Heavy Seas On.
Captain Johnnie Harper, of the steamer Passport, reports a pretty severe gale at Smithville when he left there this morning. The waves were running nearly as high in the channel inside, as the sea outside of the bar. Captain H. lost his breakfast this morning, too, by the way, we hear, owing to the heavy sea on, but not in the usual way that up-country excursionists do when they go down to the sea in ships. Not being prepared we suppose at the time for the sudden lurch of the steamer, the breakfast plates and dishes left the table pretty much after the same manner that our Point Caswell friends experienced on their recent trip out on the briny deep.

Bed-Bugs, Roaches.
Rats, mice, ants, flies, vermin, mosquitoes, insects, &c., cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c. boxes at druggists.

Magistrate's Court.

William White, colored, was arraigned before Justice McQuigg to-day upon three charges of assault and battery and then arrested upon a peace warrant sworn out by his wife, Priscilla White. Every case was decided against the defendant and in default of payment of costs and in failure to give bond to keep the peace, the said William was committed to the tender mercies of the Sheriff Justice Mills had one case of assault and battery this morning, which was continued until next week, and some eight or ten cases of delinquents on the schedule B tax listing.

A safe and sure means of restoring the youthful color of the hair is furnished by Parker's Hair Balsam, which is deservedly popular from its superior cleanliness.

Fort Fisher Again.

We clip the following from the Raleigh Farmer and Mechanic. It is interesting. It contradicts very plainly two of Gen. Bragg's assertions, derived by the way, from Federal stragglers and Federal reports. It goes to prove that the enemy did not enter the Fort without resistance and that the defence was one of the most gallant on record in this or any other era of the world's history. The following is the article alluded to. It is an official report, written at the time by one who was present and who participated in the engagement and who was, furthermore, near Gen. Whiting during the fight:

Hq's. 3d MILITARY DISTRICT,
January 17, 1865.

To Lieut-Col. Anderson, A. A. G.:

On the morning of the 13th inst., at about 3 o'clock, the enemy opened on the fort with the Ironsides, and double and three single turreted monitors, concentrating their whole fire on the land face, keeping up a regular fire upon it till 5 p. m. At this hour three frigates, Colorado, Minnesota and Wabash (as supposed) came into action, and continued a terrific fire till 6 o'clock p. m. Col. Lamb, anticipating an assault, made repeated application to Major-General Whiting for reinforcements. The only forces available were those of the navy, which were willingly furnished by Captain Chapman, Confederate States navy. Six companies were brought from the forts below at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 14th instant. During the night the gunners and troops of the garrison were manning the palisades, a general attack being anticipated—our guns keeping up a fire, covering the land approaches, at intervals during the entire night. Major-General Whiting, accompanied by myself, was also on the works and beach the greater portion of the night, keeping watch on the enemy's movements.

On the morning of the 14th instant the enemy again opened on the land face, the rest of the fleet, seventy two in all, forming in two lines of battle. Fifteen of these moved into position and joined in the action, keeping up a terrific fire during the whole day and succeeding night, dismantling every gun on the land face, one eight inch Columbiad alone excepted. Our guns replied with great accuracy, but with little effect, the wooden vessels remaining out of range, and our shot making but slight impression on the ironclads, as far as we could judge, the gunners displaying the greatest gallantry under the most terrific fire.

The enemy had also advanced a line of sharpshooters, who had sunk rifle pits, and annoyed the men serving the guns by keeping up a constant fire. The dismounted guns could not be remounted during the night, nor could the works be repaired, owing to the constant and heavy firing kept up by the enemy's fleet during the entire night. A telegram having been received from the commanding General that Brigadier-General Hagood's brigade had been sent to reinforce us, I was ordered to await their arrival at Fort Buchanan. About 4:30 on the 15th the first of these regiments, the Twenty-first, arrived, and shortly afterwards the Twenty-fifth, under command of Captains Dubose and Carson respectively. The Twenty-first regiment I at once moved up to Fort Fisher. The other was moved to the rear of the Mound Battery for shelter from the enemy's fire, which at the time was awful. It moved up to Fort Fisher later in the day.

About fifty-two ships having joined the monitors at 8 o'clock, they concentrated their fire without any cessation, at intervals, on different portions of the works. During the morning of the 15th and the preceding night the enemy landed the assaulting column supposed [and as confirmed by a prisoner] to number 10,000 men. These were formed in three lines across the neck of land covered by a heavy line of skirmishers, about 400 yards in front of the main body, and at a distance of about 1,000 yards from the fort. On this force we brought to bear our one available gun and three mortars which had been mounted during the night, and these repeatedly broke their line and temporarily checked the advance.

