PRAYER OF AN UPRIGHT MAN.

At End, Make Ceremony Short and Epitaph Simple. "Here Lies a Man," is Final Supplication.

"Publicity Magazine," contains the following prayer, contributed by Homer McKee. Anyone who can utter this prayer in sincerity and truth must be an upright man, observes an exchange. Here is the prayer:

Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound and 100 cents one dollar.

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain.

Grant, I beseech Thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in doing thereof that I may not stick the gaff where it does not belong.

Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and the rattle of unholy skirts.

Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own.

Guide me that each night when I look across the dinner table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, that I have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and to lose myself in their play.

And then when comes the smell of flowers and the tread of soft steps, and the crunching of the hearer's wheels in the gravel, out in front of my place, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simplest: "Here Lies a Man."

SUCH IS LIFE.

"George," she said, "am I really and truly your little popsy wopsy?"

"The sweetest peachy weachy in existence," declared George.

"And you've never, never loved another girl?"

"There isn't another girl in the world worth a thought, sweet."

"What makes you love me so, George?"

"Just because I can't help it, precious."

"Am I an angel, George?"

"An elf, pensive. The daintiest little fairy that ever drew breath."

"Oh, my true knight!" she sighed.

"Good night. Good night."

And five minutes later the daintiest little fairy that ever drew breath was snapping ma's head off because the bread and cheese and pickled onions were not laid out for supper; whilst the true knight was whispering sweet nothings to the golden haired barmaid at the Fan and Feathers, and asking her if she had a fancy to go to the pictures next Friday.—London Tit-Bits.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fulton, N. Y.—"Why will women pay out their money for treatment and receive no benefit, when so many have proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make them well? For over a year I suffered from female weakness I could hardly stand and was afraid to go on the street alone. Doctors said medicines were useless and only an operation would help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved it otherwise. I am now perfectly well and can do any kind of work."—Mrs. NELLIE PHILIPS, care of R. A. Rider, R.F.D. No. 5, Fulton, N. Y.

We wish every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues could see the letters written by women made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have bad symptoms and do not understand the cause, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.

O PASSIONATE LIPS.

O passionate lips of the South! come, kiss me again, Passionate lips that burn with the flame of despair! Leave on my face Love's burning marks and stain So the witless world of dreams may know you were there! Alas! what is life without your immaculate glow! Outside of your arm is a world with never a sun, Kiss me, O passionate lips of the South, and so Thus make me your mate, as a bird, when the day is done!

O restless lips of the sea, with your sizzling of the brine, With your breast of repose—or stirred by a passionate thrill, Kiss me, with all the fervor, that ever was thine— And all of my aims enslave by thy changing will. Kiss me as one who is thrilled by the passions that wake The soul from its sleep—like one who trembles between The thought and the kiss—all that is mine, ah! take, And fold me close, where thy soul is at rest and serene!

Kiss me, O winds of the West, that steadily blow From mystical lands where the wild rose scents the air, Waking the tulips, wherever your foot steps go And bidding them bloom, in the whispered words of prayer! Far back in those mystery years of a childhood's day— When you came from out of a land—all dreams to me, I hedged with palms and bloomed your mystical way And tinged your breath with a smell of the salty sea; But never since then—in the years that followed and fled Have you wrecked the lips I builded so well and strong. For now there's a smile and a thrill at your voice and your tread And threats once silent and still have a new, sweet song.

There's a soul in the wind of the South and a soul in the Sea, And a passionate soul blows out of the scented West; All these awaken their trial of dreams in me— These sweeten the burden of toil and the gift of rest.

BEYOND.

We call our friends, and our loved ones, dead, When from the eyes their beaming light has fled, While words of mystic meaning seem to rest Still on their lips, in death left unexpressed.

We call them dead, when on the coffin lid The clouds lie heaped, and the deep grave has hid Their shrouded forms forever from our sight— Then grope we blindly, lost in utter night.

By grief o'erwhelmed we, for a time, forget That those whom we call dead are living yet, Living in spirit form, for these Death dowers, Forevermore, with Life's divinest powers.

Whom he has borne to some sublimer sphere, Unlike the narrow one that held them here, Therein in boundless glory to expand, Learning what here they could not understand.

So let us say, "not dead, but gone before," Sometime, somewhere, we'll meet them all once more, Those whose dear dust rests under flowers and sod, But whose freed souls Death took and gave to God.

FAMILY TRAIT.

