Colds and Their Consequences—Some Valuable and Practical Suggestions.

A distinguished physician of New York, in a recent discourse to young men on the subject of colds and their consequences, threw out some very practical and valuable suggestions, which are applicable everywhere and to all people. Among other things he said, "If you start to walk home from a down town office, and carry your overcoat on your arm because the walking makes you feel warm, you are liable to take cold. Therefore don't do it. If you should take the same walk after eating a hearty dinner, your full stomach would be a protection to you, but even then my advice would be, don't take the risk."

A person properly clothed may walk in a strong wind for a long time without taking cold, but if he sits in a room where there is a slight draught, he may take a severe cold in a very few minutes. Therefore don't sit in a room where there is a draught.

Unless you are affected by peculiar nervous conditions, you should take a cold sponge bath in the morning, and not wash yourself in warm water. Plunge baths in cold water are not recommended, neither is it necessary to apply the sponge all over the body. Occasional Turkish baths are good, but those who have not taken them should be advised by a physician before trying them.

Warm mufflers worn about the neck do not protect you against taking cold, but on the contrary render you extremely liable to take colds soon as you take them off. They make the throat tender. Ladies ought to wear warmer flannels, underclothing than they now do if one may judge from the article one sees hanging in the show windows of the shops. People take cold from inhaling cold air through their mouth often, perhaps, than by any other way.

Ladies dress themselves up in heavy furs, go riding in their carriages, and when they get home wonder how they got that cold. It was by talking in the cold open air and thus exposing the mucous membranes of the throat. The best protection under such circumstances was to keep the mouth shut.

If people must keep their mouths open in a chilly atmosphere, they ought to wear a filter.

Above all be careful with your feet in cold damp weather. Have thick soles on your shoes, and if caught out in the rain which lasts so long as to wet through your shoes despite the thick soles, put on dry stockings as soon as you get home. But in cold, wet, slushy weather don't be caught out without overshoes. Rubbers are unhealthy, unless care is taken to remove them as soon as you get under shelter. They arrest all evaporation through the pores of the leather. Cork soles are a good invention.

When you go into the house of your office after being out in the cold, don't go at once and stick yourself by the register, but take off your coat, walk up and down the room a little and get warm gradually. Warming yourself up over a register just before going out into the cold is one of the worst things you can do. Never take a hot toddy to warm yourself up unless you are at home and don't expect to go out of the house again till the following morning. In short make some use of your common sense and thus emulate the lower animals.

Photographic View of Market Street

We saw this morning, in Mr. C. W. Yates' bookstore, a photograph of Market street, from the Empire House down, on the occasion of Professor Dare's performing his daring feat of walking the tight rope. The view embraces the Professor while he was in the act of walking the rope, and the immense crowd of people who witnessed the wonderful performance. Street cars and other vehicles, buggies, drays and so forth, are pictured, and taken altogether, it has a sort of Broadway appearance. It is a good picture to send to absent friends who have not enjoyed a drink of Wilmington Rock Spring water for several years.

Flags are flying to-day from the masts-heads of many of the vessels in port, and from some of the offices in honor of Washington's birthday.

We are requested to call the attention of the proper authorities to the condition of the sidewalk on the South side of Chestnut street, between Front and Water streets. It is a breakneck place on a dark night.

The Dehydrated Coconut Company.

A week or two ago we published an article relative to this company, warning the colored people against it as it had been proven by investigation to be a fraud. Our facts were taken from the New York Herald, which published a report from Norwich, Conn., at which place the case had got into the courts. We now publish herewith, at the request of several respectable and reliable colored citizens, the following from the Co-operator, published at Boston in the interests of the Coconut Company which shows the acquittal of the defendant in the case:

AN HONORABLE ACQUITTAL.

Below will be found the remarks of Judge Kellogg, in his discharge of the business manager of the Co-operator, of charges alleged against him by one T. Bos. Purdy.

The extract is taken from the Norwich Bulletin of the 6th inst., and gives conclusive proof that the charges were groundless, and that an injustice, prompted through ignorance, malice and prejudice, under cover of law, had been perpetrated.

