THE ADVANCE,
Wilson, N. C.

THURSDAY, - - January 30, 1896.

THE Kentucky legislature have not agreed upon any one yet. The joint meeting of the two branches of the Legislature is still a deadlock.

WILLIAM E. FOUNTAIN, mayor of Tarboro, has written the Caucasian a letter, in which he advises all patriotic citizens to vote with the populists.

THE two Senators from the new State of Utah have taken their places in the Senate making the total number 89. When Delaware makes a choice the number will be increased to 90.

EMPOROR WILLIAM, of Germany, has just celebrated his 37th birthday. The day was observed as a general holiday in Germany. In Washington the German Minister held a reception which 700 guests attended and drank the health of the young Emperor.

ANOTHER marine disaster is reported from New York, caused by racing. Fifty years ago hundreds of lives, and millions of property were sacrificed annually on the Mississippi river by steamboat men in their efforts to out run their competitors. The great ocean greyhounds are now taking up the practice on a larger scale.

THE Cuban insurgents and the Spanish soldiers are still curving around one another. No battles are fought (except on paper). Reports sent out by the Spaniards claim that the whole business is virtually crushed. The Insurgents on the other hand claim that they are all right and will soon prove their ability to crush the soldiers of Spain.

POSSESSES ALL THE REQUIREMENTS OF RAPID RECOVERY.

The New York Ledger in speaking of the condition of the South a few years after the war between the States, says that Northern capital was as shy of Southern investments as a crow of a fowling piece, and that all through the seventies the story of the South was a story of stagnation. Not a dollar, it says, could be borrowed—good will was plentiful, but it brought nothing, and this is true.

This condition of affairs continued until, as the Ledger expresses it, that the Southern people made up their minds to hustle for themselves and show the world that, despite the ordeals through which they had passed, their section of the country possessed all the elements of rapid recuperation.

Not only did the Southern people show the world that their section possessed all the elements of rapid recuperation, but they have demonstrated the fact in the most pronounced manner.

No people under the sun ever commenced life under such disadvantages as did the Southern people immediately after the close of the late war, and yet, to-day the South is regarded, and is, the most promising section of the country. Capital has found safe and profitable investments in our midst and it is no longer difficult to secure all the money needed for the development of Southern industries. Northern capita, instead of being fly of Southern investments, is being placed, almost without reserve, in enterprises in the South and of Southern origin and the returns have been threefold. The work of recuperation goes bravely on and in time the South will be far advanced upon the high road of prosperity, while some other sections will be in the lag.—Norfolk Virginian.

ALMANACS.

Almanacs are of very ancient origin. The oldest known copy of such a work is preserved in the British museum, and dates back to the time of Ramesses the great, of Egypt, who lived 1200 years before Christ. There is a vast difference, however, between the almanacs of the past and the present. In ancient times the information they contained was limited to predictions of the weather, festival days, lucky and unlucky days for commencing any undertaking, fates of children born on given days, etc. The almanacs of to-day, that is the best of them, are complete encyclopedias of practical statistical information. They have a place in every office, library and family, as information is given in these annuals that cannot be obtained elsewhere.

One of the most complete works of this kind that we have ever seen is that issued for the current year by the Washington Post. Every one should have a copy and especially every farmer.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

Perfect harmony should exist between town and country. Their interests are mutual. What is to the advantage of one is bound to be more or less helpful to the other.

The people in town recognize their dependence in a large measure upon the surrounding country. And the country people on the other hand appreciate the value and importance of a home market and are justly proud of their country town.

This is as it should be. As Henderson grows so will the country adjacent grow, and vice versa. The one is essential to the other. The existence of a strong home market and the creation of an active demand for the products of the farm mean the prosperity of the agricultural interests of the community. Whatever is calculated to advance the growth and prosperity of the town must inure to the benefit of the country. And when the country prospers the town is quick to feel the vivifying effect. The arteries of trade beat with a quicker pulse and the beneficial results flowing therefrom are perceptible to all.

The country people are the backbone of the town. The town is the strong arm of the country people. Each is the ready hand-maid of the other, with mutual interests, the success of either one of which means the welfare of the other.—Gold Leaf.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years the doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful and acts directly on the blood and mucous membranes of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for book of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Sold by Druggists, 75c.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

LITERARY NOTES.

In a most invitingly dainty cover, seasonably typifying mid-winter—it's frost and snow—the February Ladies' Home Journal, resplendent with illustrations by the best artists, and attractively varied in its literary features is unique. Just a faint suggestion of approaching spring is given in an article, descriptive of a blooming garden, by F. Schuyler Mathews. Ex President Harrison's paper, "This Country of Ours" series, discusses the "Presidential Office," and gives General Harrison's views upon the eligibility of the President for re-election. Mary Anderson de Navarro reaches the most interesting part of her memoirs, telling of her first appearance in the larger cities, incidents of her touring experiences and some of the notable people she met. In an article upon "The Little Queen of Holland" Arthur Warren writes of the beloved young sovereign's daily life, her pastimes, her toys, her pets and her studies. The discussion of household and culinary matters, entertainments, dress, woman as hostess, etc., unite in making the February Ladies' Home Journal, attractive, entertaining, instructive—an ideal midwinter magazine for every fireside and home.

More Corn—Less Cotton.

It was probably never more important than it is at the present for the South to reduce the acreage of its cotton crop for 1896, and devote increased attention to the production of food stuffs. One more year of abundant food crops and reduced cotton acreage would put the South forward to a wonderful extent, while a short food supply and large cotton crop would result in serious injury to all Southern business interests. Outside of the ordinary conditions which would make this important, the prevailing war fever throughout the world emphasizes its necessity. Should there be war in Europe or America, cotton would quickly feel the effect, and prices decline, while food stuffs of all kinds would command the highest prices. To all reasons which have been advanced for special attention to the production of grain, fruits, vegetables and provisions, and less attention to cotton, is this year added the world wide unrest and the unfortunate prospect for war in Europe, which would seriously and quickly lessen the market value of cotton. Increase the acreage in food-stuffs should be the Southern farmer's motto for 1896.—Manufacturers' Record.
