VOL. VIII. WILMINGTON, N. C., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1884. NO. 44

Archibald Forbes is said to have been very unfortunate in investing the money he has made by his correspondence. Forbes' forte evidently is facts, not speculations.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The Democrat of this city, the most influential and widely circulated German newspaper west of the Rocky Mountains, states that along the entire Pacific Slope, people say, that for the cure of bodily pains St. Jacobs Oil has no equal.

Mr. Sol. Bear left this morning for the Northern markets, and will be absent about two weeks. He will be followed in a few days by others.

Mr. Alexander Johnson, Jr., was out to-day for a short time, for the first time since he was injured. He is yet quite feeble but is convalescent.

We invite the attention of our citizens to the fact that first quality shirts are being made to order at one dollar at the Wilmington Shirt Factory.

The steamer North State, Capt. R. P. Paddison, put to sea from Smithville at 8 o'clock this morning, and there is every indication now that she will have a pleasant passage to her port of destination.

Deputy Sheriff G. W. Murray left this morning for Raleigh with the prisoners who were sentenced to the penitentiary at the recent term of the Criminal Court. They were all colored and were as follows: Boyser Davis, larceny, 5 years; W. H. Gibson, larceny, 5 years; and Gaston Davis, larceny, 1 year.

We understand that Mr. A. H. Morris, of Teachy's, proprietor of the well known hog cholera medicine, has received a letter from Hon. Wharton J. Green requesting him to forward to Washington samples of his medicines, which Col. Green desires to submit to the Commissioner of Agriculture who will fairly test their merits. Mr. Morris has complied with the request.

A gentleman who came down on the Carolina Central this morning tells us that in the recent storm at Rockingham he heard that a millstone, weighing perhaps two tons, had been taken up by the wind and carried twenty feet and that chickens were stripped as completely of their feathers as if they had been prepared for the pot. We told him we could swallow the chickens but not the millstone.

Knights and Ladies of Honor. Regular meeting this (Thursday) evening. Full attendance desired. It

City Court.

Eli Herring was brought before the Mayor this morning charged with an assault with a deadly weapon upon Henderson Hayes, colored. The charge was sustained and the defendant was required to give a bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court.

Badly Burned.

Mr. John Sheehan, watchman at Mr. A. Johnson's distillery, on the West side of the river, had the misfortune to have his hands badly burned at the fire on Tuesday night, while working to prevent the spread of the flames. His injuries are quite severe, from the effects of which he has been confined to his house ever since.

A New Position.

Mr W. W. Barnes, formerly clerk with Messrs. Parker & Taylor, has entered into an engagement with Messrs. Swisher & Conrow, fruit and produce commission merchants of No. 336 North Delaware street, Philadelphia, and will leave on Monday next for Florida where he will solicit consignments of fruit and vegetables for the house he represents.

Fearful Cyclone.

The storm of Tuesday, of which we appeared to be upon the verge, was fearful in its force and terrible in its devastation. It seems to have been deflected mainly, so far as we have received information, to those counties lying on or near the South Carolina line, and to have been terrible in that State as well as in our own. Telegraph wires are down in many places and the news comes in slowly, but every fresh intelligence adds greater horror to the dire disasters.

A gentleman who arrived in the city this morning from Rockingham says that the work of death and destruction at that place was truly appalling. There were eighteen persons killed outright, 4 of whom were white and 14 colored. Besides these, there are about forty wounded, many of whom will die from the fearful injuries received. Dead horses, dogs, hogs, sheep and cattle could be seen in almost every direction. Every building, tree, fence or shrub in the track of the storm was either blown down or torn up by the fury of the wind. The ruin was complete. Yesterday those who escaped harm were working from morning until night in bringing in and caring for the wounded and in interring the dead.—There was no distinction in color or sex, but all who could worked faithfully in behalf of suffering and helpless humanity. In the Court House, where many of the wounded were conveyed, the scene was pitiable and the town was a place of mourning. Parents had lost their children and children had become in a moment orphans, and among the wounded were those who had but a few short hours to live, and to whom death would have been a sweet relief, so intense were their sufferings.

At Polkton the damage to property was very severe, although we have heard of but one fatal accident at that place, which was that of a colored man, who was blown into the fork of a tree, where he was found dead. The destruction of property, however, was fearful, estimated by many at fully $50,000.

There were other places in the track of the storm that suffered more or less, but none of which we have heard were damaged as were the two we have named. At Chester, S. C., the storm of wind and hail was very severe. The roofs of the bank and many of the stores were blown off, and the Catawba Oil Mill, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, besides many private dwellings, were wholly or partially destroyed.

Lippincott's Magazine.

Lippincott's for March opens with an article on "The Berlin of To Day," "Across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on Horseback," gives a vivid description of a journey through some of the least known but grandest mountain scenery on the continent. "A Winter Campaign in the Black Hills," presents a striking picture of the hardships endured by our soldiers in defending our western territory against the invasions of the hostile Indians. The author of "Study and Stimulants" describes the career of "An American Father Matthew," Mr. Richard T. Booth, the leader of the blue-ribbon movement.

Mrs. Champney's "Sebia's Tang'ed Web," is brought to a conclusion and another, "The Perfect Treasure," depicts in a very amusing manner the experiences of an American family in England. "The Brown Lady" is a well-managed ghost story, by an English writer, and "Washington's Headquarters," by Hop Ledyard, is an amusing sketch, not without a moral. There are some good things in the "Monthly Gossip," and the number is followed by a supplement containing a reprint of the little comedy entitled "Place aux Dames; or The Ladies Speak at Last." J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia, at $3 a year.

Pavers at Work.

This morning four experienced pavers arrived from New York to pave North Water street. They began work this afternoon, and from the way they have already progressed it will not be long before the street will be completed.—They propose to pave 50 yards each, or 200 yards in all, per day, and it is estimated that, if they accomplish that amount daily, they will complete the work in about nine days.

We learn from the Richmond Dispatch that a controlling interest in the Petersburg R. R. has been purchased by gentlemen interested in the Atlantic Coast Line. This will give Col. Bridgers, as President of the Coast Line, an unbroken control all of the way from Richmond to Charleston.
