

CY. WATSON.

HE SPEAKS IN GOLDSBORO TO THE YEOMENRY OF WAYNE.

His speech placed the Money Question squarely to the front—a full discussion of its merits.

Mr. Watson came to Goldsboro on Friday evening. He was met at the train by a committee of Wayne's staunch silverites, and immediately the party was quartered at Hotel Kenon. After supper a crowd gathered in front of the hotel to hear what the next Governor of North Carolina had to say. For several hours Mr. Watson sat and chatted with his friends, renewing old acquaintances and recalling old reminiscences which held so many charms for many of those present.

On Saturday morning Mr. Watson made several calls, one of which being on Mrs. Hummell, a lady who had nursed him through a spell of sickness during the war. After an early dinner Mr. Watson was escorted to the Opera House amid strains of Dixie from the colored band of Goldsboro.

The hall filled up rapidly and before Mr. Watson began every available seat in the room was occupied. There were among that audience adherents to every party. Every one was anxious to hear the great patriot from Western Carolina. The audience was not composed of politicians but there were present the farmers from all over Wayne county. These men had gathered in the opera house to hear how their present distressing conditions could be remedied. Also they knew that Cy was one of them, having spent his boyhood and early manhood tending the fields for his daily bread. Both these elements added zest to hearing him.

Mr. Watson was introduced by Mr. Chas. B. Aycock in the following manner: "Two of North Carolina's greatest men will never wear a title, one of them twice governor of the State, many times legislator. Congressman and United States Senator always the idol of his people, yet he was known by them only as Zeb Vance. There is another soon to be governor and perhaps to wear many other honors that we all know to-day and will know hereafter as simply Cy Watson. It was always Zeb Vance because the people knew him so well and loved him so much and because he knew them so well and loved them so much. It is Cy Watson because he too is known by the people and loved by them, and because he loves them in return—therefore I take special pleasure in introducing to you that great, honest and able Carolinian, Cy Watson, of Forsyth."

Mr. Watson amidst resounding cheers from the Hall began his speech in his easy conversational manner. After explaining to them their relation to enactments of laws stating that the execution of the law was placed into the hands of those elected by the people to stand on certain platforms; he said that when these men disregarded these platforms on which they were selected our government then ceased to be a representative government.

The 'conventions' were then taken up. He said that several conventions had met during the past month and all of them have split in twain. The first to meet was the Prohibition, the party whose aim it is to exterminate drink, split on this great question of to-day—money. Then comes the Republican convention. "Its delegates had been bought by the representatives of a great syndicate of millionaires and trusts, and tariff barons to go hence and register their will, they did as they were bid and declared in a platform that this country must remain on a gold standard, then they name as their candidate for President of the United States, the tool of that greedy and heartless syndicate, but thank God there were patriots in that body of men, who were at the christening of the Republican party, great men and honest men, who arose and bidding farewell to those destroyers of American honor and greatness walked out of that party never to return.

The Democratic delegates met in Chicago and adopted a platform and nominated a man which met the needs and was in accord with the will of the people. The two great conventions which have met since that time endorsed the man, and he will be the next President of the United States despite all the efforts to drive or buy the American people."

The money question was then taken up and his treatment in short is this: "Why did England adopt the gold standard? Because the creditors demanded it. There was a large bonded debt out, held by English land lords and property owners generally and it was a scheme on the part of these men. They knew that by the demonetization of silver the country would be contracted and as a consequence its value greatly increased. The result would be that they would reap great rewards by the increase in valuation of money. As silver was not legal tender, and as gold would be greatly enhanced their credits would be raised in value. This is the reason for England's having a gold standard.

Our conditions are similar. The wealth of our country is in the hands of a similar creditor class and in order to have these credits greatly enhanced in value they desire a gold standard. How has the present financial stringency been brought about? In 1873 Grant put his signature to a bill which demonetized the silver dollar. Mr. Grant was not aware that such a clause was in the bill. Many of the legislators who gave their vote to the passage of the bill have stated that they were ignorant of the presence of such a clause. This was done slyly because the creditor class wanted to work, while the people were ignorant. But something had to be done. So we have the Bland, Allison and later the Sherman silver legislation was brought about. What is the result of such legislation? It has put upon the country notes which are used for the purpose of raiding the Treasury. Why can they be thus used? Because they are paid in gold when the law expressly says that they shall be paid in coin. The result has been that bonds have been issued amounting to about $260,000,000 to keep up the gold reserve. These same people have given their pledges to the government that they will tide it over the election. They furnish gold to the Treasury but take nothing in return except these same notes or gold certificates, which can be used after November to force another bond issue. This has been the course of the money sharks since the beginning of the financial struggle.

The result on produce has been a gradual lowering of prices. Silver has not gone any lower but gold has gone up. English speculators buy our silver bullion at 50 cents in the dollar, carry it to England and have it coined into 100 cent dollars. This same money is used in paying for their Indian cotton and other produce which before has been furnished by the United States. The result is that cotton from India is brought into England at a lower price than it can be raised in America, so our prices are constantly lowered. The reason that England does not want us to have free silver is because she can no longer make by the present exchange. She will no longer be able to buy silver for 50 cents and pay it out as 100 cents. So long as such an arrangement exists there will be no change for the better, prices instead of rising will be forced lower and lower until a revolution among working classes is necessary. Linked with this desire for gold is the desire for a high tariff. When this is brought about the trusts by running out small manufacturers will have everything their own way. Competition will be gone.