Judge Kellogg, in giving his decision, said that he "was impressed with the belief that Ashbourne was honest in his conviction that the company he represented was a genuine enterprise, and that no fraud had been intended." The judge concluded with words of advice, and then honorably discharged Mr Ashbourne, who was surrounded by his friends and congratulated on his release. Many of the citizens of Norwich, both white and colored, desired Mr Ashbourne to consent to lecture before he left the city, but prior engagements would not permit him to comply. After filing his engagements at other places he will return to Norwich and gratify the wishes of his friends.

As the result of one hour's sport on the pond, on the 20th inst., Uncle Jake Corbett, as he is familiarly called, shot sixteen wild ducks and caught thirteen snappers of fish.

Election of Field Officers—Change of Place.

Captain Walter Coney, Commander of the Wilmington Light Infantry Company received a dispatch from Brigadier-General M. P. Taylor, dated at Fayetteville this afternoon, informing him that the place of holding the election for Field Officers of the Second Regiment of North Carolina State Guard, has been changed from Wadesboro as originally ordered, to Wilmington—the election to be held on Tuesday the 25th inst.

It is not True

That one of the salesmen for Mr. F. A. Newbury has been worked to death, but it is true that they are all kept so busy from morning until night in accommodating the crowds of customers who visit the establishment daily, that they all get very tired before closing-up time. But they retire to rest happy in the thought that have labored earnestly in the cause of hungry humanity, and the serene sleep of satisfied conscience fully restores and fits them for the labors of another day.

An Interesting Subject—The Lecture on Tuesday Night.

The last of the series of lectures by Colonel Duncan K. McRae under the auspices of the Library Association will be delivered in the Opera House on Tuesday night, the 25th inst., upon the universally interesting theme of Ireland—the home and country of the immortal Robert Emmett—the hero and patriot who died that his country might live, but whose, alas! like the blood of many other eminent patriots of latter day times was sacrificed to no purpose, except that the heroic deeds and renown of the slain will live in song and story for all time to come.

To those who have heard Col. McRae from the forum we have nothing to say, but to those who have not listened to this eloquent gentleman on any previous occasion we have only to remark, that if they miss this last opportunity of hearing this great Carolinian in what his friends consider the very finest production of all of his many able speeches and lectures, it may be a source of regret to them for a long time to come.

The Address at Tiltston Upper Room.

In accordance with previous announcement, Prof. J. J. Ladd, Superintendent of the University State Normal School, delivered an address before the Cape Fear Teachers' Association. The meeting was called to order by J. N. Hinton, Esq., President of the Cape Fear Association, who read a letter from Prof. G. T. Winston, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the State Teachers' Association, authorizing the formation of an Association in this county.

The address of Prof. Ladd was an able and exhaustive discussion of the Normal School system, and was listened to with profound attention, interest and instruction by a large, intelligent and refined audience. Forty teachers were present, aside from the large assembly of parents and others interested in the cause of education.

We regret that our space will not allow a more extended notice of the proceedings, as they were very interesting.

Criminal Court.

His Honor Judge Meares presiding.
His Honor heard argument of counsel this morning in favor of a motion for a new trial in the case of Edward Thomas, colored, convicted of wilful perjury. Jno. L. Holmes, Esq., appeared for the defense and Solicitor Moore represented the State. After argument on both sides the court granted the motion, where upon the Solicitor appealed to the Supreme Court.

State vs. James Heaton, in nine cases for embezzlement, was continued until the next term and defendant recognized to appear at that time.

State vs. James Heaton, charged with an affray, found guilty and fined one penny and costs.

In the case of Jacob Freeman for killing live stock, the defendant was granted further time to pay the costs. The Court adjourned at 2 o'clock to meet on Monday morning at 11 o'clock when motions for new trials will be heard by His Honor. It may be well to state that all of the jury cases have been disposed of and witnesses discharged, consequently the continuation of the term involves no expense to the county.

The steam yacht, Passport is lying up to-day.

DIED.

PIERCE—At Burgaw, Pender county, N. C., on the 20th inst., after a short but painful illness, MRS. SUSAN C. PIERCE, wife of John E. Pierce, Esq., in the 18th year of her age.

With scarce a year warning and just in the bloom of womanhood, she was called away. A gentle and forbearing sister, a dutiful mother, a kind and affectionate wife she goes to her rest leaving behind her two brothers, a mother and a husband, with a large number of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. While she is resting, sweetly resting, under the shade of the trees beyond the river, may God comfort those who mourn on account of her death. M. F. M.
