Advice to Boys.

Boys, to be popular and successful as you go through this wicked world, you should have some distinguishing traits in your character. The appended rules from the Boston Saturday Evening Express, we would recommend. Follow them and you'll go through as slick as greased light-

Exaggerate everything; always point to another; never fail to betray confidence; don't be caught in respectable company; always leave home with an unkind word; always laugh heartily at the misfortunes of others; neglect to call on your friends; give promises that you cannot fulfil; don't be too punctual with your appointments; crow the loudest over your own performalce; never send a present except you are sure of a bigger one in return; always make yourself the hero of your own story; always notice deformities in others; be careful never to be too polite.

Not Exactly a Christmas Gif:

Mr. J. G. Oldenbuttle, who resides at the corner of Tenth and Market streets. was this morning the recipient of what some people in this world would probawas presented in a proper and legitimate way-and would in all probability thank the Lord besides, for being so gracious and good to them as to bless their union with an heir and son. But it so happens that Mr. Oldenbuttle who is, a man of family, has enough of his own little responsibilities at home to take care of, con sequently he did not feel very much delighted this morning, at about past 6 o'clock, upon going out upen his porch he discovered what upon examination proved to be a new-born babe-a little boy baby-wrapped in swaddling clethes, and laid at the door of his residence above mentiored.

Two men and a woman were seen by some parties in the neighborhood to leave Mr. Oldenbuttel's porch at about 6 o'clock this morning but it was not quite light enough at that hour, they assert, to discover who the parties were, and whether they were white or black. The child is a white child and only four hours old so it is said, when found as above stated Here is a chance for the philanthropists.

We see no reason why, in the near future, Wilmington should not be a large tobacco market and manufacturing centre. To secure this it needs buyers and fectories and these will readily stimulate the production of the weed in such recs tion, of country as are capable of producing it and may be directly tributary to our city. Messrs Brunhild & Bro. that the attendance on the occasion will and Mr Meadows are the pioneers in this enterprise. A few short months ago they embarked in the business here, erected their factory and put their hands at work and now it is with much satisfection that they see their brands of tobacco assume a commercial position which ranks them with the best. Their smoking tobacco we can in cspecial, pronounce equal to the best of the celebrated Durham brands. and we are glad to learn that the orders are pouring in fer it so rapidly of late that the productive capacity of the factory will have to be enlarged at an early day Meat Cutters and Stuffers, Guns, Grind