The cry is for co-operation in order to bring about such an agreement. It is claimed that the U. S. is not great enough to support its own financial system. But says Mr. Watson, "This is the greatest country in the world, it produces two-thirds of all the cotton that clothes the world. It is the largest producer of wheat and corn. It produces one-fourth of all the gold and one-half of all the silver; it is the greatest producer of iron and coal in the world and it is peopled with the bravest and best men and women in the world, and I desire to arouse in the minds of men a spirit of true Americanism that they may declare with me that this country is able to establish its own financial system and conduct its own affairs."

The cry of our production is a sham. It is only mentioned to furnish what appears to be a plausible reason for the hard times. Statistics show that there is less wheat being consumed by two bushels than at previous times. Does this look like over production? No. It shows that the people are stinting their own appetites in order to meet the necessities of the times.

Free silver will raise the prices of these products, it will cause the money which is now in hiding to be brought out and put into circulation. This will put new life into every line of business by making money cheap, thus enabling us to get the full value for our produce."

After a discussion of trusts and their bearing to the production of our country Mr. Watson urged the people to stand firm in defense of their best interests. He advocated the income tax, stating that a graduate scale of taxation is the only just method of bearing the obligations of the American government.

After Mr. Watson had finished Ex-Gov. Jarvis addressed the audience on the issues of the day.

Nervous debility is a common complaint, especially among women. The best medical treatment for this disorder is a persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to cleanse and invigorate the blood. This being accomplished, nature will do the rest.

TOBACCO.

GLEANINGS FROM THE TOBACCO JOURNALS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE TOBACCO FARMERS.

A National Convention of Tobacco growers is called to meet at Ocala, Fla., on January 7th, 1897.

Louisburg, July 28.—Farmers are greatly disappointed at the yield of Tobacco, which is considerably smaller than was anticipated.

The National Cigarette and Tobacco Co. is now putting fifty assorted campaign buttons in every package of "High Admiral" cigarettes. Each purchaser of ten cigarettes gets one of these buttons.

Rocky Mount, July 30.—Tobacco is fitting up and also being hurt badly by flea bugs. The cures thus far this week have been good. Judging from our offerings we look for good color, but thin.

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 4.—Kinston tobacco market opened yesterday. The two mammoth warehouses were filled and sixty thousand pounds were sold. The Kinston Carolina Warehouse which reaches clear across a square, sold thirty-one thousand, and four hundred pounds. The Planters' Atlantic Warehouse sales were not far behind. This market will sell from four to five million pounds this year.

It has been decided in Iowa that the anti cigarette law is unconstitutional. It prohibited the sale and manufacture of cigarettes. The late decision is based on the original package decision of the Supreme Court of the United States as regards liquor packages.

Greenville, July 29.—We are sorely disappointed in our crop this year. While the crop is curing up with fair color, it is badly diseased, and by far the lightest crop we have had in the East for the last four five years. So far as Wrappers are concerned they are strictly out of it.—Western Tob. Journal.

The Raleigh, N. C., market several years ago determined not to be sidetracked, and it has been progressing ever since it earnestly took hold of the idea that Raleigh could sell fine tobacco as well as any market. This season the warehouses are doubling their capacities, as the crop around has also doubled. Not only this, but the quality is unusually fine, and for Raleigh this means a great deal, as the market for fine lemon wrappers.—Southern Tob. Journal.

Goldsboro, N. C., has this year entered the race for favors as a tobacco market in dead earnest and to win. They have organized a Board of Trade and are sparing no cost to make a success of their undertaking. The banking facilities are excellent, while everyone knows that the shipping facilities are most enviable, when we state that both the Southern and A. C. L. Railways pass through the city.

Buyers looking for a live young market to locate in should visit Goldsboro, where there are ample accommodations for everyone at the very lowest expense.

Two large warehouses will sell the crop marketed there this year. These houses are conducted by Messrs. A. B. Willingham & Son and Bordon & Edgerton, all of these gentlemen being experienced warehousemen. Buyers should surely visit this market before locating. The crop in that section is a fine one this year and much larger than last year.

Raleigh Market Opens.

The Raleigh tobacco market opened for the season of 1896-'97 on Tuesday with good breaks on both warehouse floors. There was tobacco from Johnson, Chatham and Wake counties, and prices were very satisfactory. The prospects for a good season were never better, and we hope to do the largest tobacco business ever done in this city.

The facilities for handling the present crop are the best ever offered here, both warehouses being thoroughly renovated and enlarged for the handling of the largely increased acreage tributary to this market. The tobacco sold on the Raleigh market has a reputation second to none as to quality and fitness of character. Buyers from other markets will do well to note this fact and avail themselves of Raleigh's noted tobaccos.—News & Observer.

To the Voters of Wilson County.
Having been repeatedly asked by many friends to allow my name to go before the Convention for the office of Sheriff of Wilson county, and particularly so since Sheriff J. W. Crowell has published his card declining to run for that position, I hereby take this means to announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries to be held in Wilson County.
JOHN J. GAY.

A CARD
To the Voters of Wilson County.
I take this means of informing my friends that I will be a candidate for the office of Treasurer of the county of Wilson, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. I have already filled this office and my past record is my best plea for the request that I again be entrusted with that office.
Respectfully,
W. T. Farmer.

A Candidate.
Mr. W. T. Farmer, who has been for several years Treasurer of Wilson county has expressed his intention of again putting himself forward as a candidate for renomination. All of us know Mr. Farmer, know that there is not in the county of Wilson a man more reliable or one more in love with the Democratic party and Democratic principles. Give the nomination to the right man, and in our opinion that man is W. T. Farmer.
