TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1884.

IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Mr. Hale offered a resolution, directing the committee on Expenditures of Public Money to investigate the recent delinquencies of disbursing offices in some of the Departments in Washington, and the alleged fraud upon the Navy Department, and to inquire into the system of making disbursements and purchase of supplies, with a view to determine whether it embraces a sufficient safeguard against defalcation and frauds; and giving the committee power to send for persons and papers.

Mr. Hale accepted an amendment offered by Mr. McPherson, to include all the departments, and the resolution was agreed to, after being amended to cover the appointment of a clerk and stenographer when necessary.

Mr. Garland, from the committee on Judiciary, reported, and the Senate read a third time and passed the bill which confers on all Senators and members of Congress authority to administer oaths to witnesses in matters pending before Congress.

The Mexican Pension bill was taken up, and its consideration proceeded with; Mr. Plumb giving notice that whether that bill be finished or not, he would to-morrow move to take up the Atlantic and Pacific Land Grant Forfeiture bill.

The pending question, in connection with the Mexican Pension bill, was an amendment of Mr. Ingalls, dating the pension of Union soldiers from the date of discharge or disability, and extending to October 1st, 1884, the limitation of time to file applications for arrears of pensions.

The Ingalls amendment was voted down—yeas 26, nays 39. Various amendments were then offered by Messrs. Harrison, Wilson and Mitchell, and were referred. One of Mr. Harrison's amendments limited the Mexican pension to soldiers and sailors who in fact actually engaged in battle were at least fourteen days in Mexico or on its coast, so as not to give pensions to men who never left home.

Mr. Wilson's amendment provided that pensioners to whom the law shall apply must be either sixty-two years of age or subject to some disability recognized by the general pension laws of the United States. It is not, however, to cover cases of men who may have acquired such disabilities in fighting against the Union.

Among Mr. Mitchell's amendments was the substance of the pension bill introduced by Mr. Callom, early in May, providing pensions for invalid soldiers who have been discharged from the army or navy of the United States after three months' service in the late war and for the widows and dependent parents of deceased pensioners. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 33 yeas to 27 nays.

Before this was agreed to Mr. Morgan moved to postpone consideration of the bill until December, as he saw, he said, that Mexican soldiers could not get a fair chance while this bill was treated as a political measure. Mr. Morgan's motion was not agreed to.

Mr. Vest said the object of the majority of the Senate was evidently to kill the bill; not by a fair shot, but by loading it down by amendments. He could not vote for it as amended. The feeling of the majority was influenced by the fact that the war with Mexico, which had shed so much glory on the American army, was a Democratic war.

After some further discussion it was agreed, on the suggestion of Mr. Allison, to adopt the ten-minute rule for speeches to-morrow and come to a vote on the bill and amendments at 3 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The only bills of any public importance, introduced and referred under the call of States, were the following: By Mr. Kean, of New Jersey, for the protection of the fisheries on the Atlantic coast.

By Mr. Hancock, of Texas, authorizing the funding of the entire bonded debt of the United States on two per cent thirty-year bonds.

By Mr. Hutchison, of New York, amending the laws regulating the appraisal of imported merchandise. The amendment provides that all proceedings had before the U. S. general appraiser, wherein the market value or invoice price of imported merchandise shall be the subject of investigation, he shall be governed by the same rules of procedure as apply to actions pending in Courts of Record, except as to pleadings and papers.

Mr. Randall, chairman of the committee on Appropriations, said that he was directed by the unanimous voice of that committee to move to suspend the rules and pass the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill.

Mr. Belford, of Colo., showed a disposition to object to the programme laid down by Mr. Randall, unless he should be permitted to offer an amendment appropriating $500,000 for the erection of a Confederate Soldier's Home. But he did not formally object.

The reading of the bill was proceeded with and consumed an hour and a half, after which the thirty minutes debate permitted under the rules was entered upon.

Mr. Potter, of N. Y., protested against the clause of the bill appropriating $500,000 to enable the departments of the government to be represented at the New Orleans Exposition. He denied that there was any necessity for this vast expenditure of money.

Mr. Randall defended the appropriation, declaring that the exposition was a great international one which celebrated the centennial of the first exportation of cotton. He hoped that this appropriation would meet with the approval of the people of the United States. Mr. Randall then offered an amendment directing the Secretary of War to sell at public auction the following arsenals: Albany, Pa.; Augusta, Ga.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Kennebec, Me.; and Watertown, Mass. Adopted. Also, granting a month's extra pay to House employees. Adopted.

ed. Also, to strike out the provision that a speech shall be printed in the Record which has not been delivered upon the floor of Congress.—Adopted.

Mr. Springer offered an amendment, framed by the committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, providing that U. S. marshals and district attorneys shall be paid salaries instead of fees. A large number of amendments to the amendment were offered and severally voted down.

Mr. Ellis, of La., however, secured the adoption of an amendment prohibiting any commissioner, or justice or peace acting as such, from demanding or receiving from any accused party any fee in any criminal procedure until after final conviction of the accused.

Mr. Springer's amendment, as amended, was then adopted. It has been already published, but it does not contain the published section relating to the employment of special counsel.

A motion to suspend the rules and pass the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was then agreed to.

The Senate amendments to the Army Appropriation bill were non-concurred in.

J. Langston, born on the 17th day of January, 1800, died at the residence of her son in this city on last Saturday morning, the 20th inst.

Newbern Journal: Mr. Hezekiah Davis, of Bachelor's creek, this county, tells us of a wonderful tree that has been discovered in his neighborhood. It is called a "cotton tree," and produces cotton that has been spun and made into cloth; in fact, the fruit appears just the same as that grown upon the ordinary cotton stalk.

It is about thirty feet high, and has been known to exist for quite a number of years. That is, it has been noticed, but never known to bear cotton until recently. A sample should be brought down for the State Exposition.

Kernersville News: The lynching craze has reached our town. It has even extended itself from old heads to those of tender years. Hear the facts: Eddie Lipscomb, a brave Buffalo Bill little fellow, scarcely four years old, desiring to astonish his audience, consisting of Masters Frank Leak and Charlie Sapp, claimed that he had committed a terrible murder by drowning a boy just their size, in a tub of water. The fact that he was allowed to escape and left free to drown other boys, filled their youthful minds with indignation. They resolved to lynch this offender against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth. A rope was procured, a mock trial gone through with, and the closing ceremony about to be performed, when some "big boy" who had no business there, came in and spoilt all the fun and saved Forsyth from public disgrace.
