sections was changed. He was replied to by General Martin. who explained the idea and intent of the paragraphs alluded to as different in meaning from that attributed to them by Dr. In the discussion much was said in reand to the division of the Diocese, and Sshop Lyman felt called upon to submit a few remarks. He refuted the charge or minuation that he was instrumental in arging the division of the Diocese. He had not done so, but however his advice was asked on the subject, he always said that he was for any measure that would alvance the interest of the church. For his own promotion ho would not think of hastening an act that would be prejudicial whechurch, and though it had been inimated in the long range of discussion on ha question, that he favored and urged a drision, he would take this occasion to say that it was unfounded in fact. The Rishop's remarks were opportune and timely, and the Convention was seemingly much impressed with their force and ex-

Rev. Dr. Huske, of Fayetteville, offered resolution to indefinitely postpone the further consideration of the question of a division of the Diocese, and in a very landsome speech stated his reason for doing so. He said that he had advocated division for several years and was strongy in favor of it, but he thought that unier the present circumstances delay would not be dangerous, and his own convictions were that it would redound to the good of Bishop Lyman arose and made a statent in regard to the Episcopal College it Morganton. He stated that the finances of the church were not adequate to build upon the land that had already been donated, but it was all-important to commence the school at once; that a suitable building could be procured in the town of Morganton, the rent for which could be paid in the rent received for the grounds belonging to the church, but a few hundollars were necessary for the purhase of furniture, &c., and he hoped the ouvention would raise this amount by reluntary subscription.

Poisonous Vinegar.

A scientific paper says: It is asserted that probably one half of the vinegar sold at city groceries is a rank poison, with either sulphuric or other objectionable acids for its base, from which the acetic principle is evolved, the same as in the manufacture of aromatic vinegar or the acetates used in calico printing. The crop of black-eye peas this year is Acetic acid is present in all vinegars, alfive per cent of the absolute acid. Their color, flavor and value depend materially npon the ingredients from which they are made. In England, honest vinegars are usually made from malt; in France, of grapes; in Germany, of grapes, beet root or potatoes; in this country, of apples and grapes.

Quick Time.

The Wilson Advance says; The W. & W. R. R. has justly gained the reputation of being the fastest road in the South, and ever since "Hessenger's famous run" of four hours from Wilmingtos to Weldon, it has been considered a small trifle to be called upon to knock off September 16th, 1877—16th Sunday 50 miles an hour in order to make up time after Trinity. Morning Prayer and 50 miles an hour in order to make up time and make proper connection. Guilford Horn has followed Johnny Hessinger with thundering rapidity, and makes the run in four hours and ten minutes, and hardly had we got over wondering at that when Willie Morris "shies his hat in the ring" as a champion runner and claims that he male the run from Weldon to Wilson, one day last week, a distance of 58 miles, in one jour and twelve minutes, including sevenl stoppages. This is fast running, and shows that these knights of the throttle ar not only skillful and efficient, but, that hey have good engines and run upon a roal that is in splendid trim.

Crossing the Mountains -- A Terrible

Disaster Providentially Averted. On Thursday last two stages and two hacks left Asheville about 2 o'clock in the afternoon for Henry's station, and when within about four miles of Henry's and about one hundred yards from the scene of the Engelhard-Nutt accident of last summer, the horses attached to one of the hacks containing Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer Miss Sawyer, a young baby and nurse, all of Asheville, took fright, running down the side of the mountain in a sweeping gallop. The driver's foot was kicked from the brakes and the horses became complete masters of the situation. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock in the evening and the moon being behind the mountain the darkness added greate danger and horror to the passengers shut up in the hack. As the horses went down the narrow mountain pass, death stared the inmates of the hack in the face, and the yawning gulf below seemed ready for the victims, but providentially the hack was capsized just before reaching the awful precipice, the sides resting on a We understand there are unprincipled small mound of earth, which kept it from grocers and dealers who palm off on un- being hurled over the side of the mountain and Mr. Sawyer and family to certain death. The driver was not one of the regular drivers of the line. A stage driven by Rheinhart and containing some Wilmingtonians, was crossing the pass where a terrible disaster so nearly occurred last year, when the frightened team came tearing down the side of the mountain, but by careful driving and long experience Rheinhardt kept his horses under good control and passed the dreaded place without any damage to his passengers, notwithstanding the great danger attending under such circumstanecs. Lt. H. Harrison, of the United States Coast Survey, the Misses Boyle, of Washington City, and and Mr. James Dickson Munds, of this city, were on the top of Rheinhart's stage, mute and unwilling witnesses to the dreadful situation of those in the other hack who, so to speak, were almost on the brink of eternity. As the stage attached to the frightened horses turned over and the passengers scrambled out, the amen! of relief went up from all of those who but a moment before expected to see their friends hurled to the depths of the black abyss. Mr. Munds returned to this city last evening fully satisfied with the romance and beauty of stage coaching over the mountains.
