Largest City Circulation.

MAJ. ENGELHARD.

The sad news of the death of this distinguished citizen of the State reached us on Saturday afternoon, only in time for the announcement of the distressing fact in that issue of our paper.

Major Engelhard was devoted to the interests of his adopted State, in war as in peace. He entered the military service in May, 1861, as Quarter-master of the 38d Regiment.

until the surrender at Appomattox Court House.

In March, 1866, having in December previous purchased an interest in the Wilmington Journal he came to this city to live and there resided until elected Secretary of State in 1876.

In the death of Maj. Engelhard the State of North Carolina has sustained a loss of one of her truest, most devoted, useful sons, and the city and people of Wilmington a warm and zealous friend.

His public service as an editor was marked by the dark and iniquitous days of reconstruction, when he was fearless in his attacks upon the Canby military administration and its vile political offsprings.

As a speaker before the people, he wielded a powerful influence, and in the last State campaign while bearing the nomination of his party for the office which he had filled so acceptably for the past two years, and in which he died, he polled the largest vote ever cast for a political candidate in North Carolina.

Rich in the maturity of thought, his judgment was most excellent and of a sterling cast, and gave to him a singular power and leadership over men's minds.

And now all that is mortal of Joseph A. Engelhard sleeps in the silent earth. This day the grave closes over him, and receives him into its inexorable embrace.

A COLORED PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

Mr. Bruce, the colored Senator from Mississippi, occupied the chair of Vice-President Wheeler, as President of the United States Senate, for a short time on Saturday last.

The New York Herald states that a wonderful change has been wrought in the value of real estate by the opening of the Elevated Railway on the east side of the city, from the Battery to the Harlem river, and the prospect of the extension of the Metropolitan line beyond Central Park on the west side.

have given an upward tendency to real estate, and an era of activity has already commenced. Block after block of houses in Harlem, that were to be let a year ago, are now occupied, and most of those which were built in the flush times, and sold under foreclosure, are well tenanted.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14, 1879. Yesterday there was read in Congress a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury showing that he expects the receipt of the Government for the next fiscal year to be about $258,000,000, and the expenditures including $41,000,000 under the late pension act, $285,000,000, leaving a deficiency of $27,000,000.

The House is making some progress on the Legislative appropriation bill. The portions on which prolonged debate is expected are not yet reached. When this bill is disposed of by the House the sundry civil bill will be taken up.

As a Senate amendment to the Post Office Appropriation bill there will be the proposition to give $150,000 per year to each of two So. American steamship lines for carrying the mail. One of the lines, it is proposed, shall leave New York and Norfolk, and the other New Orleans and Galveston.

In the social relations of life "He felt humanely, and he warmly loved." If in anything he was weak it was where he loved. No favor was too great, no service too arduous for him his soul held a friend.

And now all that is mortal of Joseph A. Engelhard sleeps in the silent earth. This day the grave closes over him, and receives him into its inexorable embrace.

But there is no doubt the Senate will sustain the proposition by a vote of two to one. Of its fate in the House there is doubt. The Senate spent yesterday in discussing the Suez Canal Bill, prohibiting any master of a vessel from bringing into this country more than ten Chinamen at any one time.

There is no more remarkable feature, in the progress of science, and no greater change in any professional practice, than is illustrated by the contrast of the medical system of to-day, and thirty years ago.

People who have been in the habit of using blue pill, calomel, and other drugs and cheap nostrums for constipation, should abandon such hurtful and useless medicines, and substitute for them this pleasant and gentle aperient, which not only produces the purgative effect naturally, but also strengthens while it regulates the bowels, stomach and liver.

Comprehensive.—A company of settlers, in naming their new town, called it Dictionary, because, as they said, "that's the only place where peace, prosperity and happiness are always found." WHAT $200 DID IN WALL STREET.

Aug. 16th, 1878, R. S. Webb, Phila., Pa., wrote Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, N. Y.: "Dear Sirs: Yours containing remittance for $1,113.25, as profits on my 200 shares, is received. Accept my thanks, for I am very well satisfied. As you request, you may use this letter. I would recommend every one who feels disposed to speculate to send for your circular."

American Wines.

But few persons are aware of the great amount of grapes raised in New Jersey. Alfred Speer is known to be the largest wine grower east of the Rocky Mountains.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men.

Those who'll read this rhyme and visit our store Will appreciate more than ever before That our muse do's not vainly aspire To climb Olympus, and ingloriously expire In the attempt, but keeps an even pace With the time, and always point to the place Where they're "blow" about one special thing, Which has, without doubt, the true business ring.

At first we put some poetry in our "ad," But when they saw this plan was not bad, They followed our lead, And when we tried prose They followed as nicely as if led by the nose. We next thought 'twould be well to try rhyme, When lo! they grasped the idea as so sublime! Though they have followed in all we have done, When this battle was well fought and won, Some will see that "extra percent." isn't "nonsense."
