HAYES AND THE SITUATION

It is of course two soon now to venture a prediction as to what Mr. Hayes will eventually do with the Presidential office; whether he will allow himself to be ruled by General Grant's evil genius or whether he will vigorously and determinately carry out the line of policy laid down for himself in his letter of last Summer in which he accepted the Republican nomination and which he reaffirmed last Monday in his inaugural address. He has not yet announced his Cabinet and therefore anything like a positive prediction would not be in order. But one thing is and that is that there is considerable uneasiness in the Republican camp in Washington city and some of yesterday's proceedings in Congress would seem to indicate that the waters are stirred to the depths. Senators Blaine and Morton are evidently alarmed and we hope with good reason, they fear a disruption of the old traditions and the beginning of a new order of things. If Mr. Hayes should order the withdrawal of the troops in South Carolina and Louisiana, it would be serious blow to the Radical wing of his party and one from which they may never recover. To this end they are forcing the fight and their first advance forward was made in the Senate yesterday when Mr. Blaine urged that Kellogg be seated. This would involve the recognition by the Senate of the Packard usurpation and the Radicals evidently count upon it as the first step towards forcing their policy upon Mr. Hayes. If Kellogg is recognized and seated by the Senate, with Mr. Wheeler in the Chair, it will be tantamount to an official endorsement of the action of the returning board at New Orleans and may force Mr. Hayes to an early and a positive action. Whether Mr. Hayes is one who can be easier driven than led remains to be seen. Mr. Blaine, speaking for his party, has gone on record he said yesterday, in urging Kellogg:

Mr. Blaine said: "I do not desire, Mr. President, to detain the Senate by any lengthy presentation of Mr. Kellogg's case. Regarding him as I do as the regularly and duly elected Senator from the State of Louisiana, I could wish that there would be no objection to his being sworn in. I believe that he was elected by the legal Legislature of Louisiana. I believe that he was elected by and represents the legal government of Louisiana, and I do not see now to-day—and that is the main point I desire to present—how any Senator who voted in this chamber that the electoral vote of Louisiana was legally and properly cast for Rufus B. Hayes and yourself, Mr. President, is permitted to doubt that S. B. Packard is equally of right the Governor of that State."

If Mr. Hayes has any of that stuff of which true statesmen are made and if he really desires to be the President of a people and not of a party, Mr. Blaine's hasty action may prove a ruinous policy for himself and his supporters. In such an event a conflict between them and Mr. Hayes is simply inevitable.

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. 2. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 1877. NO. 40.

For legislative proceedings and State news see fourth page.

Swedish barque Prima, Krook, from this port arrived on the 5th inst at London.

Swedish brig Amelia, Christensen, from this port, arrived at Queenston, on the 5th inst.

There was a heavy frost visible this morning but the fruit trees heretofore do not seem to have suffered any from its effects.

The Registrar's office for the second ward is located in the Grand Jury room, at the Court House, and is approached through the yard.

Mr. T. Nolan has been appointed Marshal for the celebration of St. Patrick's Day, by the Hibernian Association of this city.

We understand that our young friend Isaac N. Carr, has formed a partnership with his father, Dr. Thos. B. Carr, for the practice of dentistry in this city. If he proves a chip of the old block at the business, we know that he will do well.

On rumor, that Mayor Canaday has gone to Washington City, he wants to be Collector of this port for the ensuing four years. Gen. Abbott, it is said, wants to ship foreign on some nice little ten thousand dollar consulate.

A Deserted Camp.

Mr. W. J. Mott, while hunting in the woods east of the city yesterday for some cattle, came across two large bush camps at the head of Green's mill-pond, near the mineral spring branch. From appearances the camp has been recently deserted. Several little things were picked up by Mr. Mott, including several copies of the city daily papers. The camp, no doubt, was occupied by some of the thieves who have been so actively at work in the city for some months past.

The Criminal Court Bill a Law.

By a dispatch received at noon we learn that the Criminal Court bill passed the House to-day, substantially as it passed the Senate, and with the salary of the Judge at $2,500 per annum. This is as it should be. The position of the Judge of this Court will be no sinecure. There are to be six terms during the year and it will be readily seen that whoever fills such a position will have no time to devote to any other calling and that he must therefore depend upon his salary for a support for himself and his family.

The Little Giant.

At a meeting of Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 1, held last evening, the following officers were elected: Foreman—Joseph Price. 1st Asst. do.—W. F. Hargrove. 2d do.—G. W. Lamb. Chief Engineer—E. W. Manning. 1st Asst. do.—Robert Morrison. 2d do.—B. W. Newkirk. Recording Secretary—E. W. Manning. Corresponding Secretary—A. C. Craft. Treasurer—J. F. Gause.

Capt. F. G. Robinson, the retiring foreman, has served eight years and could not be induced to continue in the position. He was re-elected last night by a unanimous vote and then resigned, whereupon Capt. Price was elected Foreman.

The anniversary of the Company falls due on the 22d inst., when the officers elect will be installed.

Republican Magistrates for Wilmington.

The entire city was startled last night by the reception here of a dispatch from Senator Troy, of Cumberland, who stated that there was some danger of the rejection by the Legislature of ten of the magistrates nominated from this county and the substitution in their places of ten Republicans. Street caucuses were held and the wires were at once put into requisition by a number of gentlemen, the indignant demand being, in effect, "Give us all Democrats or none." To-day the subject was one of universal comment and if some of the sapient members of the Legislature could have heard the comments passed upon them we are inclined to the opinion that they would have echoed the sentiments of "all Democrats or none."

Towards noon the feeling got a little better, on the strength of a dispatch from Maj. Englehard who had been among the members and who stated that every effort had been made to have the Republican part of the business stricken out, and that the only success thus far had been to cut down the number of Republican magistrates to five instead of ten.

