HEINBERGER'S—Blank Books
PURE WHITE LEAD—North State Saloon
C. W. YATES—Leigens, Journals, & Mynce Bags, & Dakossett—Onion Sets

Another heavy frost this morning. The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 323 bales.

There is again a look and a feel of snow in the atmosphere.

Two fine entertainments for theatre-goers are promised next week.

Warmer and pleasant weather, such as makes the wearing of an overcoat hardly necessary.

New River oysters come in slowly and cannot be bought for less than a dollar a gallon.

There are an unusual number of people from the North in the city, and they are arriving and departing by almost every train.

The postoffice at Moore's Creek has been discontinued, temporarily, it is hoped, and mail matter for parties in that section should be addressed to Point Caswell.

The second white shad caught at Col. Moore's fishery this season was captured this morning and brought up to the city on the steamer Louise. The first was caught on Friday last.

Schr. James Young, Linikin, cleared to-day for Point-a-Pitre, Gaudaloupe, with 108,982 feet lumber and 114,900 shingles, valued at $4,804.64, shipped by Messrs. E. Kidder & Son.

Mr. Harry A. Lee, Business Agent of the "Bunch o'Keys" Company, which is booked to appear at the Opera House on the night of the 31st inst., is in the city to-day making the necessary preparations for the appearance of that troupe.

Our friend of the quill, Mr. E. A. Oldham, of the Winston Sentinel and Raleigh State Chronicle, paid us a brief visit yesterday evening. He was in good health and speaks in glowing terms of his new home and its surroundings.

We publish elsewhere a card from Mr. Alex. Oldham who claims that we incorrectly represented him in the report of the Court proceedings published by us yesterday. We can only say that the information furnished us came in an official shape from an officer of the Court.

Interesting to Fishermen: The celebrated "Fish" Brand Gilling thread is sold only at Jacob's. He is the Importer's Agent.

From Smithville. There are lively times at Smithville about these days so far as the matrimonial market is concerned. There was a runaway marriage in that town yesterday; there is to be a wedding after the regulation pattern there to-night, and there is to be another of the same kind on Sunday next.

A Sad Case. Mr. Robert Moore, who was at one time a member of the police force of this city, was taken a few days since with an affliction which was thought then to be a severe attack of rheumatism. Since then he has been confined to his house, which is on Fourth street, in the Northern section of the city, and within the last day or two it has been decided that his affliction is paralysis. He is helpless, is a very worthy man, and has a large family dependent upon him for support. His condition appeals strongly to the kind offices of the benevolent, and we hope that he may not be forgotten.

Superior Court. In the case of the State on relation of James Baker and wife vs. Isabella Froeman, executrix, which was on trial yesterday when our report closed, all the issues were found in favor of the defendant. The case for the plaintiffs was conducted by Messrs DuBrutz Cutlar and E. S. Martin, and for the defendant by Messrs McRae & Strange and Major D. J. Devane.

To-day the attention of the Court has been engaged in hearing the case of J. E. Gadsby vs. John Dyer and wife, which was on trial when our report closed. The plaintiff's counsel were Messrs McRae & Strange, J. D. Bellamy and J. I. Macks. The defendants were represented by Messrs Russell & Ricard.

For Pure White Lead & Paints, and biggest stock of Window Glass and lowest prices for good articles, go to go to Jacob's Hardware Depot.

Personal.

Capt. A. A. Moseley, who has been confined to his house on Topsat Sound for the last three weeks with a severe attack of sickness, which for a portion of the time was considered extremely critical, has so far recovered as to be able to be out. He was in the city to-day, but although much improved in health, is yet quite feeble.

The Next Lecture. On the night of Monday, the 28th inst., Ex-Governor Wm. Cumber, of Indiana, will lecture in this city under the auspices of the Library Association. The lecture will be humorous in its character, the subject being "The Invisible Some People." The speaker will be introduced to the audience by Hon. A. M. Waddell, of this city.

Painful Accident. Armistead Capehart, a young pupil of Prof. Catlett's Cape Fear Academy, while practicing yesterday afternoon on the gymnasium recently added to that institution, had the misfortune to lose his hold and was thrown violently to the ground, by which his left forearm was broken and his right arm seriously sprained. Proper surgical assistance was promptly rendered, and the young man was on the streets to-day bearing his misfortune with philosophical indifference.

City Court. The first case for the Mayor's consideration this morning was Capitola Brown, colored, charged with disorderly conduct. She was found guilty and a fine of $5 was imposed and she put under a bond of $50 for her appearance before the City Court at 9 o'clock a. m. on the 25th inst.

Mary J. Jordan, colored, and an old offender, was charged with disorderly conduct in the vicinity of the postoffice last night. She was found guilty and a fine of $5 was imposed, in default of which she was sent below.

A Shad-ow. Fishermen inform us that owing to several causes, among which cold weather, storms and frosts are the principal, there is quite a scarcity of fish for the supply of the market at present. In this connection it is proper to state that Messrs W. E. Davis & Son are making extensive preparations to supply the market with shad when they shall make their appearance in sufficient quantities. The indications now are that, as soon as the freshest subsidies, these delicious fish will push their way up the Cape Fear and its tributaries. There is hardly a shad-ow of doubt that they will be here before long.

The Hailons. All the scenery for the presentation of "Le Voyage en Suisse" has arrived, and the performance will come off to-night without fail. The management deserve well of our people on account of their willingness to lose such an amount of time and money in order to give a perfect and complete show. The scenery is splendid and the entertainment is one of the most laughable ever seen, while there is nothing to offend the most sensitive delicacy. Good, hearty, innocent fun there is in plenty, and those who like to indulge in a good laugh will find an abundant opportunity. Give them a good house, and go prepared to laugh until your sides ache.

