TO THE PATRONS

—OF THE— ALBEMARLE STEAM

DRIFTING.

Evermore we are drifting out with the drifting tide; Out to the ultimate ocean, whose waters are wild and wide; But somewhere there is a Gilead sweet with the healing balm; And the storm may rage, but the rainbow is arched in the skies of calm.

Windeth the river weary, through forests no man hath trod; Where the darkness is shut from the shining of the lights in the windows of God; But out from the gloom it flashes in the light of the day to be, And mingles its lonely waters with the tides of the splendid sea!

We are not hopeless, homeless! Wherever our feet may roam, We are still on the King's own highway—near the king's own home; And soon, with the journey ended—the storm and the darkness past, We shall enter in at the portals, and reign with the king at last!

HER COTTAGE.

MRS. CLEVELAND'S PRETTY LITTLE HOME THAT ATTRACTS PASSERS BY.

Mrs. Cleveland may or may not be a good housekeeper, but she certainly has a very pretty home here among the pine trees, and she knows how to make it attractive and the passers by curious.

The spell of the woman is over it all. There are windows upstairs, down stairs and on every side, and each one has a touch or beauty in it. The soft muslin curtains are tied back with strawberry ribbons; fastened to the spindle-corned rockers and fiddle-back chairs, case inviting head rests and slumber bags covered with bright satins and velvets may be seen; upstairs one window sill is filled white and yellow chrysanthemum, and another is gorgeous with scarlet geraniums in full bloom.

Occasionally there is the figure of a woman, with soft brown hair, sitting in the sunlight gently rocking to and fro. Her back is toward the window pane, but her head is bent and the object on her lap may be a book or something vastly better than any love story that was ever written. Then there is another stronger picture on the other side of the cottage, representing the living portrait of a man in whom the whole nation is interested. He sits at a small red-wood desk, the width of the sash, with a grill-work trimming running across the top, above which the characteristic face is visible. Unless an intruder appears upon the scene his eyes are not raised from the papers that crowd him for desk room. From early morning until daylight is gone he sits here with his pen and papers, as busy as a faithful clerk. When you can't see his massive forehead above the grill-work railing you may be reasonably certain that he is out driving with his wife or upstairs in the sunny nursery playing peek-a-boo with another girl.

A new board walk has just been laid from the avenue to the cottage door, and while the carpenters are about the place it will not be surprising if a picket fence is built round the grounds. Carriage people arrive in the village every day, and either cannot or will not see the prohibitory sign boards forbidding all trespassing on private property. It must be stated in justice that the majority of the people about Lakewood are either ill or infirm and err without thought. Of course the livery people know that they are intruding, yet they calmly take orders and drive wherever they are told. But notwithstanding the blissfulness of ignorance and the apathy of invalidism, Mr. Cleveland's family is constantly being annoyed by the promiscuous use of the drive about the cottage.

The Best Cough Cure

Is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Its record covers nearly half a century, and each year shows an increased demand for it. As an emergency medicine, this preparation has no equal, thousands of lives having been saved by its timely use.

"I find no such medicine for croup and whooping cough as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It was the means of saving the life of my little boy, six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of whooping cough I ever saw."—J. Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn.

"Two generations in our family have had experience with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Our confidence in its curative qualities is unbounded."—C. E. Gilbert, Editor Daily Reporter, Abilene, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children were subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"A severe cold, followed by a hard cough and bleeding of the lungs, would, probably, have proved fatal but for the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two physicians attended me for a month and at last said there was no help for me. At this stage I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it effected a perfect and permanent cure."—S. S. Thorp, Swanton, Ind.

Ayer's

Cherry Pectoral,

and determined to give it a trial. The result was truly magical. Relief came almost instantly, and after repeating the dose, certainly not more than half a dozen times, I found myself thoroughly cured. Subsequently my daughter was cured of a severe cough by the use of the Cherry Pectoral."—J. H. Ritchie, Commission Agent, Kingston, South Australia.

"Having used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I find it one of the best cough remedies and would not be without it for any amount."—Edmund Kingsland, Trav. Agt. of the Ches. A. Vogeler Co., Baltimore, Md.
