifty and able to meet his obligations at all times? Not the merchant, nor the lawyer, nor the doctor, nor anybody else. Then, why should the farmer boy desire to leave the farm? He will not profit by it, neither in wealth nor in social standing.

There is no reason for the longing of the farmer's son for city life. Indeed, there is every reason for him to remain on the farm and contribute his help to the financial regeneration of the country.

WAR IN THE ORIENT.

Since the first of September the war in the East between China and Japan has been dragging itself along quite slowly. The Chinese have been whipped in a number of battles both on land and sea. Indeed it seems that China with its millions is but a pigmy in the hands of the more supple Japs.

Last week a battle was won by the Japanese near the Yalu river and the Chinese fled, leaving the field to the victorious enemy who then pushed on into China to carry the war into the enemy's country. The Japs now say they are going to take Pekin and bring China to her knees. They have invaded China and are pushing on to Moukden, the capital of the Chinese province of Manchuria. It is thought that that city will fall a prey to the enraged Japs before the winter sets in.

If Moukden falls, then Pekin lies open before them. But engineers say that the Japanese can never take Pekin, because the city is approachable by means of long causeways over mucky earth. Any army endeavoring to reach the city would fall a prey to the defenders even with half resistance.

Let that be as it may the Japs have said they wish to try it, and are now heading toward the imperial city. If the Chinese don't fight any better than they have been fighting, the Japanese will stand some chance of entering that Chinese stronghold. One thing has been shown by the war thus far, and that is that the Chinese are poor soldiers. They are said to be poorly equipped for war. Some of the companies have no other weapons than the bow and arrow, while the Japanese are supplied with all the modern arms and implements of war.

If such a condition of affairs exist, Japan will certainly get the better of the contest, and we should not be surprised to hear of the fall of Pekin and the overthrow of the Chinese empire.

WHY CLEVELAND IS SILENT.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Times says: "While many people," said the same gentleman, "are disposed to bet against Hill's election to New York Governorship, Hill has a splendid fighting chance. A prominent administration politician said to-day that with the exception of Peckham and one or two other Cleveland men, Mr. Cleveland's friends in New York were working earnestly for Hill's success. This gentleman remarked that the President would have to come out in a letter for Hill had the Hill representatives started at him in the right way. They clamored too vehemently for an expression. My authority says that Mr. Cleveland did not like the idea of his democracy being questioned, and that he became offended at the way certain people were trying to force him to write a letter. He says that the President is really glad at heart to see his partisans working for Hill.

Senator Hill has himself declared that he is perfectly satisfied with the support the friends of the administration are giving him. If he is satisfied, why should others be discontented? We would be delighted to see Mr. Cleveland, even now, late as it is, come out and say some strong words to help the Democracy of New York, for it needs help; but if he does not, we take it for granted that he has reasons which are sufficient to justify him in his own consciousness, and we shall not quarrel about it, hoping all the time that New York will not be given over to the enemies of the national Democracy. Cleveland and Hill should be friendly. The good of the country demands it.—Norfolk Landmark.

THE CZAR DEAD.

For weeks the condition of the Emperor Alexander III of Russia had been precarious. He struggled against the dreaded messenger until last Thursday he succumbed to the destroyer.

He was in his fiftieth year and had been emperor of all the Russias since 1881 when he ascended the throne upon the assassination of his father in that year by the Nihilists. He thus held the reins of Government a little over thirteen years.

During his reign Russia was at peace with the world. He was a man of peace, and if it had not been for him, England and Russia would have come to blows in 1884. He counseled peace and thus what appeared, at the time, an excellent chance for some blood shed was averted.

France and Russia have been on very friendly terms during his reign. Indeed, Russia has cause to congratulate herself upon the reign just closed. The only stain upon his memory, that we recall now, is his persecution of the Jews a year or two ago. His otherwise good reputation has been clouded by the cruelty of that act.

Czar Nicholas succeeds him. What will be the character of his reign cannot now be foreshadowed. He is thought to be a more impulsive man than the dead Czar was, and Europe is a little fearful of that impulsive nature. Time, however, will illustrate that.

SPEARS AND BUTLER.

In the third district politics has been very much stirred of late. Both Marion Butler and the Republican Holton wanted Spears to withdraw and give his support to Cy Thompson. Spears thought that he ought not to do so, and so announced his intention of remaining in the field to the last.

