CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. DAUGHTER OF AGUINALDO IN U. S. CAPITAL

She Meets Many Wives of American Statesmen and Makes a Hit.

When General Emilio Aguinaldo was leading the Filipino army against the American forces twenty years ago he probably little dreamed that some day a daughter of his would visit the city of Washington and would be given a great reception at the famous Congressional Club. And that the wives of 120 members of the American Congress and two wives of members of the President's cabinet would call upon her to pay their respects!

MISS CARMEN AGUINALDO, Daughter of the Former Leader of the Filipino Army.

oughly at home that she captivated everybody.

On another occasion while in Washington Miss Aguinaldo was given a real ovation by a Filipino-American audience when she recited "My Last Farewell," poem of Dr. Jose Rizal, the Filipino martyr.

Miss Aguinaldo is a student at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. While in Washington she was the guest of Mrs. Jaime C. de Vera, wife of one of the resident commissioners from the Philippines. The Capital building and the Congressional library appealed particularly to the young Filipino, while the beautiful sights from the Washington monument thrilled her with delight. When asked how she liked America, she smiled and answered:

"It is a wonderful country. I didn't like winter at first, but since I have learned how to skate I am having fine times. All the Americans whom I have met have been very good to me. My friends in Urbana and my classmates in the university are just lovely, but I cannot help feeling homesick at times because I am missing my father. My coming here was indeed a great sacrifice for him, for we are very close. He is so good to me."

Miss Aguinaldo is intensely patriotic. She does not conceal her resentment when she hears or reads of a misrepresentation of the Philippines. "It is unfortunate," she once exclaimed in a voice full of sadness, "that my country and my people are hardly known, much less understood, by the people of America."

Politics is taboed in any conversation with this Filipino maid. She evades the topic by replying that she is too young to express opinions on things political. "All I can say," she declares, "is that I share with my father in the desire for independence for my native land. There is no question about our being able to govern ourselves."

Filipinos declare Miss Aguinaldo has a "genuine Filipino temperament"—that is, she does not believe in the occidental custom of "dates" between young men and women. She does not see anything wrong in it, she says, but it is such a violent departure from the custom in the Philippines that she cannot adopt it.

"You might laugh at me," she said, "but I cannot go out with one single escort unchaperoned. I simply can't. I will go back to my country with the soul of a Filipino."

A newspaper in one of the large American cities that Miss Aguinaldo visited expressed the opinion that she would no doubt be greatly impressed by the sight of street cars and some of the fine residences she would see, but the fact is the young lady was raised in Manila, where she has seen an up-to-date street car system all her life.

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Roysa City, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Kilman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl... my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me... but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable... I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

Do you suffer from headache, backache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and fagged-out? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial. J. 71

IF YOU BUT KNEW.

If you but knew the beauties I behold
On ev'ry side, you would not grieve for me,
But rather would your sorrow turn to joy,
If you could these fair, heavenly visions see,
For Death is but the passing of a soul
Into a brighter and loftier sphere,
Where life anew has only just begun,
For ev'ry spirit blest that enters there.

Just like a tired child at evening's close,
We gently fall asleep but to awake
Into the Life Eternal: safe within
The Everlasting Arms which ne'er forsake
Us on our journey (when the fitful sands
Of our immortal lives on earth are run)
As onward thro' the deep'n'g night we cross
The alley of the Shadow, one by one.

If you but knew, we are not far away,
And you should feel that Heaven is very near,
A curtain thin is all that hangs between—
A mystic veil that parts the Here and There.
And oftentimes we, guardian angels, keep
Our watch o'er you, and hover near your side.
Though you know not that we are there the while,
And you still—"not changed, but glorified..."

You sometimes wonder if, when looking down
Upon our grief, we can so happy be—
God has a balm for every troubled heart,
And we, who've "passed into the light" can see
The bliss unending, that awaits you here.
To compensate for ev'ry earthly loss;
We know you sorrow not for very long,
And that there is a crown for ev'ry cross.

So think with joy of when you, too, shall come
Across the Valley, and be not afraid!
Our Heavenly Father's mercy faith not
He, in our darkest hour, lends his aid.

And let my passing be but one more link
Within the golden chain, to draw you near
The Blessed Home, where "perfect peace" abides,
And where no more shall we be parted There.

Almost every man has the mistaken idea that he is essential to the essential to the workings of the universe.

"GOOD OLD DAYS" RECALLED

Century-Old Ledger Unearthed in Marietta, O., Makes Some Rather Interesting Reading.

Marietta, O., in 1797 paid $499.04 for the maintenance of the government, according to a ledger just brought to light from its hiding place of many years.

December 28, 1797, was the date of the first entry in the book. Six years later Ohio became a state.

The county at that time was three times as large as it is today. The tax duplicate showed a total of $1,210. In the territory allotted to Washington county in 1797 were the towns of Marietta, Gallinolis, Middleton, Adams, Waterford, Salem and Bellefleur now Bellefleur.

Six collectors were appointed, with headquarters in Marietta, and these men made their rounds in the "wild land" at the risk of their lives for a wage of $6.55. Indians surrounded the county, and in some instances the villages, so the tax collector was often lucky to return "body whole."

In 1798, according to the ledger, the district was divided into nine sections. Instead of six, and nine collectors were chosen. Names of the men are given and their places of residence. The commission chose a board of three members and named a chairman in that year.

Meetings were held at the home of Joseph C. Lincoln, a Revolutionary war hero, and a member of the original Ohio company which settled in Marietta, the first town in Northwest territory.

Judges received 75 cents a day whenever they worked on the bench, the ledger records show. There were quarterly sessions and a judge for each session. Six cents a mile was paid a judge for each mile traveled. The foreman of the grand jury received 60 cents a day and the jurymen 50 cents and 3 cents a mile for travel to and from court.

Disbursements for advertising in Atlantic coast and New England town papers are mentioned in the ledger, showing advertising was a necessity in that day.

Roumanian Military Men Dandies.

The Roumanian, at least the city resident, is extremely fond of perfume, scented soap, rouge, cosmetics and other artificial aids to beauty. This applies not only to the women but to the men.

The average young Roumanian army officer is scented, powdered, rouged and often, it is said, corseted! His habits mark him for a good deal of gallantry on the part of foreign officers and visitors. In dress he is as faultless as a Beau Brummel and in manner as polite as a Lord Chestersfield. He is seen at his best on Saturday or Sunday afternoon on the Ohio Victoria (the Fifth avenue of Bucharest).

Dressed in a sky-blue uniform, gaudily trimmed with red, high patent-leather boots with silvered spurs that clink musically as he walks, glistening sword at side, white kid gloves and many military decorations, he makes a striking figure.

Answered the Purpose.

The assignment in the English composition class at Scripps was the supplying of the feminine equivalent term when the teacher gave out the masculine term. All was going lovely, duke with the answer duchess, marquis and marchioness, but "lord" brought no answer until Johnnie stumbled on to his answer out of his everyday vocabulary—"lordy!"

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Fletcher's Castoria costs less than a four-cent nail at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corn, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of foot, then lift them off.

When Fletcher's Castoria is used for the removal of calluses from the bottom of feet, it acts like a magic wand and healthily "new" corns are immediately eliminated.