As the attacking column advanced a part of the fleet moved in a single line, in succession, ahead of the skirmish line, thus enfilading the entire land face of the work, whilst the remainder of the fleet in their original position kept up a murderous fire on nearly every part of the fort.

Under cover of the dense smoke a brigade was moved from the enemy's left along the beach, the tide being low, and succeeded in getting within the palisade line before they were seen, but were instantly repulsed twice and driven from their position with heavy loss. Corresponding with the movement a heavy force of the enemy under cover of the woods moved upon our left to get possession of the first gun chamber. Lieut. Latham, of Capt. Adams' Light Battery, was stationed with two guns at a point commanding the casemate leading to the palisade line, (the palisade itself having been destroyed by the enemy's fire), with orders to run his guns into position as soon as the fire of the fleet had slackened. What occurred at that period on the left of the line I am unable to state, being myself engaged on the right, and the first intimation I had of the enemy's approach was by seeing their flag planted on the third traverse. As soon as discovered all the available force was led to repulse this attack by Major-General Whiting in person, but it failed in dislodging the enemy from the position occupied, and at this point I have, with much regret, to state Major-General Whiting was seriously wounded and was carried from the field. Major Hill, chief of the General's staff, had dispatched couriers to Battery Buchanan to bring up the three remaining regiments of Hagood's Brigade, which had been ordered to remain there till sent for (the fire from the fleet rendering it impossible for any troops to move), when it was discovered that this force had never reached Buchanan, a circumstance much indeed to be regretted. I was then ordered by Major-General Whiting to communicate with the general commanding, which I immediately attempted to do, as he is aware.

I have also to add that the garrison, though in good heart, were sadly worn out by the hard work they were called upon to perform by day and night, but that a feeling of much disappointment existed; that the long hoped for co-operation from the forces outside the fort, which they expected would have been rendered, failed them in the hour of need.

Cotten, of Tarboro, is in the city this week, and while he reports the crops severely injured in Edgecombe by the long drouth, he says the condition of the crops there is much better than those he has seen during his journey to this city, and that last night's rain will revive them considerably.

City Court.
Lewis Green and John H. Giles had an interview this morning with the Mayor on account of a fracas between the two on South Water street, yesterday morning, which resulted in a fine of two dollars being imposed on each defendant. They both paid up and increased the city's finances $4 by the operation.

Death of a Former Wilmingtonian.

Mr. Edward D. Sidbury, formerly of this city and a brother of Mr. John Sidbury, died suddenly at the Hot Springs, in Arkansas, on the 17th inst. The deceased was raised in this city and served an apprenticeship under Mr. R. B. Wood. He had many friends here who will be pained to hear of his death. At the close of the war Mr. Sidbury moved to Corpus Christi, Texas, and embarked in the lumber business and has resided in that town up to the time of his death at Hot Springs, where he was on a visit. His remains were interred in Corpus Christi. He had met with much success in his adopted home and was known as the "Lumber King." It is said he left an estate worth $300,000. He had been married for a number of years but his union had never been blessed with children. It is said that Mr. Sidbury died intestate.

A Kind Hearted Act.

A newspaper certainly accomplishes good in more ways than one. Our reference on Thursday to the poor destitute woman and her little babe living on Fifth street, beyond the railroad, has caused $5 to be sent to Captain Brock for the sick woman's benefit, from a firm always noted for their benevolent and charitable actions which are only exceeded by the very modest and unostentatious way in which these gentlemen generally make their donations. Captain Brock has invested the amount in a most judicious manner for the sick woman's benefit. But this amount, though liberal enough from one source, will not last very long and we hope others will come to the suffering one's relief also.

The Evils that Attend Success.

Success generally creates envy—envy begets hatred—hatred gives place to malice—malice prompts mischief, and so the baneful list goes on, followed by crime and wrong doing. The Louisiana State Lottery, established by the highest authority, meets with no exception to this rule. Its success, induced by integrity and honesty in its management, with liberality and charity, have caused to spring up in New York opponents who try to circulate all kinds of false reports as to its permanence and ability to redeem its promises. Let every one who has a lingering doubt write to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., to establish the truth that all that is promised will be performed.

