THURSDAY, December 27, 1914.

In February the National Farmers' Alliance will meet in Raleigh. At that time the corner stone of the monument to the late Col. Polk will be laid.

It now appears that the Carlisle bill will die in the House. More opposition is being developed than was at first supposed. We are sorry to learn this, for we had about concluded that the country needed that law.

CAPT. S. A. ASHE, late editor of the News-Observer, has opened a law office in Raleigh. He was a practitioner before he went into the newspaper business, and now he returns to it after being out for more than a dozen years.

LAST week the Dunn Times changed hands. Dr. J. H. Daniel has retired from the editorial management, and the paper will hereafter be run by Messrs. Pittman and Grantham. We wish them much success in the enterprise.

THE Rocky Mount News is working the project to make a new county out of portions of Nash and Edgecombe counties with Rocky Mount as the county seat. We fear our neighbor is leading in a forlorn hope, for it is extremely difficult to make a new county in this generation.

LAST week the Argus publishing Company was formed at Goldsboro. Mr. Jas. E. Robinson is president of the company and Walter A. Bonitz is secretary and treasurer. Mr. Robinson will continue to be the editor of the Argus and Mr. Bonitz will be the business manager.

Two weeks ago the Scotland Neck Democrat completed its tenth year. Mr. E. E. Hilliard, the present owner and editor, has had charge of the paper for seven years. He has given his patrons a live, conservative paper, and we are glad to know that his patrons think as we do. It is one of our most valued exchanges and we are always glad of its visits.

ANOTHER YEAR DONE.
Another year has been added to the age of the ADVANCE. It is now twenty-four years old. We begin our twenty-fifth year with the next issue.

We have no boasts concerning the past. We are not aware that promises for the future are necessary.

Since the ADVANCE has been under the present management it has been fearlessly outspoken on all public matters, and while we may have made some enemies by that course, we do not now intend to change it. We started out with the intention of conducting a paper that should be true to the people's interests. That is yet our aim. Our purpose is to discuss all public matters without prejudice or passion.

We feel safe in saying that we shall give as good a paper as we have done in the past, and if our patrons show appreciation we shall improve.

THE CARLISLE BILL.

The bill relating to bank currency, which was reported to the House of Representatives on Monday, and for the passage of which all the power of the Administration is to be exerted, amounts to this: The requirement of Government bonds as security for national bank notes is abolished and the bonds now on deposit are to be returned; the prohibitory tax on State bank currency is repealed, and hereafter the 8,000 and more national and State banks in the forty-four States of the Union, are to be allowed to issue notes to circulate as money up to 75 per cent. of their respective capitals, aggregating over $1,000,000,000, upon the mere deposit of 30 per cent. in legal tenders of the amount so issued, and of the payment of an annual tax from which a safety fund of five per cent. is to be accumulated in the course of ten years. Provision is, indeed, made that the notes shall be a first lien upon the assets of the banks issuing them, but this imposes no restriction upon the amount of their issue. The 30 per cent. in legal tenders deposited as security is not to be held as a special fund for the purpose, but like the gold reserve, is to be liable to depletion whenever the necessities of the Treasury may require it. Even the 5 per cent. safety fund is to be expended in the purchase of Government bonds. Of a gold redemption fund not one word is said.

STATE NEWS.

—Durham Sun, Dec. 20th: Wm. Warren who lives near town, has carried the scales to the highest notch yet reported. He killed a hog yesterday that weighed 512. It was a wether, par, too.

—Raleigh Press: Mr. J. W. Dixon, of Greenville, Pitt county, sold his crop of tobacco, which he made on 15 acres of land for $3,100. The cost of cultivation he says, was not over $500. The tobacco was sold on the Henderson market.

—Lexington Dispatch: Mr. Jno. F. Sink is in it when it comes to fine hogs. He killed two recently, one weighing 34½ pounds, the other 33½. They were only eight months old. The stock was Berkshire and Poland China mixed.

—Ringwood cor. Scotland Neck Democrat: Noah Wilkins, colored, found a lump of gold while digging potatoes, at the old Peyton Henly farm, just over Hill's bridge from here, a few days ago. The potato patch was on the spot formerly occupied by the house and the gold was no doubt some of the belongings of the old people of that day who were said to have lots of yellow metal.

