WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1877.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS.

The State of Kentucky pays a dollar for a fox's scalp, and this year nearly all the taxes in Adair County have been paid with scalps.

Charles Taylor, a colored lawyer from Massachusetts, has been admitted to practice in Maryland, the first negro in the bar of that State.

Colonel Sellers, otherwise J. T. Raymond, passed the Treasury Department in Washington, the other day, and said mildly: "There's millions in it!" and immediately added, reflectively, "there's millions after it."

Hilton's bull against the Jews brings to mind the facts that in 1863 General Grant issued an order excluding Jews from the lines of the Army of the Tennessee; and that some years ago certain fire insurance companies prohibited Jews from taking out policies in them.

The Turks in their march into Montenegro are said to have lost ten thousand men. Great discontent is reported at Constantinople with the policy of the government which has employed sixty thousand men on this by-play with little Montenegro, when such vast interests are at stake in Asia and on the Danube.

From seventeen to twenty thousand of the homeless sufferers of the fire at St. John's are daily supplied with substantial food at the rink, where contributions are concentrated. The amount of provisions already consumed has been enormous, but the stock holds out well and is constantly replenished.

Mr. Daniel Dennett, of Louisiana, says: "Let our people be patient. In a few years the merits of the Southern States will be trumpeted all over America and Europe, and immigration, capital and enterprise will rush hither in hot haste, such as California never witnessed in her greatest prosperity."

One of Sherman's bummers cut a painting of his frame in one of the Rhett family mansions in South Carolina, and sold it in Philadelphia for ten dollars. Neither he nor the purchaser knew that it was over ten centuries old, and was valued high among the thousands. It has just been discovered in Cincinnati.

A Polish legion is organizing in Constantinople, and the German Government has enjoined great care upon the authorities throughout Posen and Prussia to prevent any recruiting for it within their respective districts. All officers of the landwehr or reserve are forbidden to take service under Turkey, under penalty of being treated as deserters.

The prediction that the export of fresh meat from this country to England would ultimately become a huge traffic is rapidly being verified. New York in April last sent 6,000,000 pounds, and Philadelphia 2,500,000 pounds. At both of these ports the shipments are steadily increasing. Philadelphia, for instance, last October sent but 1,500,000 pounds, while now its monthly shipments run into the millions.

The exhibitors at the permanent exhibition in Philadelphia have finally voted, after long discussion, upon the question of having it opened on Sunday, provided the machinery is stopped and no sales are made, and the result was 835 yeas to 509 nays. As the directors have made the supposed opposition of the exhibitors a chief reason for refusing Sunday openings, the decided majority in its favor is likely to bear fruit in a change of policy.

The unanimous opinion in military circles is that Constantinople is the objective point of the Russian armies both in Asia and Europe, and that by all the rules in strategy those armies are bound to go to that city. Seventy days from the crossing of the Danube is the time generally allowed for their appearance before Stamboul. Whether after possessing it the Russians will hold it or not, is a question the strategists leave to the diplomats; but that they will take it is a point on which there is no dispute.

For political effect a good deal has been said about proscription and social ostracism for opinion's sake in the South. Let us cite the Jews as witnesses. Before the war Louisiana sent Judah P. Benjamin, a Jew, to represent her in the United States Senate. During the war he was the Premier of the Confederate Cabinet, while General Grant was issuing orders excluding all Jews from his military department on the Union side. Now comes the manager of the largest estate in the North and forbids the entertainment of any Jew at his Grand Union Hotel, at Saratoga. Joseph Seigman, the head of a great banking house and a gentleman of high character and culture was selected as the first victim of this insulting proscription in order to make the example more conspicuous.

SOUTH OF THE DANUBE.

The plot thickens and the news becomes not only interesting but thrilling along the Danube. All interest in the armies of Asia Minor seems now to have been transferred to the new theatre of war, and we read with a great deal of interest the Herald's account of the crossing of the Danube at Simnitsa by the Russians under command of Generals Yolchire and Dragmiroff. According to the account which the Herald publishes the Russians no longer seem inferior to the Turks in point of valor and soldier-like qualities.

The cheerfulness and willingness with which they labored to launch their boats, dragging them through the soft mud and miry marshes of the Roumanian shore, in the dead of night, the great caution they displayed in keeping their movements concealed from the enemy, the quiet, orderly behavior of the soldiers while undergoing all these hardships, the subdued tones in which all orders were issued, the deep interest which pervaded the ranks of the Russian soldiers, the cool courage and determined valor exhibited by Gen. Yolchire when he landed with his troops on the Bulgarian shore; the enthusiasm of the common soldier, and the impetuous charge made by the Russians when the Turks were driven back from the river shore, and the successful foot-hold which the Russians gained by the superior generalship of their officers and the unflinching courage of their men, goes to prove that the Turks are more than equally matched in quality as well as quantity of the Russian soldier.

The Russians have now control of nearly the entire length of the Danube, from Widdin to where its waters empty into the Black sea. The On to Constantinople march has now commenced in earnest, terrible earnest, as the next few weeks or possibly days may show. The Russians are gradually drawing the cordon closer and closer around the sick man's territory; slowly but no less surely, we firmly believe, the Czar is inclosing the doomed armies of the Porte. It is the same plan apparently as Gen. Winfield Scott urged upon the Lincoln administration to adopt with the Northern armies in order to subdue the South, which plan was to suppress by force of superior numbers, and the Russian plan, we sincerely believe, will be the same towards his Moslem adversary.

