

THE DAILY REVIEW.
WILMINGTON, N. C.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1891.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as Second-Class Matter.

Corn has had a tumble in Chicago and some of the speculators in this article of prime necessity have come to grief.

The Grand Jury at Washington City have found a true bill for murder against the assassin Getzen. The date of his trial has not yet been set.

F. J. Moses, Jr., Radical Governor of South Carolina, is in distress in New York city, under charges of obtaining money by false pretences and by swindling.

There will be two State elections this month, both of some importance. On the second Tuesday, that is, October 11, Ohio and Iowa will each elect a Governor, and a Lieutenant-Governor, and other State officers, and Iowa will choose a majority of its Senate and the whole of its House of Representatives, while Ohio will choose a full Legislature.

In Savannah, Ga., the annual death rate for 1,000 whites for the year 1880 was 19.85, and for the colored 45.47. In the mayor's opinion the disparity is due to a non-observance of sanitary laws on the part of a portion of the colored people and to their unintentional neglect of the necessities of the sick.

The tide of immigration continues to flow with increasing force. Since January 1, 328,650 men, women and children have been landed at Castle Garden, 5,000 more than during this same period in 1880, and 2,000 more than arrived during the first half of September of last year.

The Washington Star learns from the very best authority that there is not a member of the Cabinet who expects to be in President Arthur's Cabinet. They all think and expect that President Arthur will choose an entirely new Cabinet.

Leo XIII. has lately issued a bull of considerable importance, addressed to the Roman Catholic Church in England, on the much-vexed question of the position which the regular clergy—Dominicans, Franciscans, Jesuits, Benedictines, &c.—hold toward the bishops, and the latter hold toward the former.

The New York World of Friday has the annotated paragraph in its local column: "United States Senator Wm. Mahone, Capt. John S. Wise and James D. Brady, president of the Republican State central committee, all of Virginia, arrived at the Gilsey House yesterday, and almost immediately afterwards went out. During the day they spent an hour in Wall street. It is said that their mission is to collect campaign subscriptions." Editorially the World says:

"Mahone and the chairman of the Virginia Republican committee perambulated Wall street in company Thursday, trying to raise money from Republican bankers and brokers to promote the repudiation of the Virginia State debt. Of course brokers and bankers who subscribe to aid the Virginia Readjusters and Republicans must intend to buy Virginia bonds to-day with an eye to selling them after the Virginia Democrats have thoroughly beaten the repudiating Mahone and his Republican allies."

The particular offence which forms the basis of the Star route prosecutions, which began on Friday, says the News and Courier, is in the contract for carrying the mails from Prescott, Arizona, to Santa Fe, New Mexico. It provided for one trip a week, for which 150 hours was allowed, and the compensation was to be $13,313 per annum. Before service began—at all there had been an increase ordered to seven trips a week, and "expedition" to 90 hours per trip, and the compensation had been raised to $37,862 per annum. After work was begun the contractor, McDonough, subtlet to Walsh. Later on the contract was terminated altogether, and a new one was made with Walsh for one trip a week of 150 hours at an annual compensation of $18,500. Then followed again the customary increase and expedition, raising the pay to $136,000 a year. The story is, in its main features, a familiar one, and likely to be reproduced with variations in the other cases. The charge is "conspiracy to defraud the government" in "causing and procuring unnecessary and improper and extravagant additional compensation to be paid by the United States for additional service in carrying the mails." The New York World says: "The warrants issued for the Star route people are mainly remarkable for not including one intended for Mr. W. S. Dorsey. The absence of Mr. Dorsey from a case in which he has every claim to be engaged will be connected by the public with the appearance in the case of Mr. George Bliss, who is supposed to possess much of the confidence of the President. Except Brady, the people indicted are of no earthly consequence."

Practice makes perfect. It was at a railway station. The trains were being made up. "Put" went the locomotive, whirring the wheels, and the whistling was terrific. There was a backing and forwarding and all manner of shunting on a labyrinth of rails. "What the deuce are they doing?" "Practicing for an accident." Parisian Pleasantry.

Last night a young fellow going through Bramble street saw a man asleep in a doorway, and proceeded to give him a punch in the ribs, remarking, "Why in the blazes don't you get up and have some life about you?" And the sleeper arose and went for that young fellow and beat the earth with him, and tore him all to pieces, and then mildly replied, "Why don't I have some life about me? Don't I?" Boston Post.

At Nantasket—"Come now, Charlie, be candid and tell me what the people here think of me." "Well," says Charlie, "to tell you the truth—" "Oh, bother the truth, that isn't what I'm after. Tell me something that will make me feel good." Boston Transcript.

Home they brought her sailor son, Grown a man across the sea, Tall and broad and black of beard, And hoarse of voice as man may be. Hand to shake and mouth to kiss, Both he offered ere he spoke; But she said, "What man is this Comes to play a sorry joke?" Then they praised him—called him "sonny"— "Tightest lad that ever slept;" But her son she did not know; And she neither smiled nor wept. Rose, a nurse of ninety years, Set a piceon pie in sight; She saw him eat—"Tis he!" "Tis he!"—She knew him—by his appetite. "I'm all Played Out," is a common complaint. It renews the healthy action of the kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus restores the natural life and strength to the weary body.
