We regard this enterprise of Messrs Emry and Capell as calculated to be of more service to Weldon and the surrounding country than any which has been initiated in our midst for a long time. This is a step in that direction. It is the beginning of a policy which will give to the farmers a market at their very doors for all the wheat they can raise. Another thing worthy of notice in the advertisement of Messrs. Emry and Capell is that their announcement is made in full time to enable the farmers to raise wheat for sale next year, and we hope this will be done. If it is done we can assure them of a home market, for an enterprise which has Tom Emry and Henry Capell at and they are engaged weighing, marking, its head and has in addition thereto the