But it is not to be supposed that the Turks will yield without a struggle, and a desperate one at that—the defence of their capital; all of their religious prejudices are aroused and they will fight with the desperation of a wounded lion at bay, while the Russians, elated with their recent successes, will be more valiant than ever, and blood, human blood, will flow freely. War is certainly no child's play, it is not only full of horrors to the active participants, but it entails untold misery and suffering upon the poor defenceless women and children.

Who is responsible for all the blood that is shed and the misery, abject misery, that is caused by cruel war? It is a question easier asked than answered.

The near future is big with events in the Eastern war, and we await with considerable interest the news that shall come from the Danubian frontier in the next few weeks. In the meantime the fate of nations may fairly be said to hang in the balance.

"KITTY KING."

We print elsewhere this fine poem, of which the Baltimore Sun, of Saturday, says:

Mr. Asar R. Watson, for more than four years local editor of the Macon (Ga.) Messenger, and wellknown and esteemed throughout that State, died on Tuesday last. He was native of Loudon county, Va. Mr. Watson was a conscientious and industrious worker in verse, and many of his poems ran the rounds of the press. One of them, particularly—entitled "Kitty King,"—had a wide spread popularity in England, and was variously attributed to several of the most famous poets.

THE NEXT HOUSE.

The Washington Star says: The Honorable George W. Adams, Clerk of the House of Representatives, left here yesterday for Kentucky, his home, to spend the summer. He has completed the list of members that he will call to organize the House at 12 m., October 15th. The Democrats, according to the list, will have eight majority. There are twelve contested cases reported and affidavits filed. Neither the Democratic or Republican member from Colorado will be placed on the roll. Neither will he place on the roll either Parchero or Wigginton, the California contestants; or Metcalf and Frost, the Missouri contestants.

It has become the fashion in Paris to have a monogram of the owner's initials in the centre of the window shades and curtains.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

AA UNRIVALED ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE

When Scribner issued his famous Midsummer Holiday Number in July, a friendly critic said: "We are not sure but that Scribner has touched high-water mark. We do not see what worlds are left to it to conquer." But the publishers do not consider that they have reached the ultima thule of excellence—they believe "there are other worlds to conquer, and they propose to conquer them."

The prospectus for the new volume gives the titles of more than fifty papers (mostly illustrated), by writers of the highest merit. Under the head of

we have "A winter on the Nile," by Gen. McClellan; "Sauterlings About Constantinople," by Charles Dudley Warner; "Out of My Window at Moscow," by Eugene Schuyler; "An American in Turkishistan," etc. Three serial stories are announced:

Nicholas Mintun.

By Dr. Holland, the Editor, whose story of "Sevenoaks" gave the highest satisfaction to the readers of the Monthly. The scene of this latest novel is laid on the banks of the Hudson. The hero is a young man who has been always "tied to a woman's apron strings," but who, by the death of his mother, is left alone in the world,—to drift on the current of life,—with a fortune, but without a purpose.

Another serial, "His Inheritance," by Miss Landon, will begin on the completion of "That Lass of Lowrie's," by Mrs. Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Burnett's story, begun in August, has a pathos and dramatic power which have been a surprise to the public.

There is to be a series of original and exquisitely illustrated papers of "Popular Science," by Mrs. Herrick, each paper complete in itself.

There are to be, from various pens, papers on

"Home Life and Travel."

Also, practical suggestions as to town and country life, village improvements, etc., by well-known specialists.

Mr. Barnard's articles on various industries of Great Britain include the history of "Some Experiments in Co-operation," "A Scottish Loaf Factory" in the November number, and "Toad Lane, Rochdale," in December. Other papers are: "The British Workingman's Home," "A Nation of Shopkeepers," "Half-penny a Week for the Child," etc.

A richly illustrated series will be given on "American Sports by Flood and Field," by various writers, and each on a different theme. The subject of will have a prominent place, whilst the latest productions of American humorists will appear from month to month. The list of short stories, biographical and other sketches, etc., is a long one.

The editorial department will continue to employ the ablest pens both at home and abroad. There will be a series of letters on literary matters, from London, by Mr. Welford.

No pages of the magazine will be open, as heretofore, so far as limited space will permit, to the discussion of all themes affecting the social and religious life of the world, and specially to the freshest thought of the Christian thinkers and scholars of this country.

We mean to make the magazine sweeter and purer, higher and nobler, more genial and generous in all its utterances and influences, and a more welcome visitor than ever before in homes of refinement and culture.

FIFTEEN MONTHS for $4.

Scribner for December, now ready, and which contains the opening chapters of "Nicholas Mintun," will be read with eager curiosity and interest. Perhaps no more readable number of this magazine has yet been issued. The three numbers of Scribner for August, September, and October, containing the opening chapters of "That Lass of Lowrie's," will be given to every new subscriber.

Subscription price, $4 a year—35 cents a number. Special terms on bond volumes. Subscribe with the nearest bookseller, or send a check or P. O. money order to

APPLETON'S

AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA was completed in 1873, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States and the signal development which it has taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editor and publisher to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition, entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts, and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars, and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorer of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth.

Every one is curious to know the particulars of the great battles which have been fought and important sieges maintained; of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, and which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the lowest possible rates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress political activity has been making.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming, in fact, a new Cyclopaedia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvement in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than for amusement, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopaedia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in three parts, and each volume, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

Price and Style of Binding.

In extra cloth, per vol. $5 00; In Library Leather, per vol. $8 00; In Half Turkey Morocco, per vol. $7 00; In Half Russia, extra gilt, per vol. $8 00; In Full Morocco, antique, gilt edges, per vol. $10 00; In Full Russia, per vol. $6 00.

Thirteen volumes now ready. Succeeding volumes, until completion, will be issued once in two months.

Specimen pages of the AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis, on application.
