

The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Ed. and Prop. WILMINGTON, N. C. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1877. VIEWS AND REVIEWS.

There lives in Tennessee a Methodist minister known as Greenberry Kelly, who is 99 years old, in good health, and expects to preach a Centennial sermon on his next birthday.

Bismarck's favorite dog, Nero, has lately died of poison, and the Prince has promised a large reward for his assassin. Wrapped in superb velvet covering, Nero's body was laid in a box, and borne on the shoulders of eight workmen, dressed in black, to a grave in the park.

The National Grange, has adopted a resolution declaring their disapprobation of laws demonetizing silver, and committing the government arbitrarily to any fixed day in the future for the resumption of specie payments, and expressing sympathy with the effort now being made in Congress for the repeal of the measure.

Senator Whyte, of Maryland, expresses the opinion that the silver bill will pass the Senate, but it is scarcely probable that the Anti-resumption act will go through. As for himself, he says, he purposes to vote against both of these measures, and is rather certain that Dr. Dennis the other Senator from Maryland, will act in the same way.

Mr. Gladstone says that Ireland has now only five and a half millions of inhabitants, whereas, before the famine of 1846 and the large tide of emigration which poured out of the country, as a consequence, in the years following, the population was eight millions. As might be supposed the products of the soil have fallen off with the decrease of population.

A romantic sensation has been slapped in the face at London. The aged Breachman, M. de Lally-Tollendal, who died of want in a coal hole, was not, says the Memorial Diplomatique, the last surviving descendant of the heroic Lally headed for being defeated in the East Indies, but had no right whatever to the title, and under the Empire was not a distinguished cavalry officer, but a police spy who had been snubbed for coloring his reports too highly.

Mr. Eustis claims the seat in the United States Senate for the term beginning March 4, 1878. The Legislature of Louisiana, which elected him was the only undisputed one from March, 1872, to April, 1877. No question has ever been made as to the constitutionality and authority of that Legislature, and the most bitter Republican partisan in the Senate can bring no objection to Mr. Eustis' title which cannot be immediately overturned by documentary evidence.

Mr. A. H. Stephens has written this pretty little inscription in a copy of his American History which he has given to a child friend: "You are now of years too tender to read, but ere long you will be able not only to understand this inscription, but also to understand what is written in this book. When you grow up study it, for in it you will find a true history of your country and become acquainted with the virtues and heroic deeds of your ancestors. Then you will, I trust treasure it as a memento of one now passing off the stage of life upon which you are just entering."

A novel exhibition, a cat show, is now in progress in Philadelphia. Premiums are offered amounting to $2,000. A lady's gold watch set with diamonds is offered for the cat combining breed, greatest beauty and most remarkable traits. For matched sextets, $250 in gold, and $20 for matched quintets are offered. An order for a Keystone self-inking printing press is to be given for the cat most comically attired. A large number of cats, have been entered for competition, and the show promises to comprise some fine specimens of the feline tribe.

The Boston Traveler, in a review of the political situation, says: "The republic must wait with patience the returning spirit of the republican party to right these wrongs, and the republican party must lie in the bed which it made blindly at Cincinnati until it resumes the courage to take on again the republican character under the republican cloak." That 'spirit' will never return. Parties die like man and all living nature, when their time comes.

Mrs. A. K. McClure, wife of Col. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, who died in that city on Sunday, was widely known as one of the most benevolent ladies in a city noted for its benevolence. Every charitable work found her at the front giving of her means and leisure for the relief of the suffering. Before the war Colonel McClure and his wife lived in proverbial Southern style near Chambersburg, Penn., and then their residence was noted as the place where aid was never sought in vain. By Mrs. McClure's death the poor not only of Philadelphia, but of the entire State, lose one of their best friends and supporters.

ILLIBERAL STATESMAN.

Senator Morrill, of Vermont, does not seem to think that the House bill favoring an appropriation for the relief of the survivors of the ill-fated steamer Huron and the unfortunate widows and orphans of the brave men who perished in that awful disaster, can be acted upon by such a dignified body as the Senate, without first passing through the hands of a committee, and in this he was sustained by his compeers on the Radical side, who are very scrupulous about spending the people's money when it is for a worthy object like the one referred to above; but when an appropriation for the increase of the army, to overawe and subdue the freemen in thirteen sovereign States, under the leadership of such men as Sheridan and Angur is brought up for consideration, these patriotic (?) statesmen immediately move in solid phalanx with their votes to pass the measure.

The bill which passed the House unanimously for the relief of the sufferers by the Huron disaster has, by the Radical majority in the Senate, at the instance of Morrill, of Vermont, been referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, where, in all probability, it will be smothered out of existence.

