Following is Gov. Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the nomination for President of the United States, tendered him by the National Democratic Convention:

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 18, 1884.

GENTLEMEN—I have received your communication dated July 28th, 1884, informing me of my nomination for the office of President of the United States by the National Democratic Convention lately assembled at Chicago. I accept the nomination with grateful appreciation of the supreme honor conferred, and a solemn sense of the responsibility which in its acceptance I assume. I have carefully considered the platform adopted by the Convention and cordially approve the same. So plain a statement of Democratic faith and principles upon which that party appeals to the suffrages of the people, needs no supplement or explanation.

It should be remembered that the office of President is essentially executive in its nature. The laws enacted by the legislative branch of the government the chief executive is bound faithfully to enforce; and when the wisdom of the political party which selects one of its members as the nominee for that office has outlined its policy and declared its principles, it seems to me that nothing in the character of the office or the necessities of the case require more from the candidate accepting such a nomination than the suggestion of certain well known truths, so absolutely vital to the safety and welfare of the nation that they cannot be too often recalled or too seriously enforced.

We proudly call ours a government by the people. It is not such when a class is tolerated which arrogates to itself the management of public affairs, seeking to control people instead of representing them.

Parties are the natural out-growth of our institutions, but the government is not by the people when one party fastens its control upon the country, and perpetuates its power by cajoling and betraying the people instead of serving them. The government is not by the people when the result which should represent the intelligent will of free and thinking men is, or can be, determined by the shameless corruption of their suffrages.

When an election to office shall be the selection by voters of one of their number, to assume for a time a public trust, instead of his dedication to the profession of politics; when the holders of duty, shall avenge truth betrayed and pledges broken; and when suffrages shall be altogether free and uncorrupted, a full realization of a government by the people will be at hand; and of the means to this end not one would, in my judgment, be more effective than an amendment to the Constitution disqualifying the President from reelection.

When we consider the patronage of power, the temptations to retain public places once gained; and, more than all, the availability the party finds in an incumbent whom a horde of officeholders with a zeal born of the benefits received and fostered by the hope of favors yet to come, stand ready to aid with money and trained political service, we recognize in the eligibility of the President for reelection the most serious danger to that calm, deliberate and intelligent political action which must characterize a government by the people.

A true American sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor, and the fact that honor lies in honest toil. Contented labor is an element of national prosperity; the ability to work constitutes the capital, and the wage of labor, the income of the vast number of our population, and this interest should be jealously protected. Our workmen are not asking unreasonable indulgence, but are intelligent and many citizens. They seek the same consideration which those demand who have other interests at stake. They should receive their full share of the care and attention of those who make and execute the laws, to the end that the wants and needs of employers and employed shall alike be subserved, and the prosperity of the country, the common heritage of both, be advanced. As relating to this subject, while we should not discourage the immigration of those who come to acknowledge allegiance to our government and add to our citizen population, yet, as a means of protection to our workmen, a different rule should prevail concerning those who, if they come or are brought to our land, do not intend to become Americans, but will injuriously compete with those justly entitled to our field of labor.

In my letter accepting the nomination to the office of Governor, nearly two years ago, I made the following statement, to which I have steadily adhered: "The laboring classes constitute the main part of our population. They should be protected in their efforts peaceably to assert their rights, when endangered by aggregated capital, and all statutes on this subject should recognize the care of the State for honest toil, and be framed with the view of improving the condition of the workingman." A proper regard for the welfare of the workingman being inseparably connected with the integrity of our institutions, none of our citizens are more interested than they in guarding against any corruptive influences which seek to pervert the beneficent purposes of our government, and none should be more watchful of the artful machinations of those who allure them to self-inflicted injury. In a free country the curtailment of the absolute rights of the individual should only be such as is essential to the peace and good order of the community. The limits between proper subjects of governmental control and those which can be more fittingly left to the moral sense and self-imposed restraint of the citizen should be carefully kept in view. Thus, laws unnecessarily interfering with the habits and customs of any of our people which are not offensive to the moral sentiments of the civilized world and which are consistent with good citizenship and public welfare, are unwise and vexatious.

The commerce of a nation to a great extent determines its supremacy.—Cheap and easy transportation should therefore be liberally fostered within the limits of the Constitution. The general government should so improve and protect its natural waterways as will enable the producers of the country to reach profitable markets.

The people pay the wages of public employes and they are entitled to fair and honest work which the money thus paid should command. It is the duty of those entrusted with the management of these affairs to see that such public service is forthcoming. The selection and retention of subordinates in government employment should depend upon their ascertained fitness and the value of their work, and they should be neither expected nor allowed to do questionable party service. The interests of the people will be better protected, and public employment will be open to all who can demonstrate their fitness to enter it. The unseemly scramble for place under the government, with the consequent importunity which embitters official life, will cease, and the public departments will not be filled with those who conceive it to be their first duty to aid the party to which they owe the places, instead of rendering patient and honest return to the people.

