object which a patent is supposed to cover. lives.

The oil is a hydro-carbon oil and being egetable in its nature can be obtained from eny source not mineral or animal. It can even be made from waste paper, woods, etc. This oil is a pure grease, is colorless and has only a very faint and hardly perceptible odor that is not at all disagreeable.

It is free from gum or mucilaginous subtance, is perficuly neutral will not ferment or get rancid, and remains perfectly limpld in cold weather. Its specific gravity is from fifteen to twenty degrees. Baune's bydrometer. As a luminant it has been tested and gives a strong, brilliant light, and is non-explosive. It makes a splendid lubricant for machinery of all kinds, and in every respect, if is claimed, it is superior to lard oil, and is a great deal cheaper.

The fact is there is nothing like it known ing on the market that assimilates it. The rocess for its manufacture is simple and inexpensive, and the material from which it can be made is limitless and right at our doors. It can therefore, be made cheap.

Mr. Martin has been experimenting with different material in its manufacture but has not determined what is the most productive in results. The material is treated with chemicals and afterward distilled to procure the oil. The oil so produced is limitless in the uses to which it can be apleather treated with it will not mildew.

HOW TO TELL BRIDES.

Yes," said an old and experienced hotel elerk yesterday, "I can tell a bride and groom at a glance. For some reason or other they all seem ashamed to have it known that they are newly married, and they all try to give the impression that they are comparatively old stagers, as it were, but it's no use with me. I smile when I see their old trunks-to come with brand new ones, you know, would be to to advertise the fact that they had just been wedded-and I laugh outright when I receive a letter from a bridegroom, saying: "Myself and wife will be at your house on Wednesday night, between 12 and I o'clock. Our luggage will arrive during the afternoon, but we will not arrive ourselves until after the theatre." Then I watch and see them come in with a bundle of umbrellas and capes, a bat-box and a couple of values, which I have no hesitancy, of course, in believing that they took to the play with them. How do I tell a bride and groom? Well, there is something about the way they look at each other when they are together, and when the newly married man is by himself I can tell by the manner in which he uses the two words my wife.' He's not used to the combination, and they sound as unnatural to me as they do to himself.

A TRUE WIFE.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

Offimes I have seen a tall ship glide by against the tide as if drawn by some invisible towline with a hundred strong arms pulling it. Her sails unfilled, her stream ers drooping, she had neither side wheel nor stern wheel; still she moves on stately, in screne triumph, with her own life. But gar, piece of butter size of a walnut. Boil I knew that on the other side of the ship. from 15 to 20 minutes. hidden beneath the great bulk that swam so majestically, there was a little toilsome steam tug, with a heart of fire and arms of iron, that was tugging it bravely ou, and I know that if the little steam tug untwined her arm and left the ship, it would wallow to science and consequently there is nothand go off with the refluent tide, no man butter, any kind of ant added when knows whither. And so I have known more than one genius, high-decked, fullfreighted, idle sailed, gay-pinioned, but that for the bare, toiling arms, and brave, warm-beating heart of the faithful little wife, that nestles close to him, so that no wind or wave could part them, he would have gone down with the stream, and have been heard of no more.
