NORTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE An Outline of the Week's Work in Bot

Senate and House. The following is a condensed synon sis of the proceedings of both branche of the general assembly for the past week:

12TH DAY, January 23.-The most important new bills were to prevent preferences by insolvent corporations; to prevent prize fighting; to provide for a display of the state's resource at the Atlanta exposition by an appropriation of $20,000. A bill passed the senate making May 30th a legal holiday and one was tabled to repeal the merchants' purchase tax. There was a prolonged discussion on the 6 per cent interest bill in the senate and it passed. 13TH DAY, January 24.- The disposure of number of minor bills occupied the time until the joint session was called for the election of of United States senators, the vote resulting in the election of the caucus nominees. Pritchard for the short term and Marion Butler for the long term. Upon reassembling the senate considered the bill to restore 6 per cent as the legal rate of interest. A substitute was adopt-ing providing for a 6 per cent rate for such time as interest may accrue and no more. 14TH DAY, January 25 .- Mr. French, chiar man on the committee on rules, made a report and read the new rules which are printed. The speaker is allowed to designate a speaker pro tem. for two days instead of one. Smoking in the hall is prohibited. The meeting hour is to a. m. All members are to vote unless excused and not over two minutes is allowed in explanation of a vote. Another rule is that a majority of all the members elected may suspend a rule (Heretofore a two-third majority has bee required.) Yet another rule allows no member to speak more than twice on the same qu tion, nor over twenty minutes for the first speech and ten for the second.

Bills passed establishing graded schools at Mount Airy and to so amend its charter that people and not the people and not the commisners are to elect a mayor. Committees were announced as follows: State library, Phillips, chairman: public buildings and grounds. Harris, of Gaston: Colonial ecords, Pool: election of trustees of university. Darden. 15TH DAY, January 26. No important new bills were introduced and the discussion in both houses rested upon unfinished matters without final action. Some leave of absence were granted and the day was generally a dull and Speaks of Southern Advantages. BALTIMORE, January 26. -Mr. Wm. C Lovering, president of the Arltwright club, which represents all of the large New England textile manufacturers, was invited some months ago, after returning from a visit of investigation to the south, to deliver an address before the New England Textile club on cotton manufacturing in the south. This address, which has never before been made public, is given out today, and will be published in this week's issue of the Manufacturer's Record. In this address, which is a very full and comprehensive study of the whole subject, Mr. Lovering says:

"The time has passed when New England manufacturers need to give but little attention to cotton manufacturing in the south. We have come to realize that the south has entered the race in earnest and to stay. Henceforth it must be the survival of the fixest. The old mills in the south, with their antiquated ma-chinery, have been succeeded by first class mills with the best equipment, and we find mills in the south today that will compare favorably with our New England mills, built in every respect to do their work in the cheapest and most improved manner. While it has long been conceded that in certain lines of coarse goods the advantages are in favor of the south. northern manufacturers have comforted themselves with the statement that the manufacture of the finest goods would remain with them, and that the south could not make such goods. In this we are mistaken. There is an actual increase in the production of finer goods in the south, and where manufacturing is once firmly established, it is only a matter of a short time when the labor employed will improve in skill and adapt itself to the finer work. There seems to be no reason why as fine yarns may not be spun in the south as in any other section of our country."

After Sherman captured the city and ter north, but was among the first to return after the restoration of peace. His appointment us United States judge was a surprise to him. President Andrew Johnson tendered him the place and he felt that it was his duty to accent it.

While on the bench Judge Erskine was a maker of history. He was the first Judge to decide that the legal tender greenback law was constitutional, and while the supreme court reversed him, he soon had the satisfaction of senate. seeing that court reverse itself and vindicate his judgment.

He had to administer the reconstruction laws and the revenue laws, and although he conscientiously opposed them he managed to do his duty and still avoid inflicting unnecessary hardships upon our people.

To pursue the course and retain the respect and good will of the federal authorities and of the ex-confederates was a task requiring ability and tact of the highest order, but hard as the task was. Judge Erskine accomplished it to the satisfaction of all.

TAMMANY TIGERS STILL LIVE.

