These vessels are all coming in balast. The chartered wheat fleet in port numbers 62,744 tons, against 34, 279 at this time last year. In addinos to the scarcity of tourage, ballots are scarce, and more than a dezen ships are now lying in the stream loaded with wheat ready to clear, waiting for hands. The total toninge now bound for this port is 145,958 as against 125,026 tons a this time in 1878. Advices from Portland report a similar state of affairs there.

The Ship of the Future.

After pointing out the great faults end failures of the present style of ocean vessels, a writer in the American will be so well balanced that if the rudder were lost or disabled, the vesrel could be guided on her course by her sails. The centre effort of sails and of gravity of vessel will be adjustable, so as to harmonize with the gripping influences of the line of flotation. The ships in the future will be profitable, for they will be built for and under a specific service, on scientific principles; they will be designed, built, loaded and navigated, sas they have never been, with direct reference | Farmville Insurance and Banking Company. to their equilibrium of stability, the lives of those on board. The rating characterization of vessels will then be determined by an internationa, or independent, board; the British Lloyds will have passed away, only to be redread Bollars, with interest thereon from

A Princely Mesalliance.

The princely family of Reuse, only two branches of which reserve their sovereign rights, had the doubtful honor of witnessing the marriage of one of their race with Mile Clotilde Loisset, a circus rider well known in Germany and Belgium, for her equestrian feats and the grace of her performances. The young couple, who contracted their alliance on the island of Heligoland, under British rule, are now spending their honeymoon at newly married Prince, who, like all the male members of his house, bears the baptismal name of Henry, and can be distinguished from his numerous brothers and cousins only by the numformerly a lieutenant in the 5th Regihabits. Notwithstanding his youth, Prince Henry XX has been the subject of many scandalous stories, and Drays, Harness, &c. the perpetrator of more than one reckless act, which on others but him would have reflected lasting shame and dishonor, Garrisoned some years ago in Frankfort-on-the Maine, Prices was a constant frequenter of the then existing gambling hells of the neighboring Hombourgs Wiesbaden and Baden Baden, at which, and Upright, all strictly start class, sold a squandered as rapidly and foolishly as they were won. On his retirement from the army, necessitated by his inability to thret the claims of his creditors, the courts, confirming his bankruptcy placed nim under the care of an official guardian, from whom he soon managed to free himseif. He stayed in Berlin last winter, living on the proceeds of a small income generously granted him by his family. He might often be seen in the circus or
