VIEWS AND REVIEWS.

A Newfoundland dog at Ridgewood, N. J., seized a little child by its clothes and dragged it from the railroad track just in time to prevent it from being killed by a passing train.
James Daly of Marathon, Mich., told his wife to go out and cut some wood. She refused. He tried to whip her, but failed ignominiously. She threw him down, tied his hands behind him, and drove him before her to a Justice's court three miles away.
A negro washerwoman in Denver gave great satisfaction to those who employed her by making their linen peculiarly white and glossy. This was the result of putting arsenic in the starch, and the secret was discovered through the almost fatal illness of a girl into whose system the poison was absorbed.
It is one of the unwritten laws of Delaware that no lawyer shall be elected Governor. Their lawyers think should be sent to Congress. Some respectable farmer, merchant or doctor, is chosen to look after State affairs, and but once has the Governor aspired to the United States Senate. That aspirant, Dr. Saulsbury, failed. He was defeated by his brother, the present Senator.

When the issue of fractional currency was stopped it was estimated that the amount outstanding was $45,000,000. A commission appointed by Secretary Sherman estimated that of this amount about $8,000,000 would never be presented for redemption, having been destroyed or lost. It now appears that this estimate was too small. There is still outstanding about $16,000,000 fractional paper currency, of which amount about $2,000,000 is in 3 cent and 5-cent notes. It is now estimated that there will ultimately be redeemed only $4,000,000, leaving $12,000,000 as profit to the government.

Ira Cook was to have been married in Northampton, Mass., at the age of 66. He started for the town clerk's office to get a license, and doubtless was excited and nervous, for the fell while climbing over a fence, caught one foot between the pickets, and hung head downward until he was dead.

Sir John Astley, who made the wager that Weston could not walk 2,000 miles over English roads in a certain time sent an agent to watch for deception. Bell's Life contains a letter from this agent, who says that Weston was twice caught riding in a wagon. Sir John refuses to longer countenance the affair.

The standard for Royal Artillery gunners in the British army has been raised to the height of 5 feet 10 inches, which has had the intended effect of nearly stopping the supply of recruits in that line. The lowest infantry standard is 5 feet 6 inches, which shuts out a great number of applicants of 5 feet 5 inches or thereabouts, the average height of candidates.

The Chinese are superseding English sailors to a great extent on Australian vessels and steamers, being found to be cheaper, cleaner and more easily managed. In a recent case at Liverpool the captain of the English vessel Queen Victoria explained for the presence of an exclusively Malay crew by saying that all the available English sailors at Singapore were so drunk that he could not take them.

The Pullman car people are building a special car for a party of Englishmen who propose a hunting excursion as far West as they can go. The car contains bedrooms, kitchens, diningroom and game compartments, and will cost $15,000. The suggestion of the New York Mail that a great deal of game could be bought for that sum seems uncalled for.

The Washington Star says that Senator Shields, of Missouri, drew his pay and mileage—some $400—on Saturday and laid it on his desk, leaving it there when he left the chamber. The money was cared for by a page who took charge of it until the owner turned up. The Senator did not know of his loss until his attention was called to it, and then he was loath to believe it.

The French Government has issued a decree making the Marseillaise hymn the national anthem. During the reign of Louis Napoleon it was not permitted to sing this stirring hymn. An exception was made, however, in allowing the French soldiers to sing it just before storming the Malakoff, but it was considered too stimulating a melody for the ordinary uses of the second Empire.

NOMINATING CONVENTIONS VS THE CONSTITUTION.

In the published proceedings of the Senate of North Carolina at its session on Tuesday last, the "Salaries and Fees Bill" being then under discussion, the following remarkable paragraph appears:
Mr. Graham, of Lincoln, addressed the Senate in a speech of some length. During the course of his remarks the question was put by Mr. Davidson, of Buncombe, "Does the reduction proposed take place at once?" Mr. Graham's reply was characteristic and to the point—"As to fees and abolition of clerks hire, &c., it would take effect from the passage of the bill, but as to Salaries of the higher officials I cannot answer as a question of law, but as a matter of fact, those who do not accept the situation at once, might as well save their traveling expenses to the next "Nominating Convention."

As to the "question of law" which Mr. Graham cannot answer, the Constitution of the State is not so niggard of information, and in its supreme utterance confounds the folly of our Legislative champions of two cent retrenchment and reform.

Sec. 15 of Article III, which treats of the Executive Department, is as follows: "The officers mentioned in this Article shall, at stated periods, receive for their services a compensation to be established by law, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the time for which they shall have been elected, and the said officers shall receive no other emolument or allowance whatever."

And in Sec. 18, Article IV, relating to the Judicial Department, it declares that "The General Assembly shall prescribe and regulate the fees, salaries and emoluments of all officers provided for in this Article; but the salaries of the Judges shall not be diminished during their continuance in office."

Here then is the "question of law," established beyond peradventure of misconception by the organic instrument itself, and placed beyond the power of this Legislature to affect. The clause of the two vital sections reproduced here, which we have taken the liberty to italicize, seems to us to proclaim at the very first glance the utter absurdity of that species of niggardly retrenchment upon which the present Legislature has wasted almost its entire session. The question as to a reduction of the salaries of our Judges, the Constitution plainly and implicitly forbids. Its utterances have the same force as to the officers of the Executive Department, except, perhaps, the Governor and Secretary of State, who were not elected to these positions, but who are filling unexpired terms, being selected thereto in the method prescribed by law, and stand exactly in the same position to the Constitution as their predecessors would have stood. Yet even granting that the fact of non-election may prescribe them from the benefits of the section of the constitution we have quoted, still the spirit of that instrument, as set forth in the Declaration of Rights, will protect them in the contract into which they have entered with the State. The "Salaries and Fees Bill" of the present Legislature is not yet a law. These officers have qualified to fill the unexpired terms of their predecessors, and have contracted and taken solemn obligations to perform their duties, for and in consideration of which the State on its part contracts to allow them the compensation of their predecessors in office—certain salaries and emoluments fixed by law. In the enjoyment of this compensation the Constitution declares their predecessors (whose unexpired terms they have assumed) should not be disturbed during the time for which they were elected. It has all the effect, force and form of a contract sanctioned by the organic law and entered upon before the passage of any mere Legislative bill in attempted disturbance of compensation. Sec. 32 of the Declaration of Rights declares against ex post facto laws as to criminal offences as "oppressive unjust and incompatible with liberty," and we can but believe that so retrospective a law so plainly effecting the validity of a civil contract comes within the same prohibitory spirit of the Constitution.

