OPPOSED TO EARLY MARRIAGES.

Put a Stop to the Marriage of Children.

Contrary to popular beliefs that early marriages are particularly conducive to morality, C. L. Redfield, of Chicago, declared that they were more conducive to immorality.

The biographies of the great men of the world, particularly the moral and religious reformers, furnished evidence, he said, that great men were the sons of parents who had done much work. Confucius, who was born when his father was 71 years of age; Buddha, whose mother was 45 when he was born; Moses, whose three generations of ancestors spanned 185 years; and King David, who was the son of Jesse's old age, and who became the father of Solomon when he was 52 years old, were some instances he cited.

In contrast, in this age, in this country, he pointed to the widespread practice of marrying young—so young that in many States grooms in knickerbockers and brides in short dresses were even recognized by law, and said:

"I say to you, positively, that these child marriages are laying the foundations for new sources of vice and crime. A campaign of education on the question of early marriages is urgently needed."

"Perhaps some of you think that to delay marriages would be to largely increase the immorality among the unmarried. Heretofore you have based your judgment in such matters on common sense, but I am telling you now that there is a sound scientific reason, heretofore overlooked why such marriages are an injury to those who marry but to those who come after them. The product of those early marriages is the first step in the production of those forms of vice which we have upon our shoulders to eradicate.

"I am not asking that all marriages be delayed to the age of 25 or 30 years. That may or may not come in the future when we know more than we do now, but at present I am asking that we put a stop to the marriage of children—a stop to that kind of reproduction which breeds the mentally and morally unfit."

"When it's 90 in the shade I drink Pepsi-Cola and keep cool."

When the sun rides high and the heat simmers up from the pavement, there's nothing you need more than a bracing glass of Pepsi-Cola.

Brings to heat worried mind and body—in the office or on the street—the refreshed, invigorated feeling that makes you complete the day's work with a dash.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Logansport, Ind.—"My baby was over a year old and I bloated till I was a burden to myself. I suffered from female trouble so I could not stand on my feet and I felt like millions of needles were pricking me all over. At last my doctor told me that all that would save me was an operation, but this I refused. I told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine.

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know."—Mrs. DANIEL D. B. DAVIS, 110 Franklin St., Logansport, Ind.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other women who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (consultative) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

TAPESTRY WEAVERS.

This beautiful poem has often appeared anonymously. C. T. Weinstein, of Milwaukee, Wis., searched for the author recently, and received word from Mr. F. Marvin, of Savannah, Mo., and Mrs. Frances Carter, of Stella, Mo., saying that Anson G. Chester, M. D., penned the lines. Mrs. Carter adds: "The poem has as wonderful a history as the man who wrote it. It has been published in all the modern languages, including Hindustani, Chinese, and Japanese. It appeared first in The Century Magazine. Dr. Williamson, of London, has issued hundreds of thousands of copies of it in leaflet form, having gone to the press with it four times in 1912. The University of Tokyo gave it out for interpretation to 400 students, who were asked to send Dr. Chester with their interpretations." "In my opinion," adds Mr. Weinstein, "this poem is one of the most beautiful, almost sublime, inspired poems that ever was written. I think it is worth preserving for future reference."—Zions Herald.

Let us take to our hearts a lesson—no lesson can nobler be—
From the ways of the tapestry weavers, on the other side of the sea.
Above their heads their pattern hangs; they study it with care;
And while their fingers deftly work, their eyes are fastened there.
They tell this curious thing, beside of the patient, plodding weaver:
He works on the wrong side evermore, but he works for the right side ever.
It is only when the weaving stops, and the web is loosed and turned,
That he sees his real handiwork, that his marvelous skill is learned.
Oh! the sight of its delicate beauty! How it pays him for all it cost!
No rarer, daintier work than his was ever done by the frost.
Then his master bringeth him golden hire, and giveth him praise as well
And how happy the heart of the weaver is, no tongue but his own can tell.

The years of man are the looms of God let down from the place of the sun,
Whereon we are weaving always till the appointed task is done.
Weaving blindly, but weaving surely, each man for himself his fate.
We may not see how the right side looks, we can only weave and wait.
But looking above for the pattern, no weaver need have fear;
Only let him look clear into heaven—the perfect pattern is there.
If he keeps the face of the Master forever and always in sight,
His weaving is sure to be perfect, his work is sure to be right.
And at last, when the task is ended, and the web is turned and shown,
He shall hear the voice of his Master; it shall say unto him: "Well done!"
And white-winged angels of heaven to bear him thence shall come down;
And God for his wage shall give him, not coin, but a golden crown!

Envy has torpedoed many a friendship.

But a joke at the expense of real religion is a misfit.

Hope and advice never yet satisfied a man's hunger.

And a considerable percentage of our so-called friends will not stand the acid test.

Beauty is only skin deep and lots of so-called wisdom is likewise.