—Gastonia Gazette: Hope Starnes, a son of Mr. Clark Starnes at Rock Hill, accidentally shot his little brother Morrow last Saturday. It will be remembered that when living here these same boys went out to kill a dog when Hope by accident shot Morrow in the leg. In last Saturday's accident Morrow caught seven shot in the face and one in the eye. The Rock Hill physicians would not risk an operation on the eye, and Mr. Stultz took the little boy to Chatham Sunday night. No later particulars are at hand.

—Wilmington Star, 21st: Ed. Low, colored, was struck on the head with a bullet of wood last night about 9 o'clock at Second and Red Cross streets by Tom Deans, colored. The wound was a severe one and Low was unconscious for some time. He was taken home by his friends and a doctor was called to attend him. Deans escaped and officers were in pursuit of him last night. The cause of the trouble is not known. Both men have been employed as laborers in the W. & W. railroad yard.

—Newbern Journal, Dec. 20th: Messrs. T. J. Hall & Bro., had at their gunsmith shop yesterday for repairs to the lock a double barrel shot-gun, of surprisingly large size—fully double the size of the guns regularly used. It weighed fourteen pounds, was two inches across the breech by the tubes and with barrels thirty-five inches long. The gun belonged to a Mr. Willis of Smyrna. It is said that with guns of this character a dozen or more ducks are some times killed at a single shot when large flocks are fired into.

—Louisburg Times: On Thursday night of last week, while all the clerks and the boss were at supper, some person or persons, stole about $1,100 from the safe of Messrs. W. P. Neal & Co. Mr. Neal had just received an express package that evening, containing $1,000 and banking hours being over he placed the package in his safe to remain unlocked until the store was closed at night. Mr. Neal thinks that the thief, or thieves, was secreted in some portion of the store, and took the first opportunity afforded to rob the safe.

—Concord Times: The Charlotte papers tell of a man having $1,000 stolen from him near Matthews. Mr. Frank Abernethy is the man. He had recently sold his plantation for $1,000 getting $500 cash on the first payment. This sum, and about this much again, he put in a small bag, which he put in a cigar box which he took to his store and concealed inside a large box. He slept in an adjoining apartment. The next morning the money was missing, and there were evidences that the window had been opened and the robbery thus effected.

—News-Observer, 21st: Mr. Ed. Chambers Smith returned from Franklin county yesterday where he had been to sell some lands belonging to the Smith-Morehead estate. "To show you that times are getting better," said Mr. Smith, "I sold a tract of land to-day for over three thousand dollars more than it brought thirty-days ago. It was sold thirty days ago but was not confirmed; the price to-day was nearly four thousand dollars more than it brought, and land for which we could not get a bidder a month ago sold readily for from $3 to $4 an acre."

—Clinton Democrat: Mr. John Tyler, a former Sampsonian who left this county thirty-six years ago, arrived here from his home near San Francisco, California, last week. He was just seven days in crossing the continent. Mr. Tyler left here a poor boy, and for a number of years resided in Tenn., moving from that State to California fourteen years ago. He engaged in the mercantile business by the successful conduct of which he has amassed considerable property. He is here on a visit to friends of days Auld Lang Syne and renewing old acquaintances which he has not forgotten. He says California is a great State, but that like every other section of the country, it is suffering from business depression at this time.

—Hickory Press: Last Wednesday when the Catawba river was so high, booming from the heavy rains of the two days, the Catawba River Lumber Company had a large number of men employed in saving their 30,000 or more logs in their booms on the river. Among the number was Lee Conner, a colored man of Hickory commonly called "Jumbo." He was in a boat on the river up near where John's river empties into the Catawba river. A log struck his boat and capsized it. He was a good swimmer and pitched out to save his life. He swam heroically for awhile, but the swift current proved too much for him in the burdened condition he was in with his clothes on. He sank and came up the third time when he failed to show up again. The people of the Catawba River Lumber Co., have done all they can to regain the lost body but dredging the river, but have not succeeded in their efforts.

CHARACTER IN WINDOW SHADES.

They Tell Tales About the Innates of the House, a Young Woman Says.