DISCUSSING SOUTHERN OUTRAGES IN THE SENATE.

It is an easy thing for a Radical like Senator Hoar, of Electoral Commission infamy, to rise in his seat and pronounce upon the alleged outrages committed by Ku-Klux in the Southern States, and then flaunt the ensign of the late lamented high-toned (?) Senator from Indiana, in the face of the Senate, in a sort of spread-eagle speech, wherein he tries to imitate the formerly distinguished, but now very nearly extinguished man from Maine, the once redoubtable Jim Blaine, of Mulligan letters fame; but when called on for proof of these assertions the virtuous Senator and ex-member of the Electoral Commission, (one of the immortal eight), who represents that saintly commonwealth of Massachusetts, finds himself completely nonplussed.

Senator Thurman, that noble old statesman and patriot from Ohio, struck the key note for Southern Democrats to sound, in his reply to the Massachusetts Senator, during the discussion on Friday last. The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, in Saturday's issue, details in a very graphic manner the little passage at arms between the Senators above mentioned. Bayard, the chivalrous Senator from Delaware, attempted a reply to the slanders from the Radical side, but acted entirely on the defensive, consequently he did not succeed as well as Judge Thurman, who assumed the offensive, and demanded of Senator Hoar to sustain his charge and prove his assertion that men had been seated in both Houses of Congress whose elections had been brought about by these outrages, by rising in his place and naming a single instance. Is it necessary to add that this pigmy from Massachusetts, sitting where Daniel Webster once sat, did not reply? As bold as this puritanical New England Senator appears to be, when making these slanderous charges against a whole people, his boldness is not of that kind when he stands face to face with his adversary to permit him to indulge in any such slanders against the individual. The virtuous Senator will not soon forget his experience with Senator Ransom we trust.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

This is destined to be one of the most useful and important institutions of the State. By an act of the last Legislature it was made a co-ordinate branch of the State government. The Board are laboriously engaged in ferreting out the causes and nature of our most prevalent and terrible diseases—yellow fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever, cholera infantum, scarlet fever, and other diseases peculiar to North Carolina. Drainage and drinking water, important to the whole State and particularly to all the citizens of our Eastern counties, is receiving, and will receive proper investigation at the hands of these medical gentlemen. The result of their labors will be the presentation of a voluminous report to the next Legislature through the Governor, and this report will reach the public generally also. The following physicians compose the Board: Dr. S. S. Satchwell, Pender—President, Dr. Thos. F. Wood, Wilmington—Secretary, Dr. Peter E. Hines, Raleigh—Dr. Joseph Graham, Charlotte—Dr. Charles Duffy, Jr., Newbern—Dr. Geo. A. Foote Warrenton.

The Board only allowed one hundred dollars annually and yet are working as ardently in their noble mission of advancing the cause of science and the interest of humanity as if thousands of dollars had been allowed them by the Legislature. The foundation of this Health Board exists in the necessities of the people for better health and a lower ratio of mortality. Health is the poor man's opiate. The prosperity of a community is measured by the health of its citizens. The wealth of a State is materially made up by the aggregate health of the people of that State. In every respect then, whether, as a humane and scientific movement, adapted to our entire population, or as a wise measure of political economy, calculated to remove causes of disease, relieve pain, cure disease, and prolong human life, and thus advance the material interests of the people and the welfare of the State, this Board deserves, and should receive, the sympathy and fostering aid of all, and the sustaining support of the State. A circular letter is about to appear from the Board as we learn, addressed to the people containing information of importance in relation to that terrible disease diphtheria, and other contagious and epidemic diseases.

The negro who, for a crime which blights the life of a girl of fourteen, was hanged at Baltimore the other day, said just before death, "I am going to my Lord in the hope of eternal glory, to walk in the gilded paths of Jerusalem to heaven. I shall soon go home to God. For myself I feel proud this evening, for I go to meet my Lord. I fully forgive all mankind for whatever wrongs they have done me. I will meet you all in glory. I did what they say I did. My colors are nailed to the masthead of Jesus." Then they strung him up, and the poor girl of fourteen doesn't know whether or not she will be so happy as to meet the darkey in heaven.

A Wretched Existence.

