

The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Ed. and Prop. WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 24, 1877.

REVIEWAL.

Mrs. Perron, who lately died in Paris, has bequeathed the sum of 85,000 francs to the municipality of Marseilles for founding an asylum for unfortunate dogs and horses.

A filibustering expedition is said to be fitting out at San Francisco for the invasion of Mexico. The force is to comprise 300 or 400 Mexicans and an equal number of daring Californians.

The Michigan Southern Railroad Company, it is said, will contest suits for damages on account of the Ashtabula disaster, claiming that the breaking of the bridge was "an act of God," for which they cannot be held responsible.

Mr. Leland Stanford, the Pacific Railroad millionaire of San Francisco, has recently been a very large buyer of costly pictures in the city, and has sent home many important works of European artists.

Many years ago the French Government established in Athens a school, to which pupils are annually sent at its expense to study Greek archaeology on the spot.

The assurance of Governor Nicholls that it will be one of his chief aims to restore confidence between the long-straggled races, is not a mere juggle of pleasing words.

The medico-political element is asserting itself in France. No fewer than twenty-nine medical men are members of the French Chamber of Deputies, and seven are members of the Senate.

The cultivation of the vine in Madeira has been recently renewed with great energy, notwithstanding the extensive damage done by the pest of that section, the Phylloxera vastatrix.

This is what Beecher says, in his newspaper, about the new anti-Plymouth association of Congregational ministers.

SENATORIAL ELECTIONS.

Several Senatorial elections have recently taken place. In Maine, James G. Blaine, Republican, was chosen; in Minnesota, William Windom, Republican; in Michigan, T. W. Ferry, Republican; in Arkansas, A. H. Garland, Democrat; in Massachusetts, George F. Hoar, Republican; in Tennessee, Isham G. Harris and Jas. E. Bailey, Democrats; and in Nebraska, P. W. Hitchcock, Republican.

WHY THE HEATHEN RAGE!

There is a show of reason for the obstinacy with which the Radical Revolutionists oppose the Electoral Bill, says the Charleston News and Courier.

The tribunal to which the double return from the disputed State will be submitted is, as far as the fifteenth man is concerned, as impartial as can be found.

Under the bill the position of Tilden is much stronger than that of Hayes, but is only so because Tilden is stronger than Hayes, exclusive of the disputed States.

THE GAME THEY PLAYED.

We all know the game that Zach Chandler played about election time and the effort he made to count in North Carolina for Hayes despite the strong popular verdict against it.

Here was the game. "Intimidation" was to be the pretext. A "Republican Governor" was to refuse the certificates.

very close; and after sending Kilpatrick and his friends there, with a number of dispatches and letters, to arrange for "holding the State for Hayes and Wheeler," they abandoned the task and fell back upon Louisiana and Florida.

When Prince Bismarck gives one of his political parties, the guests are first shown into a room where they find the Princess and her daughter, whose betrothed died last year.