"I don't know anything about the front of a house that more clearly indicates the character and condition of the inmates than the window shades," said a young woman of observation. "If you see the shades all drawn down to precisely the same level in every window, you can tell at once that the house is occupied by a single family and that the mistress is of a severely orderly spirit. There'll not be a thing out of its accustomed place in that house, you can rest assured. If the shades of all the up stairs windows are drawn down to the top of the bottom sash, while those of the parlor are drawn clear down, you can safely judge the family of that house to be one of those essentially domestic ones that live mostly up stairs, where the bedroom is one of the wife's sewing room and the husband's library and where the parlor is only opened on state occasions. If the bedroom window blinds in the middle story are half way down while those on the top floor and of the parlor are away up, you won't be wrong in saying that that house is ruled by the young folks, who are going to have a flood of sunshine in their bedrooms even if it does fad out the matting and who are not going to have the parlor smelling like a musty old church.

"The room with that one window by a man, and if you see the window shades at different heights you take it for granted that they have led lodgings there or that the housekeeping is of a decidedly frisky character. One of the most unfailingly indicative shades, in the thick of the day, is the diagonal window, with one corner close under the roller and the other half way down the sash. The woman of that window is a slattern, and it's babies to bodkins that the growler is rarely empty there.

"These are, of course, only the broad indications of the character residing that may be drawn from the position and way of the cyclids of a house, for I suppose it is not forcing a figure of speech to say that if the windows are the eyes of a house, the shades are the lids and can be held primly straight or give a drunken wink."

HUNTING PYTHONS IN NATAL.

Burn Forests and Dig Pits to Capture the Immense Reptiles.

The colony of Natal, South Africa, abounds in box constrictors and pythons. While they do not attack men or especially destructive of cattle, sheep and oxen, and for this reason parties are formed by hunters and natives to burn the bush and forest in order to exterminate the pests. Some of the soldiers at Pietermaritzburg were recently informed by a party of neighboring Zulus of the whereabouts of a huge python that had been destroying their crops. The soldiers, with 800 natives, started off to capture the snake, and having located it the forest was fired for about a mile roundabout, an enormous pit having been previously dug in the toward the center of the imbrication. What with the burning brush and the shouting of the Kafirs they soon drove the reptile toward the pit, where, closing in upon him, they forced him into it. The python proved to be of enormous size, being 32 feet long and 4½ inches in circumference. It appeared to be quite stupid or dazed, having just eaten a young ox that had been led into the inclosure. An enormous cage, with iron bars half way down the front, having been constructed, the snake was got on to the pit and taken to Maritzburg in the cage. Here it is kept on exhibition at the barracks, and it is fed twice a week two Kafir goats at each meal. It will not eat anything that has been already killed for it, preferring to kill its food itself. The goats are thrust through a small door at the end of the cage alive, when, fixing its great eyes upon them, the snake suddenly lunges forward and crushes them in its powerful fangs. After covering them with a thick slime it most inch deep before swallowing. It flattens them out by squeezing in and then swallows them almost at a gulp. After this the python goes to sleep and does not awake until it is time to feed again.—London Telegraph.

I and You.
Miss Frances Power Cobbe tells a story in her autobiography which well illustrates that even to intelligent and ferocious persons I is big and you very small. "At one of the pleasant gatherings at Mrs. Peter Taylor's, which will not be forgotten by those who had the good fortune to be invited on her apartment evenings at Aulney house, Miss Mary Carpenter remarked, 'It is a thousand pities that everybody will not join and live the whole of their minds to the great cause of the age, because if they would we should carry it undoubtedly.' "What is the great cause of the age?" she simultaneously exclaimed. "Parliamentary reform?" said her host, Mr. Peter Taylor. "The abolition of slavery?" said Miss Redmond, a member of the ladies' companion; "Teotalism?" said another; "Woman's suffrage?" said another; "The conversion of the world to Theism?" said I. In the midst of the clamor Miss Carpenter looked solemnly round. "Why, the industrial school bill, of course." No one enjoyed the joke when we all began to laugh, more than the reformer herself."

Rings as Marks of Tree Growth.
Mr. James Stewart, one of the most intelligent horticulturists of the south, says in a note on the annual ring growth of trees that he knew a case of a tree 25 years old which, when cut down, exhibited 75 concentric rings. The name of the tree is not given.—Mechanics Monthly.

Were it not for the multitude of stories that throng to Egypt and elsewhere, there would be no living in the country, for after every inundation frogs appear in most incredible numbers.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpick, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50c bottles of this remedy for sale by E. M. Nadal, druggist.

