Communicated. The "American Causin" was rendered on Wednesday by the Weldon Amateurs eration the short length of time which it was rehearsed, and the length of the play great credit is due to the performers, and particularly to Mr. Loughlin who acted as stage manager and had much to do with bringing about the happy result. Mr. Loughlin's part that of "Cayle" though not a conspicuous one displayed his supe Dondreary (represented by Mr Batcheler) was admirable, and persons present familiar with Mr. Southern's rendering of this part, were greatly plea ed with Mr. Batchcelled, he was so well suited to the part and acted it so well, that he seemed really to be the man. Come Alone to My Grave.

On you lone bill, when thro' the night The aulien winds of winter cry Unto the stars so far and bright
And to the river rushing by,
I'd have my lowiv grave to be
Unknown to all the world save thee.

Then let the briar and the grass

Grow rankly at their wanton will And no unfriendly foot-fall pass, Above my heart so cold and still, But come thou, when the ruthless world The banner of thy hope hath furled.

I'd have no happy lovers stroll,
With gala smiles and rapturous ey
Where hovers at 1 my restless soul, About my humble tomb to sigh So sad the little span of years The mortal apout in useless tears,

No violet of tender hue,
I'd have to waste 'ts fragrance there
No white rese, wa had in heavenly dew,
No cypress vine, or hilly fair,
But thou -Ohl come my love my own Some power will make thy prese

Perchance a whisper from the ground Dark with the growth unkept and wild Upon thy heart-strings will resound, From that on which the sod is piled Recalling how it beat for thee.

And comfort thee mysteriously.

Perchance my spirit in the guise Of sunshine falling on thy neck Will flood thy heart with hope and die The sunlight fill a barren wreck, So strong my love, or viewless wing 'Twill fly to thee, a living thing.

Oh! come when storms the skies he And scattered far the rosy clouds When gloom the bill and valley shrouds Come to thy broken-hearted one

My heart will answer unto thee In voice of winus and storm and rain Nature my messenger will be And say to thee "I love" again And joy will long my pulses creep Within the grave so sad and deep.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE SAVING WINE TILL IT RIPERS.

There is a curious story about some native wines which are extensively advertised nowadays, and have only recently been put upon the market. Dr. Underhill, the well-known grape-grower of Croton Point, died in 1871. Some of his heirs entertained temperance views of such extreme kind, that they were unwilling to allow the stock of wines then on hand to be sold or any more to be made. The grapes have sometimes been sent to market, and sometimes left to decay upon the vines. It is only now that the other heirs have succeeded in arranging for a settlement of the estate and the sale of the wines on hand. Among these is a wine of the vintage There is a curious story about some native hand. Among these is a wine of the vintage of 1804, described as a "Sweet Union Port," but suggesting the Imperial Tokay more than any-other European wine, and being wholly unlike any other wire of American growth. Its partity, age and mellowness are remarkable, and both physicians and wine-fanciers have a special interest in it as the oldest native wine now accessible in any con-siderable quantity. The whole stock is in the hands of the well-known wholesale grocery house of the Thurbers.—N. Y. Tribuse, Nov. 10, 1877.

The above speaks for itself, but we would add that this is the pure juice of the grape, neither drugged, liquired nor matered; that it has been ripened and mellowed by age, and for medicinal or sacramental purposes it is unsurpassed. It can be obtained from most of the leading Druggists throughout the United States, and at wholesale from the undersigned, who will forward descriptive pamphlet, free of charge, on application, Respectfully, etc.,
