

Three hundred and sixty-five times each year every mother's son of us has a struggle getting into his shirt.

If a shirt is worth getting into, if it is strong and well made, sure not to rip or tear, perfect fitting, then there is some compensation for spending so much of our existence in such a struggle. You may wrestle with the DIAMOND, but with its everlastingstay-attachment and reinforced bosom, you will come out head first every time, covered with glory and with the best shirt in the land.

IT MATTERS NOT TO-DAY.

From mossy len And sunny glen, From fairy-scented bowers, From gardens lair, From everywhere. Bring flowers, lovely flowers. Above the fallen boys in blue. The fallen boys in gray. We'll place a lond memorial, A snowy wreath to-day.

Each grassy spot. It matters not What soldier sleeps beneath it, With flowers new Of every hue We lovingly will wreathe it. For brave men battled with the brave In that tempestuous fray. And who were friends or enemies It matters no: to-day.

When cruel war Anear and far Wrought death and lamentation, Sweet peace at last Above the blast Spake words of consolation. And God, who dried the widow's tears, And heard the orphans pray, Will bless the hand that decorates A soldier's grave to-day. - Wellington Campbell. BUFFALO, May 30, 1884.

This semi-barbaric law, under a more enlightened regime, has happily become obsolete. Much taste has been displayed in the appointments of the park.
