WILMINGTON, N. C. Care and the second second MONDAY, JULY 28, 18 9.

There have been several new cases o yellow fever in New Yorks

It is new said that Mr. Blaine nds the political situation so unsatisfactory in his own State (Maine,) that he feels compelled to decline all invitations to go to Ohio to help along the Foster boom during the campaign. As Conkling has also declined, it would appear that Foster will be compelled to fight the battle alone.

As an evidence that better times ar coming, we notice that the price of real estate in New York and vicinity has adwanced to nearly or quite the price at which it was held before the panic. Farming lands in the immediate neighborhood of the city are selling at $20,000 per acre.

THE FIFTH N. C. AT WIL. LIAMSBURG.

Col. Duncan K. McRae, the gallant commander of the Fifth N. C. Infantry, of Early's Brigade, has written a lengthy communication to the Southorn Historical Society papers, which is published in the August number of this excellent periodical, in which he disposes most effectually, if his statements are correct, and we doubt not they are, of Col. Bratton's account of the battle of Williamsbnrg, and of the part which the said Col. Bratton, of the Sixth S. C. Jufaniry, alleges the Sixth S. C, bore in that days doiugs, as also the part which Col. McRae's gallant Fifth Regiment bore on that occa- ion.

Col. Bratton, in his communication, speaks of a regiment commanded by Lieut. Col. Early. Col. McRae, in his communication, states that there was no regiment or brigade on the field of Williamsburg commanded by Lt. Col. Early, and furthermore states there was no such officer as Lt. Col. Early. Col. McRae quotes from Col. Bratton's paper in which he states that he met Gen. Early near a certain redoubt and asked that his regiment, the Sixth S. C., "be permitted to take part in the charge." Col. McRae, in his article, states that General Early was not, at that time, on the field, and that he, Col. McRae, who was then in command of the brigade, had ordered the Twenty-Fourth Virginia regiment to that charge on the left. We wish that our space permitted, we would like to make copious extracts from this ab'y written paper and noble vindication of a gallant regiment by our talented townsman ; although it never once entered our mind before Col. Bratton's communication was published, that the glorious Fifth N. C. Infantry needed any vindication, especially for its conduct at Williamsburg, for we well recollect that early in the war, the gallant conduct of this same Fifth North Carolina regiment at Williamsburg, and the terrible slaughter it sufferred there, made a lasting impression upon our young Confederate mind at the time, and inspired us with a great admiration for 'the men and officers of that regiment, whom we regarded in the light of Spartan beroes. The casualties of the 5th N. C. in this battle, Col. McRae states, were 290 killed and wounded out of 400 rank and file, and twenty commissioned officers killed and wounded out of twenty-four. We know of but two other regiments in the whole service who sufferred in like comparison with this: one was the 26th N. C. Jufantry, Vance's old regiment, courmanded by Col. Harry Burgwin, which on the first days fight at Gettysburg went into battle with 900 rank and file, and at the close; of the engagement that evening, came out with but little over 100 men for duty-the balance being killed and wounded-and the 3d N. C. Infantry, Major Wm 1M. Parsley, (afterwards Lieut. Col. Parsley) commanding, which went into battle on it, and I thought I would be a fool at Gettysburg on the second day of once more. I tried it, but my folly prov-Juty 1863 with near 300 muskets and ed to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, about 14 officers, and came out after the last charge in which they participated, on lars. Such felly pays. H. W., Detroit, the 3d of Ju'y, with scarcely 20 men left, Mich. officers and all. The balance were lying on the field or in the hospital, there were no prisoners. Such heroic deeds, where

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25, 1879. Secretary Sherman, who has been on all ides of the financial question, and who lemonstrated, to his own satisfaction, a few years since, that the gold standard meant robbery of the people and general distress, is now much sought after as a political sp aker, and tells wherever he oes the beauties of what he once con lemned. The distress he prophesied has come upon the country, whether from the cause he gave or other caus s. This is especially true in Maine, where the Secretary is now speaking, There is in that State a paralysis of busiess and the laborers were without work. Democrats in Maine could not better answer the Sherman of 1879 than by quoting the Sherman of 1868 and 1870

General Ewing was in this city up to a few days since, and spoke with great confidence of the result in Ohio. Senator Blaine, who was down for severals peeches there, and who has a great deal of popularity in that State, will be unable to leave Maine. The Republicans of his own State need him.

If there, was dauger that any of the rogues who helped Hayes to Steal into the White House would go unrewarded it was not because he was unwilling to reward them but because there were not offices enough. Mr Stoughton, Minister to Russia, has set a good example to his pals, and aided Mr. Hayes, by resigning T us the Russian Mission can be made doubly useful in paying the election debt incurred in Louisiana; South Carolina and Florida.

I referred last week to the meeting early in August at Saratoga of the American Banker's Association. One pertion of the proceedings will be a disscussion of tle subject of the taxes, F deral and local, which are levied upon the National Banks. The association claims that the sum of $15,000,000 is annually paid by these bauks in the form of taxes, six-and-one-half millions going to the General Government. So vast a proportion of the business of the country is transacted through the National Banks, and, despite all opposition, they seem to be firmly fixed and so certain to continues that it will be beneficial to all of us to know the merits and demerits of the, system. Discussion will° do good, and good only.