—Greensboro Patriot: The sawmill and shuttle factory of C. J. Dundas was burned at Madison early Tuesday morning, everything being destroyed except the boiler. The loss is estimated at $3,000, with an insurance of $1,000. A car-load of goods were awaiting shipment at the time of the fire.

FOR HIS BRAVERY.

How Edward, Prince of Wales, Won the Title of Black Prince.

In the summer of the year 1346 Edward III crossed the English channel with 30,000 men to invade France. At Crecy, not far from the Seine, he was met on the 26th of August by King Philip with 120,000.

While the French were coming on in great disorder there was a total eclipse of the sun, accompanied by a terrible storm, after which the sun came out brightly, shining directly in the faces of the French, but on the backs of the English.

The first charge was made by 15,000 Genoese bowmen, who came forward with a shout, as though to scare the English. The latter, who had been ordered to lie flat on the earth, now arose, stepped forward a pace and let go their arrows so fast that they seemed like blinding snow.

The Genoese fled, and the French king ordered them to be cut down, so that they would not hinder the rest of the army.

In the meantime Edward, the prince of Wales, who was in command of one division, was surrounded by French knights, who, recognizing his rank, determined to capture or kill him. A message was sent to the king telling him that the prince was hard pressed.

"Is my son dead or hurt or on the earth fallen?" he asked.

"No, sire," was the reply.

"Well, then," said the king, "return to them that sent you and tell them to send no more to me as long as my son is alive. I command them to suffer the child to win his spurs, for this day should be his."

The young prince was indeed in great danger. At one time he was unhorsed and struck to the ground, but one of his Welsh knights, who carried the great dragon standard, threw it over him as he lay and stood upon it till the enemy was forced back.

Soon the tide of battle had turned for the English. Edward came down from a high hill overlooking the field and took his son in his arms and kissed him, and said, "Well done, my son, I am proud of you. Right bravely have you acquitted yourself and shown yourself to be a soldier."

Young Edward on this occasion wore a suit of black armor, which so contrasted with his crimson and gold surcoat that he was called "the Black Prince."—Boston Herald.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you hear a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Billboard competition runs pretty high nowadays in the metropolis. An owner of some down town property was awakened by the loud ringing of his doorbell recently in Harlem.

"What on earth is that?" he exclaimed. "Is the house on fire?"

"Somebody's dead," said his wife. In the meantime a servant was returning on answering the bell.

"Please, sir, there's two gentlemen down stairs as wishes to see you," said the girl.

"See me? Why, it's 3 o'clock in the morning."

"Important business, they says, sir."

"Well, I should think it would be, waking a man up this time o' night. I'll have to go down. I suppose."

He quickly threw on some clothing and went below. Two "gents" awaited him in the hall.

"I beg your pardon, sir, for knocking you up at this hour, but I want to make you a proposition for billboards around the corner of your place on Blank street while you are rebuilding. Name your figures, including two theater tickets every night of the season."

"And, sir," began the other "gent," "my company would like to make you a proposition for the use of the walls that may remain standing after the fire."

"Fire! Fire! What are you talking about?" The old man was completely non-committal.

"Well, your place caught fire about two hours ago," said the first "gent."

"And is gutted by this time," added the second "gent."

"Of course you'll give me the refusal for billboards. Remember the two theater tickets!" called the first "gent" as the old man bolted for the stairs.—Cor. Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A High Calling.
Judge Sulzberger spoke a truth which is too often forgotten when he said, in a speech at the high school, that "there is not a teacher in the land that has a higher function than has the lowest teacher in the lowest class of the primary school. They have souls before them, and the faculties of those active, restless souls have all to be called forth. In these few fitting words are embraced the whole scope and possibilities of education, and they make the primary teacher's calling in point of dignity and responsibility the peer of any vocation that concerns mankind."—Philadelphia Record.

Burning Pain

Erysipelas in Face and Eyes
Inflammation Subdued and Tortures Ended by Hood's.

"I am so glad to be relieved of my tortures that I am willing to tell the benefits I have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. In April and May, I was afflicted with erysipelas in my face and eyes, which spread to my throat and neck. I tried divers ointments and alteratives, but there was no permanent abatement of the burning, torturing pain, peculiar to this complaint. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a few bottles, the inflammation subsided, and the pain ceased."
