VANDERBILT'S PROPERTY

The stories that have recently become current concerning the development of George Vanderbilt's schemes with reference to his residence and property in North Carolina have been of such a character as to excite a good deal of wonder and speculation. The house that young Mr. Vanderbilt is having built will be it is said, one of the most costly private country residences in the entire country. and the surrounding park that will include 30,000 acres of land will be laid out under the direction of a landgar dener, who has been instructed to spare no expense in getting it into a very faithful likeness of one of the private parks of old England. The Vanderbilt house will be two miles from the nearest residence, and a private railroad for the use of George Vanderbilt and his retainers has been constructed, or is in course of construction, to reach the nearest railroad station, which is twenty-five miles away. The bits of description concerning the house itself, the proposed furnishing and equipment of it, call up ideas of extravagance and splendor which can only be gotten in another way by reading the "Arabian Nights." It is stated, in fact, that young Vanderbilt has become so fascinated with the idea of establishing a North Carolina estate that his thoughts scarcely concern themselves with anything else, and he has spent and seems to be willing to spend any amount of money to bring everything to the most complete imaginable point. One statement which must be an exaggeration is to the effect that when everything is finished and ready for the use and occupation of the owner, the entire expenditure will amount to $5,000,000. This is half of George Vanderbilt's entire fortune and from that point of view the story

THE TREASURY CUTTED.

The Freasury has been like a ship la boring in a storm every since the Harrison administration came in. There was a surplus in the Treasury on June 30 1889, of $57,470,129, and there was a reserve fund for the redemption of na tional bank notes of $$3,681,269. Se cretary Fairehild has paid out for the sinking fund $47,583,213.

These three items, which would enter into a Republican estimate of the surplus footed up over $188,000,000. This was the legacy which the Cleveland administration left to Mr. Harrison and the billion dollar Congress.

The President and the Congress took the job "of getting rid of the surplus" and they have gotten rid of it. They have done the job so well that they created a big deficit according to the old | yard. methods of bookkeeping.

As the ship has labored midst the waves of Reedism and McKinleyism load after load of gold and silver and paper money has "gone by the board" to lighten the strain and keep the hulk afloat. First, the entire trust fund for the redemption of national bank notes was thrown out. A stroke of the President's pen by the signing of the Silver bill last summer transferred this whole sum from the trust funds held in reserve into the Treasury cash.

Democratic administrations have been inefficient. They have grappled with deficits and upon the eve of war, but never in a time of profound peace with duties at an average ad valorem rate of fifty-two per cent. from the days of Albert Gallatin to those of Daniel Manning and Charles S. Fairchild, has a Democratic administration been reduced to such infamous straits as this. The Treasury is practically gutted. Haruly anything remains which can be taken, unless it is the gold reserve of $100,000,000 which Secretary Sherman set aside nearly half a generation ago as the sacred pledge for the resumption of specie payments. A little more juggling with the books may squeeze out a few more millions and avoid the necessity of new taxes upon the people. The Fiftysecond Congress will be economical by force of necessity. Another billion dollar Congress would send the nation begging in the money markets of the world, with ruined cradit and a dishonored cur-

THE LOUISIANA LOTTERY.

THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE RENDERS & DECISION IN FAVOR OF THE COMPANY.

At the last session of the Legislature John A. Morris and associates made ap plication for a renewal of the Louisiana State Lottery charter for 25 years offering to pay the State more than a million of dollars per annum for the privilege. A bill embody the requisite amendments to the Constitution known as the Lottery amendments, was adopted by a two-thirds ing. For that disease the medicine is vote of the Legislature and by courtesy a copy of the act was sent to Governor Nichols, who vetoed it, although the friends of the measure argued that he had no right to do so under the Consti tution. The Secretary of State having refused to promulgate the act, Morris the sufferer. and Company applied for a mandamus compelling him to promulgate the proposed constitutional amendment to be voted on by the people at the next gen eral election. FROM BAD TO WORSE.

The ordinary treatment of contagious blood poisoning is to drive one poison from the system by introducing another. The result, in most cases, has been that which usually follows a leap from the frying-pan into the fire. To put it mildly, mercurial and other blood poisonings reney. have disadvantages which are hardly less serious than contagious blood poison. In either case the system is wrecked; and yet there is no reason why humanity should continue to suffer. It is the office of S. S. S. to cure contagious blood poissurely a specific. And it is also its office to cure mercurial and other mineral poisoning. In short, S. S. S. is the great blood purifier. It destroys the germs of the contagious disease, and expels from the systems all forms of mineral poisoning. It restores health and strength to

STALLED BY CATTERPILLERS.

Last week as train No. 36 on the Carolina Central was coming towards Wil mington from Charlotte, the engineer discovered that Big Swamp trestle, near Bladenboro, was literally covered with tens of thousands of catterpillers. The engine crushed into them with a full head of steam on and the result was that the driving wheels of the locomotive slipped and slided so as to make it exceedingly difficult to poll the train along The engineer "give her sand," however, and the next time he stopped his engine, he found the plough and wheels of his locomotive a mass of slaughtered catter pillers, the like of which he had never before experienced.

DEAF MUTE INSTITUTION.

WORK TO BE PUSHED AT MORGAN-TON.

The Board secured for the use of the Institution 203 acres of land, including the celebrated mineral spring and onehalf mile of railroad front. The building site commands a magnificent view of the town of Morganton and of the Western Hospital, occupying as it does the highest point in the vicinity. About one half of the tract, or one hundred acres is finely adapted to the various grasses and to farming purposes generally. A committee consisting of Messrs. Broughton. Aycock and Holt, accompanied by an experienced man in such matters, will start out in June, and will go north and west on a tour of inspection among the various institutions of the sort to obtain full information as to the plan of the new building and matters related thereto Meanwhile arrangements have been made to place 1,500,000 brick on the grounds. The grounds secured cost $9,500, of which amount the State paid $1,500, Morganton donating $3,000 -Greensboro Workman.