I believe that the public temper is such that the voters of the land are prepared to support the party which gives the best promise of administering the government in an honest, simple and plain manner; which is consistent with its character and purposes. They have learned that mystery and concealment in the management of their affairs cover tricks and betrayal. The statesmanship they require consists in honesty and frugality, a prompt response to the needs of the people as they arise, and a vigilant protection of all their varied interests.

If I should be called to the Chief Magistracy of the Nation by the suffrages of my fellow-citizens, I will assume the duties of that office with a solemn determination to dedicate every effort to the country's good, and with humble reliance upon the favor and support of the Supreme Being, whom I believe will always bless honest human endeavor in the conscientious discharge of public duty.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Mr. James Gordon Bennett received a most cordial welcome at Newport. Everybody seemed glad to see him back, says a correspondent, and even the blue eyed stone owls at the gate of his handsome house blinked a kindly welcome. Mr. Bennett is immensely popular at Newport.

Edwin Booth has furnished his Newport cottage in a very cosy and homelike manner, and the place, which is near Hanging Rocks, far from the fashion and follies of the gay watering place, includes eleven acres tastefully laid out in walks, gardens and lawns.

Dr. Tyre York is a braggart and a bully, and we are glad to see that Gen. Scales, acting by and with the advice of the Democratic Executive Committee, has made new appointments for September which do not look to a joint discussion with the Republican candidate. A list of the appointments as they now stand are published elsewhere.

It is asserted by the Portsmouth (N. H.) Chronicle, an independent Republican paper, that Secretary Chandler's recent operations politically have had the effect to injure Mr. Blaine's prospects in New Hampshire, as just now Mr. Chandler, with all the patronage at his command, is not a power in the politics of the State.

At Lenoir, on Monday last, a slight disturbance was caused when Dr. York was speaking, brought on, we understand, by the intemperate language used by that individual during the discussion. It amounted to but little, but yet it was enough to cause Dr. York to abandon the stand, and refuse to speak longer, notwithstanding the fact that the offenders were arrested by the Mayor, and that the Democrats, as well as a number of Republicans, begged him to proceed.

An Amendment.
 State Senator, Hon. M. W. Offutt, Towson, Maryland, writes: I applied to a severely sprained knee, from which, and from inflammatory rheumatism, I had been suffering for six weeks, St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure, and it not only gave immediate relief to the sprain, but it cured me of every symptom of the rheumatism.

A good rain would not be unacceptable at this time.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 10 bales.

Fuller assortment of Fishing Tackle can be found at JACOBI'S.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer in this office registered 88 degrees.

Some remarkably fine mullets have been sold in this market during the past two days.

There was no City Court this morning, and no tramps were lodged at the guard house last night.

Our jovial friend McDiarmid, of the Robesonian, is in the city to-day and paid us a little visit this forenoon.

The watermelon crop is slowly playing out. It will hold, however, until oysters displace it next month.

Steamboatmen report that the Cape Fear is just about two feet and a half above dead low water mark, and falling gradually.

We understand that the ladies of Front Street M. E. Church will give one of their nice excursions on the Passport early next week.

Every Farmer ought to get a "Boys Clipper Plow," greatest invention of the age. JACOBI is the Agent.

A posse was out last night searching for Pompey Sneed, but were unsuccessful in finding him. If his capture is deemed essential, we should think it would be wise to offer a reward for him.

We invite the attention of our citizens to the fact that first quality shirts are being made to order at one dollar at the Wilmington Shirt Factory.

We have been told by one of our most observing citizens that rice birds invariably make their appearance here punctually on the 20th of August every year. If they are faithful to such a schedule they have put in an appearance here to-day.

In raking up our list yesterday of theatrical troupes booked for the Opera House this season, we omitted to mention the Neil Burgess troupe, which has also made an engagement to appear here.

Now is the time to give Smith's Worm Oil.

There was some fine sport at Smithville and the Sounds shooting marsh-hens during the recent high tides, consequent upon the Easterly winds.

Bishop Watson is in the city now and on next Sunday morning he will visit St. John's Church, where he will preach and administer the rite of confirmation.

Mr. William West has leased the premises on North Front street recently occupied by the late A. A. Hartsfield and will open there next month a saloon and billiard room.

If the weather continues favorable the excursion on the steamer Passport to-morrow, gotten up under the auspices of Harmony Lodge No. 19, Independent Order of Good Templars, will undoubtedly be well patronized, as it deserves to be.

Excursionists.
 An excursion from Durham came in this morning, arriving here at a little after 4 o'clock. There were about 250 excursionists, nearly 50 of whom were whites and the remainder were colored. They made the city have quite a lively appearance during the day.

