Economy Hints

A penny saved is penny earned.-Benjamin Franklin.

THE present high cost of living reminds one of the housewife who, looking at Ningara falls for the first time, said, "Oh, this big spirsh of water resultds me that I left the kitchen tap running" Like this visitor to the fulls many women keep a weather eye out for big economies and leave the tup of little savings curring Taking care of clothes is a means of much saving to the woman who will spend time and thought upon her wardrobe. Every woman knows the rutnous sums it costs each season to have her evening trocks, light suits and silk blooses and other unwastarble materials cleaned Where gasoline is possible as a renova tor she may sometimes try the experi ment of doing a little of her own clean ing, but it is seldom successful, and it is as faird to lose the odor of gasoline as it is to neguire the odor of sanctity. Also it is damperous.

Therefore the knowledge of some simple mericules of dry cleaning that can be done at home and that leave no trace of the process would save many a precious dollar to the woman who is running to the limit of her allowance for dress. The materials required are very simple Tuiler's earth, block mag nesis, boracic talcum powder, flour and borax or even plain comment. The first three can be bought by the ounce or pound from any druggist, and the others are always in the pantry or store chest.

For a white silk blouse it is perfectly safe to use either the meals or talcum powder A white serge sult for example can be very successfully cleaned by putting it into a dry, clean tub and covering it over with cornmeal slightly saited. The suit can be rubbed with the bands exactly as if it were in soap suds, the most energetic rubbing naturally being given to the spots which are most soiled. After it has been thoroughly gone over the meal should be thrown out and the gown put back into the tub and covered over with clean meal. It should be left there for two days, with a cloth over the tub to keep out the dust, and then shaken out and brushed with a perfectly clean brush.

LENTEN COOKERY.

How to Make Japanese Dishes For Penitential Fare.

Soy, the national sauce of Japan made from the soy bean, is used in most of the popular dishes of the mikado's realm, the recipes for a few of said which are quoted

"NI sakana," which being translated sh cooked in soy," is well sancepan one capful of soy, one-quar-ter capful of water and one heaping teaspoonful of sugar. Then add one small turbot, sole or any other fish of your choice. Cook until the fish is thoroughly done, and serve it in the iquor in which it was cooked. This dish is good whether hot or cold.

'Hachi sakana' means brotled dsh. and the Japanese method of preparing it is interesting. They scorn a gas comes from a bed of redhot charcoal First of all they split their fish in half and as they broll it sprinkle over it occasionally a little sait and a few dashes of the almost omnipresent Salmon is particularly appetizing after having been subjected to this treat ment.