The Storm.

The whirlwind which was mentioned on Tuesday last as prevailing at St. Thomas, W. I., has reached us at St. Gen. Hazen, the Chief Signal Officer, tells us in the official bulletin issued this forenoon that it has pursued a North-westerly course and this morning entered the South Carolina Coast. The wind then shifted towards the North and was soon felt on the North Carolina Coast. Early this morning the barometer at Charleston, S. C., was 29.58 inches, a fall of .37 of an inch in twenty-four hours. The maximum velocity of the wind reported at Charleston was 48 miles, blowing from the East, and at Smithville, 50 miles, from the Northeast. Telegraphic communication along the North Carolina coast was interrupted by the storm. Cautionary signals were displayed all along the coast as far North as Sandy Hook and the shipping were cautioned against the approach of the storm. In this city Mr. McCann, the Signal Observer, personally visited all of those interested and informed them of the near vicinity of the storm.

The advices from Smithville are to the effect that the blow was very severe at that point. At 7:20 a. m., the wind had reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour. The sea was the highest known for years, and was reported as breaking over Oak Island in the rear of Fort Caswell. The tugs were compelled to leave their wharves and seek safe anchorage further up the river.

At Wrightsville Sound, seven miles from the city, the storm has been very severe. The sea was very high and is said to have reached the Banks House.

At Masonboro the waves of the sea washed in some places clear across the banks.

In this city the wind has been blowing by starts fiercely throughout the day. It has been accompanied by very heavy rains, which, by the way, fell nearly all night long. The water in the river has been backed up by the wind, but it is not near as high as we have known it. Neither has the storm been of unusual severity in this locality, that is to say, we have known it to blow much harder here. There are no damages to report hereabouts, so far as we have yet been able to ascertain.

The steamship Benefactor, bound for New York, is at Smithville, and has not attempted to go to sea. There is no communication with the shore and if she attempts to go to sea the Signal officer at Smithville will endeavor to communicate with her by signals and warn Capt. Tribon of the full extent of his danger. There is no probability, however, that this will be necessary.

There are no disasters reported as yet, and we trust that there have been none to report.

The Rains.

We are glad to know that the fine rains with which this section was visited last night and to-day have been pretty universal, having extended generally over the Carolinas and North into Virginia. Such of the crops as can be revived will feel the beneficial effects and we may look for freshets in all of the rivers. The long drouth is a thing of the past now.

Mr. McCann, the Signal Officer here, will leave next week for points along the line of the Carolina Central and W. C. & A. Railroads, to instruct the agents in taking weather forecasts for the benefit of the farmers.

Rev. Jas. B. Taylor has returned to the city, and will fill his pulpit to-morrow.

MRS. JOE PERSON'S

REMEDY FOR

SCROFULA.

NEVER FAILS.

It Will Cure if Fairly Tested.

It gives me much pleasure to be able to state that I have derived an effectual cure of scrofula from the use of Mrs. Joe Person's remedy for that disease. I had suffered from scrofula for more than three years, and had despaired of ever getting well. I was treated during that time by three very eminent physicians, without any good result. I then went to the National Surgical Institute, at Atlanta, Ga., and was treated there more than two months, with no better result than my family physicians met with.

After returning from the Institute, I was persuaded to try Mrs. Person's remedy, and I had not used it more than a week before I discovered its curative and healing properties. My sores soon began to heal, and the color of my skin changed as fast as the sores healed. I had not thought of ever getting well again, but my hopes increased, my low spirits fled before this remedy, and I am now enjoying splendid health and am in good spirits.

The remedy is mild as a pure rative, and a strong tonic: it will heal the most stubborn sores in three weeks if taken regularly. It is my opinion that it should be taken some time after the sore is healed, to remove the cause of its effects. It should be taken regularly by all means, for I have sometimes neglected it, from the pressure of business, and in all cases found that the cure already made would commence to retrograde, and for this alone it should be taken regularly until an effectual cure is completed. Nothing should prevent regularity in the use of the remedy and it should be taken at the proper time. I would recommend to all who are suffering from scrofula to try it. It will surely cure you if you give it a fair test. I speak from experience and not from hearsay. I am a grateful recipient of a cure from the use of it and am under many and lasting obligations to Mrs. Person for the great relief I have obtained from its use. Sufferers, try it and be cured, is my advice. I am, respectfully,
J. J. JAMES, N. C.
