THE DOCTOR'S CHRISTMAS.

Dr. Alexander Andover threw himself into the hig leather covered chair before his office fire with a weary sigh. He was a fine-bokingman of 30, not handsome, but noble and manly-looking—one to be trusted forever, with his broad, white brow and prave, clear, gray eyes. His tips, too, under the full brown beard, were as fine as a woman's, without lacking in

Two wift, noiseless way across the room to his pictures below will illustrate this. Here is the beginning: A school hoy, ten years old, one lovely June day, with roses in full bloom over the pourch, and the laborers in the wheat fields, had been sent by his Uncle John to pay a bill at the country store, and there were seventy-five cents left, and Uncle John did not ask him for it. At noon this boy stood under the beautiful blue sky, and a great temptation came. He said to himself, "Shall I give it back, or shall I wait till he askfor it? If he never asks, that is his lookout. If he does, why I can get it again." He never gave back the money The ending: Ten years went by; he was a clerk in a bank. A package of bills the safe.