Mr. Kidder's Essay.

[CONCLUDED.]

A few days after the colony departed, three vessels under Sir Richard Greenville arrived, but too late by a month; better success would have established this as the first colony of Englishmen on American soil. This Greenville expedition had but a short supply of food, and after some explorations returned. Raleigh was not dismayed. In 1587 a new expedition under Jno. White, this time as Governor with 12 assistants sailed and came near being wrecked on Cape Fear, but landed safely July 27. They were first to visit Roanoke Island where Greenville had left fifteen men; they found there only one skeleton, with ammunition and other property; no human being was seen. The commander refused to proceed to the Chesapeake as it was intended he should. They got into difficulties with the Indians through misunderstandings, but finally Maneto was solemnly christened as Lord of Roanoke. This was the first act of the sort ever performed in this country. Aug. 18th Virginia Dare, grand-daughter of Gov. Dare, was born, the first child of white parents born on the Continent.

Aug. 25th the Governor departed, leaving 117 persons, among whom were his wife, grand-daughter and others, abandoned to an unknown fate, arriving himself safely in England. Two years later the settlement was visited. Six vessels approached the shore, a great smoke was rising up, which encouraged them to believe it proceeded from a house. They were doomed to disappointment. The footprints of savages were seen on the sand, and the woods were on fire. They went to the North end of the island and found a sign board with the word CROATAN on it, indicating that the settlers had gone to Croatan. No living soul was found, only remnants of their property. The history closes with the return of this expedition. In 1668 the remains of Lane's fort were still visible, having been visited by a small craft from Va. In 1653 or 4, another settlement was attempted on the shores of Roanoke or Chowan, without success. Soon after Eastern colonists came in, and carried on a large traffic with the Indians. Roanoke Island was at one time owned by Joshua Lamb, a citizen of Boston, as evidenced by a grant exhibited to the Society by Mr. Kidder. It bears date of April 17, 1676. The lecturer thought the colonization of Roanoke well worth the careful investigation of the Society.

It is not possible to form an idea, from our sketch, of the great value of Mr. Kidder's paper. It has been a theme upon which he has spent much labor—a pure labor of love, and a considerable amount of money, for a time extending over thirty or forty years. It was a real treat to every one in his audience. At the conclusion of Mr. Kidder's lecture, he formally presented a heliotype copy of the work of Harriot, "A briefe and true report of the new found land of Virginia. Of the commodities and of the nature and manners of the natural inhabitants. Discovered by the English Colony there seated by Sir Richard Greenville, Knight, in the yeere 1585." The book contained the following inscription: "I take pleasure in presenting this the first donation to the Historical and Scientific Society. Edward Kidder."

Mr. Kidder then exhibited some old documents, and among others was a patent to Maurice Moore for one mile of land in Bath county, which included all of the present New Hanover county. This was signed by Richard Everard, first Governor, and bore date 1729. This deed has a history. When David Fanning was on one of his marauding expeditions down the river on his way to Maj. Craig for supplies and to bring prisoners to Wilmington, he plundered houses of citizens. The house of Maurice Moore was burned in one of these explorations. Among other plunder which found its way to Florida and finally to Nova Scotia after his flight from North Carolina, was this old paper. Then too in connection with this notorious character, he presented a very rare manuscript, being Fanning's Narrative in his (Fanning's) own hand writing. This old manuscript has a history, and is known far and wide by antiquarians. The Richmond edition was printed from this and the New York edition of a later date was from that.

An original manuscript of a treaty with the Catawba Indians was exhibited, dated 1757.

Mr. Kidder also exhibited a copy of a map drawn by Capt. Wimble, a man of no mean parts. It bears date 1755, a fac-simile being in possession of a member of the Society.

Capt. Wimble made a survey of the coast. He was a large landed proprietor and made many surveys of the portions of the country; also the peculiar interest which attaches to many of these maps, as the mention on them of the names of the citizens of the neighborhood.

The meaning of the word Croatan is the name of the Indian tribe who were the aboriginal owners of the part of the county we inhabit, is Sound. It will be remembered that the Tuscaroras who are of this tribe removed to Western New York. They are allied to the powerful tribe of Iroquois.

The antiquarian is abroad in the land. From the tombs of Myosotis to the shell mounds of Florida, the spade and pick are at work, and every old garret and closet and second-hand book store in the land is yielding its treasures at fabulous rates. The time to begin collecting and securing the bits of history which are floating about was never more propitious.

Yet we have not told all we might tell of this rare entertainment, but have given as much of our space as we could in order to push on the movement now so well and favorably begun by this new Society. We will wait with eager interest for another installment from Mr. Kidder, who is an antiquarian and historical scholar of well-known parts.

NOTE.—The remarks about the choice of name refers only to the river and not to the island of Roanoke. Persons further investigation may show why the change and when it was made, from Roanoke to Roanoke. A further reference to the book may throw some light on the plant thought to have been the peanut. As to the potato, while its origin is obscure, it is not claimed to have been indigenous to the State, but merely that it was cultivated by the Indians.

By article published elsewhere it will be seen that Mr. C. H. Robinson, Chairman of the city Democratic Executive Committee, has called upon the Presidents of the various Democratic Ward Clubs to call a meeting of their respective wards on next Tuesday night the 13th inst. for the purpose of nominating candidates for Aldermen.

Meteor.

About 9 o'clock last evening a most beautiful meteor passed over the city, lighting up the entire sky. It started to the south of us, and when, apparently, it reached the northern part of the city it burst, with a report similar to that of a pistol, into thousands of atoms which were thrown out in every direction.
