AMERICA'S PLEDGE SACRED--WILSON

PRESIDENT SAYS OUR PROMISE TO TRY TO PREVENT FUTURE WARS SHOULD BE KEPT.

ONLY HOPE IS IN WORLD LEAGUE

Says Germany Would Not Have Dared to Strike if Nations Had Been Banded Against Aggression.

(By Mt. Clemens News Bureau.)

St. Louis—Displaying a high confidence that his fellow citizens in the great majority agree with him in his desire to end war forever, and that the peace treaty with its League of Nations inclusion is ratified by the senate, President Wilson is making a successful way across the country on the long journey he has undertaken for the purpose of laying before the plain people a report of his work in Paris and explaining to them just what the League means.

Thus far in his travels he has everywhere met with warm greetings, both in the great halls where he has spoken formally and in the little cross roads hamlets where his train has halted at times and he has exchanged words with the villagers who pressed forward to greet him. He feels, and does not hesitate to say so when chatting with his traveling companions, that the American people want no more of war and want to become part of the League so that there may be no more war. He struck his keynote when he said in his first address, in Columbus, Ohio:

"This treaty was not intended merely to end this single war. It is meant as a notice to every government who in the future will attempt this thing (what Germany attempted) that mankind will unite to inflict the same punishment. There is no national triumph to be recorded in this treaty.
There is no glory sought for any particular nation. The thought of the statesmen collect around that table was of their people, of the sufferings they had incurred, of that great throbbing heart which was so depressed, so forlorn, so sad in every memory it had of the five tragical years that had gone by. Let us never forget let us never forget the countrymen; those years, my fellow countrymen, let us never forget the purpose, high and disinterested, with which America lent its strength, not for its own glory but for the defense of mankind.

"As I said, this treaty was not merely to end this war. It is meant to prevent any similar war.
I wonder if some of the opponents of the League of Nations have forgotten the promise we made our people before we went to that peace table? We had taken by process of law the flower of our youth from every countryside, from every household, and we told those mothers and fathers and sisters and wives and sweethearts that we were taking those men to fight a war which would end in business most unfaithful to those households brought in grief and yet lifted with the feeling that the lad laid down his life for a great thing, and, among other things, in order that other lads might never have to do the same thing.

"That is what the League of Nations is for—to end this war justly and then not merely to serve notice on governments which could contempitate that they will do so at their peril, but also concerning the combination of power which will prove to them that they will do it at their peril. It is idle to say the worlds will combine against you; but it is persuasive to say the world is combined against you. The League of Nations is the only thing that can prevent the recurrence of this dreadful catastrophe and redeem our promises."

A League of Nations would have prevented the late conflict, the president asserted, explaining:

"I did not see a single public man who did not admit these things; that Germany would not have gone into this war if she thought Great Britain was going into it, and she most certainly would never have gone into it had she dreamed America was going into it. And they all admit that a notice beforehand that the greatest powers of the world would combine to prevent this sort of thing would prevent it absolutely."

Applause and cheers greeted each declaration of the president that wars might be avoided in the future by operations of the League. He pointed out other important features of the Peace Treaty, how it was the redemption of weak nations, giving them freedom which otherwise they never could have won, how it says "These people have a right to live their own lives under governments which they themselves choose," and how "that is the American Principle and I was glad to fight for it," and that was the very heart of the Treaty, he said.

He drew attention to the section of the Treaty which is a "Magna Charta of Labor," which shall dispose of the hours, conditions and remunerations of labor.

"It forecasts the day," he said
"which ought to have come long ago, when statesmen will realize that no policy is fortunate which is not happy, whose people are not contented, contented in their lives and fortunate in the circumstances of their lives."

In conclusion the president said he felt certain the Treaty will be accepted, and was very impatient of the day.
He added: "Do you realize, my fellow citizens, that the whole world is waiting on America? The only country in the world that is trusted today is the United States and the world is awaiting to see if its trust is justified."

THE OLD FOLKS.

'Tis not so many years ago when as a boy I played Amid the scenes so dear to me from morn till evening shade;
No place so dear to childhood days as my old country home, Until one day I said goodbye and went away to roam.
The old folks said "God bless you, my boy, and may you soon return; Two broken hearts await you here, two souls will watch and yearn."
The years have come and gone away, no news from son at home.
No loving message from the boy who went away to roam.

I wonder how the old folks are at home,
I wonder if they miss me while I roam, I wonder if they pray for my boy that went away,
And left his kind old parents all alone,
I hear the cattle lowing in the lane,
And see again the fields of golden grain; I almost hear them sigh as they bade their boy good-by.
I wonder how the old folks are at home.

This world grows weary day by day, I'm lonely and I'm sad, I long again to see the scenes I knew when but a lad;
To play with little brother as we whiled the hours away, No thought had we of sorrow then, our hearts were light and gay;
I see again the old schoolhouse, the church upon the hill, The lane that leads to grandma's house is fresh in memory still;
A wandering boy, alone to-night, with thoughts of home, sweet home, Still wonders how the old folks are, this boy who went to roam.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
This is not only one of the best and most efficient medicines for coughs, colds, croup, and whooping cough, but is also pleasant to take, which is important when a medicine must be given to young children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been in use for many years and has met with much favor wherever its good qualities have become known.
Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement. Wm. Scruby, Chillicothe, Mo., writes: "I have raised three children, have always used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and found it to be the best for coughs, colds and croup. It is pleasant to take. Both adults and children like it. My wife and I have always felt safe from croup with it in the house." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic.

True love and ghosts are often talked about, but seldom seen.

For a Weak Stomach
The great relief afforded by Chamberlain's Tablets in a multitude of cases has fully proven the great value of this preparation for a weak stomach and impaired digestion. In many cases this relief has become permanent, and the sufferer has been completely restored to health.