Mayor Strong Says He Can Do Nothing Without a Power of Removal Bill. NEW YORK, January 28. - Mayor Strong, when he received the members of the republican state editorial association in the governor's room of the city hall, said, in the course of his remarks: "The Tammany tigers have only been reare still in every other department of the city government, and they will remain there until the legislature gives the mayor a power of removal bill. You editors have much influence through your papers on the legislature, and perhaps you can hasten the passage of this measure. I must say that the friends of the tigers remaining in office have been very docile to me. But I want you gentlemen, when you go home, to bear in mind what I have said The Tammany tigers are still in every department except one, and until I get a power of removal bill from the legislature, they will

THE SUIT AGAINST THE PILOT. Rev. Sam Small Figuring in Law as Well

as Polities in Virginia NORFOLK, Va., January 25 .- Suit has been entered in the circuit court of this city by Hon. John E. Massey, superin-tendent of education of Virginia, against the Norfolk Pilot, a prohibition newspaper, Samuel W. Small, editor, the directors of the company, and R. E. Bird, a lawyer of Winchester, Va., for libel. The sum named is fifty thous-and dollars. This suit is the result of the charge made by the Pilot that Mr. Massey was bribed by the American Book company to secure that company's contracts with the state of Virginia for furnishing books to the public school and the process made returnable to first rules in February.

The charges made by the Pilot affect Governor O'Ferrall and the Hon. R. Taylor Scott, attorney general of the state, who are with Mr. Massey, on the board of education, which gives out the contract. The trial of the case, which promises to be a celebrated one, will be watched by the people of Virginia and of the entire country with great inter-children. Leading counsel for Mr.

Massey are Alfred P. Toom, and Judge
John Neeley, of Norfolk. The notice of suit was filed yesterday afternoon

GENERAL TRADE IS QUIET.

Outlook Favorable for Conservative Business for Some Time to Come. NEW YORK, January 26 .- Bradstreets

today says: Special telegraphic and mail advices from the more important distributing centres fall to reveal any marked improvement in the movement of merchandise and products, and the conclusion is forced that the general trade situation remains as previously characterized— by small volume, low prices, hand to mouth sales, and the outlook favorable to a very conservative trade for some time to come.

Gains in demand have been noteworthy only at Eastern woolen mills for men's wear, fabric, among Providence manufacturing jewelers, wholesale dealers in staples at Augusta, Memand a steadfast position on their part phis and New Orleans, and, in the west and will win the fight. rather by contrast with recent duliness that with the volume of trade ordinarily tran at this season. An exception is in wool sales. which have increased sharply, though prices are no higher. Mills report unexpectedly heavy orders of men's wear, woolens for fall delivery, in spite of foreign competition, cloth-iers having placed the bulk of overcoatings and general suitings contracts with domestic mills.

At the south collections are slow in South and Charleston and Savannah respectively report fertilizers and naval stores more active. At Atlanta jobbers are awaiting results of February 1st, settlements before seeking to extend trade. At almost all southern general trade remains quiet and a very moderdisorder in connection with the strike.

The Extraordinary Withdrawals of Gold From the Sub-Treasury the Subject. THE MOVEMENTS OF COTTON. NEW YORK, January 26 .- The extraordinary withdrawals of gold from the sub-treasury is the chief topic of discussion in financial circles and even at the stock exchange the professionals who have had a monopoly of the dealings are inclined to go slow. The withdrawals of the metal yesterday amounted to $4,750,000, coin, and $1,000,000 bars making the grand total for the week thus far $12,030,000. Of this $7,200,000 will be forwarded to Europe today about equally divided between the steamers LaBourgogne and Lucania. In view of this tremendous loss of the metal, the general impression is that the administration will wait no longer for congress but will act at once. Some had it that a new issue of bonds would be made on Monday and it was this that kept the market firm thoughout of the Gold Reserve WASHINGTON, January 28 .- The president and Secretary Carlisle spent several hours together at the white house yesterday afternoon. Mr. Carlisle brought with him financial data bearing on the depleted treasury gold reserve and with this as a basis the president began to prepare a message to congress. It is understood that it will treat principally of the continued drain of the gold reserve and remedies for stopping it. The message will, it is said, be short and vigorous, and be delivered today.