Other conditions being equal, there is no reason why a healthy man or woman should not enjoy life; and it may well be doubted whether adverse fortune has the power entirely to destroy the happiness of one who sleeps soundly and whose digestion is good. But for the nervous, feeble, dyspeptic invalid there is no comfort in life. His existence is indeed a wretched one. But he should not despair of relief. That benignant restorative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has imparted healthful vigor to many a self-supposed incurable. It is an unequalled builder up of broken down physiques, and besides a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, nervousness, irregular habit of body, biliousness and kidney and bladder difficulties. It eliminates from the blood the acrid element which gives rise to rheumatic ailments, cheers and relieves the aged and infirm, and may be used with great advantage by ladies in feeble health. Its perfect purity also commends it to the use of invalids.

HOPE FOR ALL.

Consumption is generally supposed to be an incurable disease. Why? Because medical men, who of all others should have been the last to encourage such an unphilosophical and dangerous assumption, have insisted upon propagating it with a persistency which seems almost incredible in the light of science and of truth. We used the term 'dangerous' advisedly, for what can be more depressing and injurious to the consumptive than brooding over the idea—founded solely upon the fiat of the physician—that his malady is incurable and that the utmost that can be done for him is to render his exit from this world as easy as possible. Such melancholy and hopeless reflections as this belief engenders among consumptive patients, does as much, if not more, to hasten their departure for the land of shadows, as the tubercles in their lungs. Away with a hopeless theory. Happily the GREAT MASTERS OF MEDICINE have entered their protest against it and confuted by the most positive testimony the monstrous fallacy. Dangerous as pulmonary phthisis is, its terrible ravages may be stayed and the lungs restored to a sound condition, even after suppuration has taken place, and the patient has been pronounced by the most experienced surgeon to be past mortem examinations of aged persons who have died in the ordinary course of nature have repeatedly disclosed the traces of pulmonary ulcers entirely cicatrized. The argument, therefore, against the possibility of healing a pulmonary disease cannot be reached, has not a leg to stand upon. Over fifty instances of the discovery of cicatrized ulcers in the lungs have been recorded by the medical faculty of Paris, and such eminent authorities as Keavin, Malpighi, DuRoi and scores of others, in France, England and Germany, might easily be cited to prove their certain curability.

To treat any malady rationally its character and morbid influence must be known. The dissecting knife has disclosed all the internal characteristics of consumption. We know that tubercles in the lungs vary in size from a pin's point to a walnut, and that a large brain. These develop into open ulcers technically known as vomical which afterwards spread over a surface several inches in diameter. Their sacs are filled with a yellow, greenish, grayish matter generally very offensive. The membrane itself is greatly inflamed, and the ends of the pulmonary artery and vein connecting with the diseased parts are clogged with vitiated and purulent mucus. Death must ensue either from suffocation or hemorrhage if speedy relief is not obtained. It is obvious that something is required which will enable the suffering patient to resist the poison ranking in his lungs, and choking the system, and which will also allay the grievous irritation of the inflamed parts. No preparation known to materia medica accomplishes this double object so effectually and speedily as HOLLOWAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM. That incomparable remedy loosens and liquifies the most obstinate accumulation of mucus in the lungs and bronchiae, subdues with wonderful rapidity the inflammation of the diseased parts, and prevents the possibility of hemorrhage. At the same time it tones and strengthens the muscles of the throat and enables them to throw off the vitiated matter without straining. The transcendent merit of HOLLOWAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM is the thoroughness with which it does its work. Its immense superiority to the multitude of official and proprietary medicines, designed for a similar purpose, which have preceded it, lies in the fact that it is an ABSOLUTE ERADICATOR of pulmonary troubles, while they at the best were merely palliations. It is not alone that the preparation dissolves the pulmonary virus, it possesses balsamic properties peculiarly adapted to soothe the irritated lung, while by its tonic operations it greatly facilitates and hastens the healing process. As a preventive HOLLOWAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM is equally efficacious. Coughs, especially the dry hacking coughs which are so common, are terribly fruitful sources of consumption. The sufferer at first has a feeling of rawness in the throat, tightness across the chest, then a dangerous inflammation sets in, which may give rise to hemorrhage or the formation of vomical, if it is not speedily checked and the cough loosened. HOLLOWAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM accomplishes this with a degree of promptitude and certainty which astonishes the patient. No type of throat, lung or bronchial disturbance can resist its curative influence. As a preventive it gives rise to none of this class of disorders, and breaks up at once the most violent paroxysms of coughing. All its ingredients are purely vegetable. Some of them are culled from sources entirely new to pharmacy, and all are possessed of properties of marvellous remedial efficacy. The unobtrusive HOLLOWAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM has been constantly receiving since its introduction to the public, from persons who have experienced or witnessed its wonderfully beneficial effects, fully justify the belief that it must, ere long, become the STANDARD AMERICAN SPECIFIC FOR ALL DISEASES OF THE RESPIRATORY ORGANS.
