The Charleston News says: A gentleman who has just returned from a tour. around the sea islands reports the crop of sea island cotton as very promising although about three weeks behind last year's crop. The planters were very hopeful until about a week ago, when the caterpillars began to appear very generally. They hope, however, with the assistance of Paris green, to pull through the season and to realize a full yield.

The irrepressible Mrs. Gaines, having noticed in the New Orleans Picoyune. the other day, that there was a balance in the City Treasury of $217,636.82 stepped around to the office to draw it out as a part payment on her claim. She insisted that she was fairly entitled to the money, but in the absence of an appropriati n to that effect t'e official in charge demurred to honoring her check.

Senator Coukling is not popular in pentup Utica, where he resides, and a letter from there says the feeling against him has been growing in bitterness since his refusal to attend his daughter's wedding. Shortly after the adjournment of the session he went to Utica, and, although his daughter and son-in-law live on the same st eet with him, distant only two blocks, Conkling has not called on his child, neither has he recognized h s son-in-law.

A Miss Roche, young, pretty and richly dr. ssed, and adorned with diamonds, sprang overboard last Saturday afternoon, from the Steamer Bristol, en route from New York for Providence, and was drowned. The accident happened about fifteen miles above the city, and in the broad daylight, and was withessed by a number of persons who saw her floating on the water after she fell, and yet no effort was made to save her, and not even a boat was lowered Had this occurred in the South, what a splendid companion-piece it might have made to the Sprague-Conkling scandal.

when a rejoiceing is proposed, Mr. Nutt will seem to carry with it. We are sorry that it has appeared, as we cannot believe there is any foundation for fears as to the result. It is, we trust, merely an excess of caution which has thus seemed to warp Mr. Nutt's usually excellent judgment. We have almost this moment, as it were, passed through a most terrific height it has gained in breadth of base and solidity of structure. Had Mr. Nutt waited to receive and to digest the report made by Mr. VanBokkelen, the President of the Chamber of Commerce who visited the works yesterday and who gives us so encouraging a report of their condition, he would probably have withheld his communication.

But ye', we hope that the proposed celebration may be had. It is looked for in other parts of the State and has even been spoken of beyond the Blue Ridge. During a recent visit to they West, made by the Editor of the REVIEW this subject was broached repeatedand we have been asly sured by preminent and representative men, that all sections of the State would unite w th us in rejoicing over this auspi. clous result of long years of labor and hope. Let the ball be once put in motion and we know that it will soon assume large proportions. We believe that at a comparatively short notice the largest crowd of visitors ever gathered at any one time at any one place in North Carolina, could be assembled here to celebrate with us the assured success of one of the mightiest engineering feats of the age.

THE STORM AT BEAUFORT.

The gale seems to have raged with fearful violence on Sunday night at Beaufort. There are no press dispatches relative to the affair and the only information thus far is through a private dispatch received here yesterday. The Atlantic Hotel, it so ms, was washed out to sea with nearly all its contents, with the exception of its inhabitants who all managed to escape, but with the loss of their effects. How far the hotel was carried to sea remains to be seen, but the structure was probably broken to pieces before it crossed the bar. The wind was from the West and as the hotel, which stood on pilings, with the water flowing freely under it on high tide, stood directly facing the inlet, all things seemed planned for a sail. This is the second time that a storm disaster has befallen this hotel.

THE PRESS CONVENTION.

The annual frolic of the newspaper men in this State, which was to have with the gin, ginnery, press, balers, etc. and the conversion of cotton picked during taken place this year at the Atlantic Hotel in Beaufert, will not, perforce of cirthe day into thread by night.