Could Mr. Graham have been ignorant of the Constitution of his State when he declared his inability to answer as to "the question of law?" If not—and we cannot believe he could have been so woefully ignorant—then what did he mean by his statement "as a matter of fact?" Does he pretend to say that we have a set of men now occupying our Executive and Judicial offices—our chosen standard bearers in the last gloriously fought campaign, who obtained for us so decided a victory against the combined forces of Radicalism and Independentism—does he pretend to say, we ask, that those men know their rights under the Constitution, and will not dare assert them, even in opposition to Legislative encroachment and when the party lash is applied, in the craven fear of "Nominating Conventions?" We know we have fallen upon evil times—it is a most humiliating evidence when a Senator rises in his seat and threatens the highest Executive officers with the bugbear of "Nominating Conventions"—but God save us if the Democratic party has produced such coward offspring as to be appalled by it! We do not arraign Mr. Graham's democracy, nor would we imply a doubt of our own; but we do most utterly and emphatically repudiate any such interpretation of pure Democratic freedom. Probably Mr. Graham is an advocate of the "higher law" of "nominating conventions" as against the Constitution only over "higher officers," but true Democracy advocates one law for both high and low, and is as comprehensive as the universe. It would be well for North Carolina if the members of her Legislature did not so frequently substitute the awe of "nominating conventions" for the approving conscience of the public good; or better still, if this present body had adjourned. In a pecuniary point of view, the State is so much the worse for the mileage and per diem paid them, for they have done literally nothing towards supplying her revenue or touching the grave question of her public debt in any form. And in a political aspect, they have worked harm to the Democratic party, upon which they should have reflected honor and not reproach.

We reserve to ourselves the liberty of other remarks pending adjournment.

MOONSHINE

It affords us much pleasure to announce that "Baba Keusing Bynanji Jammaia Mounxan" has been made companion of the Order of the Indian Empire. Some of our readers may have thought Bab was dead.—Norristown Herald.

"I wish you would give me that gold ring on your finger," said a village dandy to a country girl, "for it resembles the duration of my love for you; and has no end." "Excuse me, sir," she said, "I choose to keep it, for 'it is like my love for you; it has no beginning."

The Rochester Sunday Herald has started a new arithmetic. "Ten cents," it says, "make one cent, ten dimes make one jolly, ten dollars make one tight, ten thousand dollars make one respectable, and ten millions make one great and good." The Herald is so confident that we suspect it of having spent $10.—Buffalo Express.

"Concerning a drollery of President Lincoln's, this story is told by a correspondent of the Journal at Syracuse: 'During the rebellion, an Austrian count applied to President Lincoln for a position in the army. Being introduced by the Austrian minister, he needed, of course, no further recommendation but, as if fearing that his importance might not be duly appreciated, he proceeded to explain that he was a count; that his family were ancient and respectable; when Lincoln with a merry twinkle of his eye, tapping the aristocratic lover of titles on the shoulder, in a fatherly way, as if the man had confessed some wrong, interrupted in a soothing tone. 'Never mind; you shall be treated with just as much consideration for all that!'

By boxing a hole through a silver dollar and trying to tag a Connecticut man sent through the mail for a cent, whereas if he had put it in an envelope it would have cost him three cents. No one but a New Englander would have thought of such a device, and it is this prompt grappling with the situation that gives New England its mighty influence upon the world.—Danbury News.

Oh, king of the fiddle, Wilhelm!
If truly you love me, just tell me;
Just answer my sigh
By the glance of your eye,
Be honest, and don't try to sell me.
With rapture your music did thrill me,
With pleasure supreme it did fill me,
And if I could believe
That you meant to deceive—
Wilhelm, I think it would kill me.

Nerve Inquietude and its Remedy.
Restless nerves, at least those that are constantly so, are weak ones as well. The true way to tranquilize them thoroughly is to strengthen them. It may be, nay it very often is necessary to have recourse to a sedative or even an opiate, in dangerous cases of nervous inquietude, but the continued use of such unnatural palliatives, as greatly to be deprecated, though not, in a restricted sense, a specific for nervousness. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is eminently calculated to allay and eventually overcome it, a fact which the recorded experience of many goes to substantiate. This estimable tonic, by promoting digestion, assimilation and secretion, touches the three key notes upon which the harmony of all the bodily organs depends, and the result is that fresh stores of vitality are diffused through the system, of which the nerves receive their due apportionment, and grow tranquil as they gather strength.

The important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it.
If the liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Pains
in the back, and general debility follow.
MERRILL'S LIVER, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will approach what is to be observed in the first symptoms of dyspepsia. The cure of all bilious diseases and liver complications is made certain by taking LIVER in according with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and one remaining aives from the liver can exist in a fair trial given.

illnesses that arise from poison in the blood.
Not the case of Scrophulous, Syphilis, White and the diseases it produces are worse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be.

The only safe and certain cure for Scrophulous Disease is the only medicine upon which a hope of recovery from Scrophulous, Syphilis and