At the annual prize day of a certain school, the head boy rose to give his recitation, "Friends, Romans, countrymen," he vociferated, "lend me your ears!" "There," commented the mother of a defeated pupil, sneeringly, "that's Mrs. Biggs boy! He wouldn't be his mother's son if he didn't want to borrow something."—London Times.

A SUSPICIOUS MOVE.

A well-to-do manufacturer who made a hobby of archeological research was traveling in Palestine when the news reached him of an addition to his family. The manufacturer sacrificed archeological to parental joys. Providing himself with some water from the Jordan to carry home for the christening, he at once set out for Kentucky.

On the morning appointed for the baptismal ceremony, he arrived at the church ahead of the rest of the family in order to hand over the precious water to the preacher. As he pulled the flask from his pocket the preacher held up a warning hand.

"Not now, not now," he said softly. "Maybe after church is out."—Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union.

WOULD HAVE RISKED HUBBY.

She had been called home suddenly, leaving her husband to follow with her belongings. When she met him at the dock she exclaimed, "Where's Fido?" "Dearest," he replied, "he fell overboard."

She wrung her hands. "Why didn't the steamer stop to rescue him?" "They only stop to save human life," he exclaimed.

"Then Henry, why didn't you jump overboard?"

At a church adjacent to a big military camp a service was recently held for soldiers only. "Let all you brave fellows who have troubles stand up," shouted the preacher. Instantly every man rose except one. "Ah!" exclaimed the preacher, peering at this lone individual, "You are one in a thousand."

Dorothy, aged four, was present at dinner the other evening when a number of guests were being entertained by her parents, and during the lull in the conversation she began to talk very earnestly. Why do you talk so much, Dorothy?" asked her father. "Cause I's dot suffin' to say," was the reply.

"Mamma," said little Betty, "my kitty is sick and I have been trying to give her some of my medicine, but she won't take it." "Of course not," replied her mother. "Cats never take medicine when they are ill." "Well, I declare!" exclaimed Betty. "Who'd think a little kitty like that would use the faith cure?"

Naturally the family tree of the grafter is a plum tree.

Pale Faced Women Take Phosphates to Make Rosy Cheeks and Beautiful Forms. Men Need Phosphates to Make Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Bodies.

Athletes increase their strength, energy and endurance 200% or more by simply taking a few week's treatment of Argo-Phosphate.

Atlanta, Ga. Dr. F. A. Jacobson says that Phosphates are just as essential to any man or woman who tires easily, is nervous, irritable, worn out, or looks haggard and pale to make a strong, robust, vigorous healthy body, as they are to children to make it grow. The lack of Phosphates is the cause of all chronic conditions and the administration of 3-grain Argo-Phosphate tablets will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous cases men and women 300 per cent. in two or three weeks time in many instances, and their continued use will build up the whole nervous system, and give new life, vim, vigor, and vitality to the whole body. I always prescribe Argo-Phosphate to patients who are pale and colorless, and it is surprising to see how quickly a few weeks treatment will transform a pale face to a rosy-cheeked beauty. There can be no rosy-cheeked, healthy, beautiful women, without their system is sufficiently supplied with Phosphates. In recent interviews with physicians on the grave and serious consequences of a deficiency of Phosphates in the blood of American men and women, I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more phosphates in the form of Argo-Phosphate for weak, worn-out, haggard-looking men and women. When the skin is pale, and the flesh flabby, it is a sign of anemia. When the phosphates go from the blood, the pink cheeks go, too. The muscles lack tone. They become nervous, irritable, despondent, melancholy, the brain fags, and the memory fails. Therefore if you wish to preserve your healthy vim, vigor and vitality, to a ripe old age, you must supply the deficiency of Phosphates lacking in your food by using Argo-Phosphate, the form of Phosphates most easily assimilated.

NOTICE

Argo-Phosphate which is recommended and prescribed by physicians in all chronic cases, is not a secret or patent medicine, but one that is sold and recommended by well known druggists everywhere, and physicians are daily subscribing the constituents contained in it. Being entirely unlike many other Phosphates, it is easily assimilated and will be found effective in the treatment of indigestion and stomach troubles, as well as for care worn, nervous conditions. The manufacturers of Argo-Phosphate will forfeit to any charitable institution $200.00 if they cannot treat any man or woman under 65 who lacks Phosphates and increase their strength and endurance from 100 per cent. to 300 per cent. in more than one month's time, if they are free from organic trouble. It is dispensed by the W. M. Cohen Drug Company.