Last Night's Lecture. Rev. Dr. Hawthorne delivered his lecture upon "Eminent Orators, Ancient and Modern," last night. It was more largely attended than was his lecture of Monday night, and it is to be regretted that the hall was not crowded to its utmost capacity. The subject was one with which the speaker was entirely familiar from long and patient study and research. He spoke of the power of oratory with the power of an orator, and illustrated his subject by sketches of some of the great orators, both ancient and modern, who have startled the world by their eloquence. Hon. William L. Yancey, of Alabama, was, in the opinion of the speaker, the greatest orator this country had ever produced. To others he gave a high position, but all were inferior to the distinguished Alabamian.

The lecture was carefully prepared, and was delivered in a manner which placed the speaker in an eminent position among the orators of the age. It was listened to with profound interest and delight, marred only by the regret that the audience was so small.

The coming holidays will be more generally observed than any for many years, and we would remind our readers that a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will prove a most acceptable holiday present.

STONEWALL JACKSON.

He Was Certainly Wounded After Dark—Capt. Richardson's Testimony.

WHITEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 18, 1884. EDITOR DAILY REVIEW:—As much has been said and written recently about the wounding of General Stonewall Jackson, as I was present on that memorable night I deem it not out of place for me to testify as to the correctness of the statements made by Capt. A. H. H. Tolar and our much esteemed and gallant Brigadier General James H. Lane, as I have read them in the DAILY REVIEW.

As stated by Gen. Lane, our regiment, the 18th North Carolina, had taken its position on the left of the plank road for the purpose of making a night attack, for it was then dark, when we heard the firing of musketry in our front followed by the rapid approach of cavalry, as we thought. The order was given to fire, which was obeyed by the men of that gallant old regiment, who little dreamed that they were giving the death wound to their much beloved commander; he who had led them so often to victory. It was not until they were sufficiently near to be seen by the flash of the musketry fire and for the command "cease firing! You are firing upon your own men," to be heard, that we knew not but that we were dealing death to our enemy, but alas! we were not for by the light of the muskets could be seen the gallant Hill and other Confederate officers endeavoring to stop the firing of our regiment. At last quiet was restored when Gen. A. P. Hill asked, "What regiment is this?" A reply came from some one, "The 18th N. C." He then enquired hastily, "Who commands it?" I informed him, "Col. Purdie." Almost at the same moment he was met by that gallant officer. They had a conversation, but what passed between them I do not know. While they were not far from me, I stepped to the front a few paces; there I found several persons with a dim light around the body of an officer of the party whose name I do not remember, who was killed at the same time and who I believe belonged to the Commissary or Quartermaster's department. Col. Purdie and Gen. Hill separated and I was at once informed by Col. Purdie that we had wounded General Jackson, but to say nothing about it to the men, as he feared it would have a demoralizing effect. There is no doubt that the 18th N. C. Regt. gave Gen. Jackson his wound and that it was between 8 and 9 o'clock at night.

There is an incident which I desire to mention. About twilight, while our brigade was upon the plank road before forming in line of battle, Gen. Jackson passed along the edge of the plank road in the direction of the enemy, and as was always the case the men cheered him as he passed and that grand old commander, flushed with the victory of the evening, took off his hat in recognition of their salutation, and never looked grander. The regiment that was then making that wilderness ring with their cheers for him little thought that they were destined in a few hours to take the life of an idolized officer, one who had their affections and confidence, and the admiration of the world. Thus it was that the last cheer received by him on the battle field was from the men of the regiment who in a short while afterward inflicted upon him his mortal wound.

Respectfully,
V. V. RICHARDSON,
late Capt. Co. C, 18th N. C. Regiment.

A Card. MR. EDITOR REVIEW:—Please do me as well as the public a favor by correcting your statement in regard to the disposal of the case of Alex. Oldham, vs. First National Bank and E. E. Burruss. The facts are these: The plaintiffs were allowed on Monday to amend their complaint and on Tuesday the defence requested to be allowed to withdraw the jury and to continue the case. We did not expect nor desire any continuance but to go on in the case until a final hearing. You will please do me the justice as well as the public the benefit of these facts as your statement is calculated to mislead and do me an injury in my eyes.

Yours Respectfully,
ALEX. OLDHAM,
Wilmington, N. C., Jan., 23rd 1884.

DIED.

BOWDEN—Departed this life on Wednesday, January 23rd, Mrs. LUCY HUGGINS BOWDEN, wife of Mr. William N. Bowden, of this city.

A more beautiful Christian character, retiring and lowly, like a modest flower, exhaling the fragrance of Heaven, is seldom seen on earth. She was ever noted for sweetness of temper, kindness of heart, amiability of disposition, gentleness of manners, which were equaled only by the loveliness of her countenance and the beauty of her person. In early youth she publicly consecrated herself to Christ. The daughter of a Methodist Minister, she preferred the church to which her parents were so firmly and fondly attached, and adorned the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ by a godly walk and conversation. Her patient endurance of her protracted and manifold sufferings commended her example to all Christians, and will be a precious memory to her bereaved husband, her surviving children and their large circle of sympathizing friends.

"On earth, there is a still white form,
In the quiet sleep of the dead,
Calmly waiting, with folded hands,
To be laid in her narrow bed."
"In Heaven, amid the angel bands,
A radiant face beams in God's choir,
A palm of victory, in the beautiful hands,
They now strike a golden lyre."