First Ward.
 As will be seen elsewhere in this issue the Democrats of the First Ward will meet in Brooklyn Hall on the night of the 25th inst., for the purpose of making a complete and thorough organization for the campaign. It is hoped that every Democrat of that Ward may be in attendance.

For Caintuck.
 We learn that quite a number of our citizens contemplate attending the Farmers' Annual Dinner at Still Bluff, Pender county, on the 27th inst. Those who go may be sure of a good time and will find a plenty to eat as the farmer's wives and daughters of Caintuck township are noted for good cooking and a plenty of it.

Old Hundred.
 The match game of Old Hundred will be played on the grounds of the Seaside Park Base Ball Club, at Wrightsville, on Friday afternoon next. The game will be a contest between ten married men and the same number of bachelors of this city. After the game is played there will be a concert at the Seaside Park Hotel at which Mrs. D. Kahnweiler will favor the guests with some of her best vocal selections. The Cornet Concert Club will furnish instrumental music for the occasion, besides which there will be other interesting features to make the occasion attractive and pleasant.

Literary.
 The Manhattan for September has been received. It is an excellent number, its contributors being some of the best writers in the country. The articles are unusually interesting and attractive, and the presswork and typography can hardly be excelled. The Manhattan has acquired a deservedly strong hold upon the reading public, by presenting nothing mediocre in character or style of composition, and its reputation as one of the leading magazines of the country will be sustained and strengthened by the excellence of the present number. Published by the Manhattan Magazine Co., Temple Court, New York City, at $3 per annum or 25 cents per single copy.

Personal.
 Mr. W. H. Muse, of Durham, son of Mr. J. H. Muse, of the Star, arrived in the city early this morning on a flying visit to his parents and relative here.

Capt. Bixby, of the Engineer corps U. S. Army, is in the city. He is the engineer in charge of the works on the upper Cape Fear, and we learn will make his headquarters in this city for the present.

Rev. Dr. Patterson arrived in the city this morning from Florida, where he has been spending some little time. He is the guest of Mr. James C. Munds.

Platt D. Cowan, Esq., formerly of this city but for some years past a resident of Richmond, Va., is here en route to a new field of duty in South Carolina, he having been appointed Auditor of the Georgetown and Lanes R.R., a new road, 40 miles long, running from Georgetown to Lanes, on the North Eastern R. R. Mr. Cowan, it will be remembered, was for many years Auditor of the Carolina Central R. R. and will bring the fruit of his knowledge and experience in the past to bear the position he now assumes.

Another large consignment of Sash, Doors & Blinds at Factory prices, just received at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

The Sound is a fine place for raising poultry, and we hear of one lady at Wrightsville who is raising a flock of one hundred chickens. In view of our luck in raising poultry, we would suggest the propriety of getting a savage dog for the yard and a good lock on the coop.

It our neighbor of the Star had read the article in the New York Times, to which he referred this morning, he would have seen that the outlook is anything else but "squalid." He read a few introductory remarks, which he copies, and then jumps to a mistaken conclusion. We will publish the article from the Times in the REVIEW to-morrow.

Speaking of cows, there was one of them last night tramping in the vicinity of Mulberry and McRae streets, and she had a bell on. We are friendly with cows and have a real fondness for bells, especially dinner bells, but we don't like to have cows and bells together. They are well enough in the day time, but at night, when we are trying to sleep, they are an unmitigated nuisance.

Gow-ardly.
 We have often heard of a "bull in a china shop," but none of a cow in a clothing store until this morning, when one of these harmless and useful creatures rushed into the store of Mr. G. W. Penny, on Market street, and took quiet possession, frightening out the clerks and lying down in the middle of the floor. She had just come across the river on the ferry boat with another cow and as soon as she was landed, marched directly to the store and took possession as mentioned. A crowd soon collected, as is usual in such cases, and among the number one of the first whom we recognized was detective Mayer, who seemed to be anxious for "dot" license. It was an unlicensed act, but as no articles were offered for sale, the detective had no claim. The intruding cow was gotten out after considerable difficulty, when she laid down on the sidewalk. The animal appeared in good health, but manifested a decided disinclination to stand up, and after a while she was removed to the gutter and finally was hauled off on a dray. She had been driven but about two miles this morning, so that she could hardly have been overheated.

DIED.
 JEWETT—On Tuesday, May 19, 1884, at Cronly, N. C., SALLIE WALLACE, aged 23 years and 7 months, wife of Stephen Jewett and eldest daughter of Alfred and Emma Carpenter. The funeral will be at 4 o'clock, this afternoon, from St. John's Church, thence to Oakdale Cemetery. Frederickburg, Va., paper please copy.