Holton, however, circulated the report that Spears had withdrawn, and Butler published last week in his paper that Spears had withdrawn giving way to Thompson. Whereupon Spears wrote a small letter to the Wilmington papers saying that Butler had lied and that he was still in the field. He called Butler all sorts of unchristian names and told him, in his letter, that he would be in Goldsboro on the noon train Sunday, and he could get satisfaction if he wanted it.

A great crowd of people, so we are informed, went down to see the meeting. When the train came in Mr. Spears stepped from the platform, but Mr. Butler did not show up. He had pressing business in Greensboro, and so had left.

It was one of the things that gave spice and variety to the campaign during the last three days of it. We have not been informed as to the final result.

What will the Future be?

The cable and trolley systems of railroads, which have done so much toward developing suburban districts, by affording quick transit to and from the business centres, are being utilized in so many other directions now that it is hard to say what the possibilities will be in the future. St. Louis, for instance, has a street car letter and parcel delivery, with regular express cars running on the lines, and now an ambulance service is to be added. Many places also have street sprinklers running on the car tracks, and perhaps after awhile the fire department will operate in the same way. We are, in fact, just entering upon a new field of motive power for public purposes, and it will be hard for the imagination to run far ahead of what the reality will be. The few years before 1900 may yet be the most wonderful of a wonderful century.—Durham Sun.

The legacy that the nineteenth century will leave to the twentieth will no doubt be the most valuable that any century has left to its successor.

ELECTION RETURNS.

A REPUBLICAN TIDAL WAVE.

New York Gave by a Large Majority, and Hill's Master Fight Comes to Naught.

In all parts of the country the election passed off quietly, so far as heard from. The weather was fair. A perfect day, but a great many voters staid at home. A light vote was polled in many places, especially in the South. In the North the Republicans made large gains. In fact, a perfect landslide in all parts of the North.

NEW YORK. Indications so far as heard from point to Hill's defeat for governor by over one hundred thousand majority. Morton has beaten him in Brooklyn, and the vote is uncomfortably close in New York City. Grant defeated for mayor of New York, and Tammany has been snowed under. Brooklyn has always heretofore gone Democratic, but this year Morton leads Hill there by over ten thousand. It is thought that the Republicans have gained three members of congress from New York City. If that ratio of increase continues the Republicans will organize the next House and Tom Reed will be Speaker.

VIRGINIA. A small vote was polled, especially in Norfolk, where over half the registered vote was lost. Indications are that the Democrats have lost two members of Congress, but possibly returns not yet received will show otherwise. In the Richmond district Ellett is elected to Congress. No estimate of majorities is made so far.

GEORGIA. Livingston is elected to Congress by over two thousand majority. Indications show that the Democrats have elected a solid delegation to Congress.

SOUTH CAROLINA. Evans, Democratic candidate for Governor, is probably elected over Pope, the opposition candidate.

NEWS BY WIRE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Legislature will be Republican by forty majority.

NEW YORK City goes Republican by a large majority.

BROOKLYN gives Morton 18,000, and elects three congressmen in former Democratic districts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 7.—Pennsylvania gives the Republicans 200,000 majority.

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 7.—The Republicans claim a solid Congressional delegation. The Democrats have four members in the present House.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 7.—At midnight it is undoubtedly a fact that the Republicans have carried the State on their State ticket by from 5,000 to 10,000. Besides this, they have gained three Congressmen.

TRENTON, NOV. 7.—The Republicans swept everything except Hudson county, which is solidly Democratic.

WHEELING, W. VA., Nov. 7th.—Returns from the First Second and Fourth districts indicate that the Republicans have carried all three of them, and Wilson is probably beaten.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7th.—Maryland's solid Democratic front has been broken and the Republicans made unprecedented gains in every direction.

LEXINGTON, KY., Nov. 7th.—The Breckinridge and ex-Confederate element is voted largely with the Republicans for Judge Denny for Congress defeated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7th.—According to the last figures at 3 o'clock a. m., the next House of Representatives will stand as follows: Republicans 207, Democrats 145, Populists 4; total 356.

"Dear Sirs:—We have tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and find it to be all we claim for it. She was in this distressing condition every year until she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has effected a perfect cure, without leaving any scars, and she has had No Sign of the Poison Since.
She is well and hearty. I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla after the grip with good results, and have also given it to our four children. We are all pictures of perfect health and owe it to Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. C. FREEMAN, Vandalia, Illinois.
