or internal use every one or two hours Speer's P. J. or Pedro J. Brandy. as follows: Natr, benzoic, pur. 50 solv. in sa

evr. cort. aur. 10 0.

For children from one to three years d he prescribed it from seven to tle. eight grammes for 100 grammes of listilled witer, with same syrup; for children from three to seven years old e prescribed ten to fifteen grammes, and for grown persons from fifteen to .co. (wenty-five grammes for each 100 grammes.

Besides this, he uses also, with great -ucces, the instiff tion on the diphtherial membrane through a glass tube in mous cases every three hours, in ight cases three times a day of the natr. bei z ic pulver. For grown people he prescribes for gargling a dilut on of ten grammes of this pulver for 200 grammes of water.

The effect of the remedy is rapid. after twenty four or thirty-six hours the feverish symptoms disappear completely and the temperature and pulse become normal. This remedy was also used with the same success by Dr Braham Braum and Prot Klebs, in Prague; br Senator, in Cassel, and several others in Russia and Germany.

Hoping that the publication, through your widely-spread paper, will prove bene ficial in the United States, I remain, yours very truly, N. SHISHKIN,
